HARD FIGHTING BLAZES ALONG ENTIRE FRONT

Dispatches From Allied Headquarters Concede Struggle Rivals Battle For Gallipoli

BRITISH MAKE GAINS

BY ROGER GREENE
Associated Press War Editor

German armored forces counter - attacking with suicidal fury "have regained some of the ground taken by us" in the 5-day-old battle of Salerno, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command said today, while the British 8th Army raced up both sides of the Italian peninsula from the south.

By latest report, the British were pushing well beyond newly - captured Cosenza on the west coast and were only 100 miles from making a junction in support of the hard-pressed U. S. 5th Army.

A German broadcast asserted without confirmation that the Allies were withdrawing to sea from the Salerno area "which means they have abandone the enterprise altogether."

Berlin said British troops were "decisively beaten" and declared the Americans were in flight after suffering 8,000 to 10,000 casualties.

All these claims appeared exaggerated, although dispatches from Allied headquarters conceded the struggle was touch-and-go and rivalled the desperate battles at Gallipoli in World War I.

Allied tanks, infantry and planes, supported by thunderous naval salvos, fought to widen their compartively narrow bridgehead.

Heavy fighting blazed all along the 24-mile front held by the American 5th Army at Salerno, with the Germans throwing two mechanized divisions and an infantry division into the critical struggle.

There was no suggestion, however, that the American beachhead was imperilled.

Dispatches from Allied headquarters said the Germans, hastily reinforcing the estimated 15 to 20 Nazi divisions in Italy at the start aof the campaign, were pouring tens of thousands of troops into the embattled kingdom from France and posibly Russia.

The Germans, these reports said, are establishing a battle-line which may satisfy even the Russian concept of a "second front"—one which would engage at least 50 Nazi divisions.

In the south, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th Army veterans scored a 10-mile advance to capture the west coast port of Cosenza, 130 airline miles below Salerno, and pushed up the Adriatic coast to seize Bari, 65 miles above Brindisi.

Operating from mountain vantage points, the Nazis were pour-

Navy Reports Loss of U-Boat

Washington, Sept. 14—(AP)—Loss of the submarine Grenadier and two submarine chasers was reported by the navy today.

The communique also told of a Japanese raid Sunday night on the United States base on Fumafuti Island in the Ellice group in which one enemy plane was shot down and little damage was caused.

The Grenadier, reported overdue and presumed lost, apparently was one of the American submarines which have been inflicting heavy damage on Japanese supply lines throughout the Pacific.

The navy gave no indication of where the submarine made its last patrol.

The subchasers 694 and 696 went down in the Mediterranean area as a result of enemy bombing. The attack, the navy said, was made on August 23, but no additional details were disclosed.

Built at Portsmouth, N. H., the two-year-old Grenadier carried a crew of approximately 65 men. She was the 12th submarine lost since the war started. The most recent was the Pickerel, reported overdue and presumed lost on August 15.

Brief Program Is Arranged For Dinner This Evening

Following is the program for the welcoming dinner at the Conewango Valley Country Club this evening, along with the names of those in charge of the various features for the afternoon and evening and the committee on securing special advertising for this issue of the Times-Mirror:

Chairman—Donald C. Smith, president, Warren Chamber of Commerce.

Toastmaster—William E. Rice.

Welcome—R. W. Steber, burgess of Warren.

Greetings—A. F. Kottcamp, secretary, Warren Chamber of Commerce.

Response—Representative of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc.

Music by Hoefler Trio

Committees:

M. H. Deardorff—Dinner.

W. A. Walker and R. W. Mackay—Program and entertainment.

W. E. Yeager—Attendance and tickets.

C. S. Allen—Reception and golf.

Committee on securing special advertising—Emmons Jones, chairman; Byron Knapp, John Fenstermacher, William Cannon and P. M. Printz.

Honored guests: M. F. Balcom, H. W. Zimmer, R. M. Wise, G. B. Erskine, P. G. Pilkinton, S. J. Gartner, E. J. Bohensky, J. C. Farley, H. G. Kronenwetter, A. L. Chapman, C. W. Hudson, S. G. Fourth of State's 4,350,000 Registered Voters Expected To Exercise Franchise Today

Harrisburg, Sept. 14 — (AP) — Pennsylvanians voted today on candidates for one state-wide office and uncounted hundreds of county, city, borough and township posts with results of the primary election destined to determine local party leadership in many communities.

Party leaders predicted only about one-fourth of the state's 4,350,000 registered voters were taking part in the election but said tabulation likely would be slow because of the long list of candidates seeking nomination in every county. Polls close at 8 p. m.

On the ballots over the state were candidates for one superior court judgeship, 27 mayoralty posts and 49 county judgeships.

Legal sale of liquor and beer was an issue in nearly 100 places.

Nominees will bear party standards in the Nov. 2 general election and victorious factions within parties will control their local organizations regardless of who wins in November. The intra-party contests enlivened a generally listless campaign since party control will be an important factor during the important 1944 presidential and senatorial elections.

Candidates for the only state-wide office—an $18,000 a year superior court seat—were without opposition. They were sitting Judge Claude T. Reno, Republican, and County Judge Curtis Bok, Philadelphia, Democrat.

Philadelphia, Sept. 14—(AP)—William T. Connor, Republican, was out of a job as counsel for the

Mercer Hero Of First War Dies In West

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 14—(AP)—The body of Brig. Gen. Churchill Brown Mehard, 62, World War I hero who died here Sunday, likely will be returned to his native town of Mercer, Pa., for funeral services and burial, his wife said today.

Mehard was awarded 14 medals in the war, including the Distinguished Service Cross. The King of Italy bestowed knighthood upon him, and the governments of France and Belgium gave him awards.

Afterwards, in his civilian life in Pittsburgh grief came to the lawyer. In 1930, he was the principal figure in a consent verdict scandal which sent him and three other attorneys to jail and resulted in the disbarment of a half dozen others.

Named city solicitor of Pittsburgh, Mehard in a little over a year agreed to verdicts against the city in personal damage cases, without trial, of more than $350,000. He was convicted of taking bribes and sentenced to three years in jail. After serving 15 months he was paroled because of failing health.

Mehard was a son of Judge Samuel Mehard of the Mercer county court and upon his father's death was reputed to have inherited $1,000,000.

Distintegrating Jap Remnants Offer Little Resistance to Allies

"SIMPLY RUNNING OUT"

By the Associated Press

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today that only "disintegrating" Japanese remnants—survivors of a force once estimated at 20,000—fought on against American and Australian troops driving toward the big enemy stronghold at Lae in northeast New Guinea.

A communique said the Japanese, in ragged flight from newly-fallen Salamaua 18 miles south of Lae, were striving to keep open a single jungle trail of retreat to Lae.

Dispatches said the enemy, discarding their death-stand tactics of past campaigns, "simply ran" out of bomb-gutted Salamaua town and let the Australians move in, as they had done 24 hours earlier at nearby Salamaua airdrome.

Political Battle In Washington Co.

Washington, Pa., Sept. 14—(AP)—Climaxing a bitter Democratic political fight, 15 persons were arrested yesterday on charges of criminal libel and of distributing pamphlets libelling political candidates.

Merle Spandau, of Pittsburgh, one of those taken into custody, was charged with conspiracy in the issuance of 14,000 handbills. He posted $500 bond in Allegheny county.

The other 14, who said they were employed at a Pittsburgh distributing company, were charged with distributing the pamphlets which Harvey Stuart, Washington county controller and Democratic county chairman, claimed libeled him and other candidates.

Stuart said the four-page booklets contained statements "reflecting upon the political integrity" of himself, District Attorney George Cummins and Joseph Yablonski, international board member of the United Mine Workers of America.

BRYANSK IS CAPTURED BY SOVIET ARMY

Fortress City, Breaching Enemy's Main Defense Line Before Dnieper River, Is Seized

EVACUATION ADMITTED

By E.C. DANIAL

London, Sept. 14—(AP)—Russian troops captured the fortress city of Bryansk last night, breaching the Germans' main defense line before the Dnieper river by seizure of that pivot of central and southern German battle lines and center of a railway spiderweb serving both fronts.

Evacuation of the keystone city, held by the Germans since October, 1941, was acknowledged today by the German radio soon after Moscow reported that the onpouring Red army was closing in on the city some 80 miles west of Orel, on the west bank of the Desna river.

Disruption of the rail network vital for German winter transport heightened belief in London that the backward - scurrying Nazis would not be able to halt their retreat now before reaching the west bank of the Dnieper.

The speed of their withdrawal toward Kiev and Dnieperopetrovsk on the lower reaches of the river, where only three inadequate bridges and ferry crossings are available, raised hopes that large forces of Nazis might be trapped on the east bank of the Dnieper or even be overtaken while attempting to cross it.

The German broadcast by DNB declared Bryansk (normal population 87,000) had been evacuated in good order, and the troops had not been encircled or injured to "a considerable degree."

Again Berlin preceded Moscow in announcing the victory for Russian arms.

Other Russian forces were storming ahead toward Kiev and the Dnieper river on sectors of the front which extended southward from Bryansk to the Sea of Azov and the gateway to the Crimea, the Moscow bulletin disclosed.

Temporary Station At Broad Street

Philadelphia, Sept. 14—(AP)—If trains didn't run all the way to the Pennsylvania Railroad's Broad Street station, where the train sheds were swept by a $250,000 fire Sunday, they came within a block of it today.

And passengers boarded them from a temporary wooden platform which workmen imported with carloads of material from other points on the system started to build before the flames died down.

The city's fire bureau, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and city detectives, meanwhile, continued looking into the cause of the eight-alarm blaze. Public Safety Director James H. alone said after a hearing yesterday that his department would file a report today. It will contain "nothing startling," he added.

Milk Prices In State To Be Adjusted

Harrisburg, Sept. 14—(AP)—New tentative price orders will be issued soon by the Milk Control Commission to complete the adjustment program now underway in Pennsylvania, Commissioner H. N. Cobb reported today.

The commission yesterday tentatively boosted retail prices in half the state and advanced prices paid producers. Cobb said additional orders will cover the rest of Pennsylvania except Philadelphia where prices are under federal control. He said he could not disclose effect of the forthcoming orders.

Cobb pointed out prices ordered by the commission are subject to approval by the Office of Price Administration and added: "We haven't any indication of what action they will take."

Before submitting the tentative orders to the OPA, the commission will hold a series of conferences with interested parties, as required by a 1943 law which also took from the governor the right to pass on commission orders.

Brings Industry To Old Home Town

Benjamin G. Erskine

To the People of Warren:

Hello, Friends:

It is a tremendous pleasure for me to be able to greet you through the columns of the Warren Times-Mirror to make sure of reaching you all.

We of Sylvania are glad that, after a wide survey of available sites, personnel considerations and other faetors, Warren has been chosen as the location of our newest plant. I have particular reason for being pleased about it, because ever since the time I lived in Warren, quite a few years ago, it has always seemed like home to me. When I lived here, hardly a day went by that did not give new evidence of the warm cordiality and the friendly neighborliness that have always marked this community. I can't say I know every one of you, but I can say that I know a great many Warren people, and I am sure I would enjoy knowing every last one.

This community is again being called on to put its shoulder to the wheel in a time of national crisis. With America engaged in the greatest war of all history, we are all asked to contribute as much as we can to speed the victory. The new Sylvania plant here will give many of you a chance to help defeat the enemy. Knowing Warren as I do, I have told my associates to look for some surprising production figures when full operations begin.

Due to present day conditions, we cannot be too specific as to the operations in this new plant. But I can say that when the war is won, and the full story may be revealed, the name of Warren will blaze a little more brightly in the history books, for important work is to be done here.

My best wishes to each and every one of you.

Cordially,

B. G. ERSKINE,
Chairman of the Board
Sylvania Electric Products, Inc.

Algiers Radio Reports Bitter Riots In Rome

London, Sept. 14—(AP)—Bitter street fighting in Rome was reported by the Algiers radio today even as German propagandists were proclaiming the rebirth of Fascism under Benito Musolini's personal command with a prediction that he would cancel Italy's capitulation, reorganize the Italian army and pronounce the end of the rule of the House of Savoy.

"Bitter opposition to the presence of the German forces in Italy is spreading all over the country," radio Algiers reported, in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press. "In the Balkans, too, German troops have been challenged everywhere by Italian soldiers."

"Fierce fighting has occurred in Belbrade. Two thousand Italian soldiers are in the mountains of Montenegro where they are fighting against the Germans. The Balkans are seething with unrest and fighting."

MRS. ROOSEVELT BIDS N. ZEALAND GOODBYE

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 14—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt left Australia today, ending an 11-day visit.

(Mrs. Roosevelt's destination was not given in the dispatch, probably for reasons of security. She visited New Zealand before going to Australia.)

Fatalities on State Roads Show a Drop

Harrisburg, Sept. 14—(AP)—The Department of Revenue today reported fatal accidents on Pennsylvania streets and highways dropped 31.8 per cent during the first seven months of this year compared with the same period in 1942.

A report by the department's bureau of highway safety showed 103 fatalities in July brought the seven-month total to 666 as against 1,053 last year. Rural areas accounted for 321 of the 1943 deaths, compared with 547 in 1942, while 345 died in cities this year against 506 last year.

"Special efforts must be made by all of us—operators, pedestrians and cyclists to drive and walk in such a manner that we will avoid accidents," the bureau warned.

The bureau said the sharp increase in fatalities in July—with 103 dead—over June, when 69 were killed, "must be attributed to carelessness in both driving and walking," after pointing out there was no marked increase in travel in July.

The report also showed 47 pedestrians were killed in July, increasing the number for the year so far to 352, a 29.7 per cent decline from the same 1942 period, when 501 were killed.

Growth From Small Beginning to Present Position As One of Foremost Industries of Its Kind, One of Steady and Well-Founded Progress

HEADED BY B. G. ERSKINE, FORMER LOCAL MAN

Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., Warren's newest industry, is a company which we can all be glad to welcome to our community. Its growth from a small beginning to its present position as the country's second largest manufacturer of radio tubes and the third largest manufacturer of incandescent and fluorescent lamps has been one of steady, well-founded progress.

At the turn of the present century, Frank A. Poor, who was to become founder of the Hygrade Lamp Company, was the ambitious son of a successful leather manufacturer. Young Mr. Poor at that time had traveled to Michigan and elsewhere helping his father to organize leather factories and build up new business enterprises. A true Yankee type, the elder Mr. Poor did not believe in giving his son unearned wealth, but agreed to lend him $20,000, with which Frank Poor set up a hay and grain business in Salem, Mass.

This "horse and buggy" industry flourished under Frank Poor's guidance. In one year he had made the not unsatisfactory profit of $3,500. Most men would have continued in a business started so auspiciously, but young Mr. Poor noticed the occasional horseless carriage chugging along the dirt roads and made a momentous decision. He repaid his father's loan of $20,000, took his $3,500 and went in search of a business more in tune with the future.

It is now just forty-two years since Frank A. Poor decided to invest his entire capital in a tiny electrical concern in Middleton, Mass., owned by an inventor named Matthew Merritt. Electric light in those days was generated by crude carbon lamps. Merritt had a method for taking burned-out lamps, cutting the tips off them, removing the burned-out carbon filament with a special instrument, putting a new carbon in place, exhausting the air in the bulb and once more resealing them.

FATHER DRAFT REFERRED TO HIGHER UPS

TO SURVEY MANPOWER

Washington, Sept. 14—(AP)—Senator Wheeler disclosed today he will oppose all administration attempts to delay a senate vote on his bill to halt the drafting of fathers into the armed forces.

He added that he was amending the proposal to prohibit "indefinitely" the induction of fathers, instead of postponing such action until January 1, as it now provides.

"I am going to call up the bill for action the very first opportunity I have," Wheeler said.

The declaration was Wheeler's answer to administration proposals to delay action pending a further statement from General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the fleet.

BY JACK BELL

Washington, Sept. 14—(AP)—The administration shifted the explosive father draft issue ginerly over to the high command's door step today as a recharged congress met again after 10 weeks of canvassing home town sentiment on the home and foreign fronts.

Calling for a statement of manpower needs by the chiefs of the army and navy, Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) made known a desire for few days delay in consideration of the Wheeler bill which would postpone the drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers until after Jan. 1.

Brewster Guards Given Discharges

Philadelphia, Sept. 14—(AP)—Two of four Brewster Aeronautical Corporation guards whose arrest precipitated a strike late last month at Brewster's Johnsille, Pa., plant, have been given "bad conduct discharges" from the U. S. Coast Guard Reserve (temporary), the Fourth Naval District announced.

The guards, Richard Belli and Kenneth Bodine, were found guilty by a navy court martial of disobeying Coast Guard officers at the plant, the navy said. Verdicts in the cases of two other guards, Fred Darling and Robert Spratt, tried by the navy on the same charge, have not been made public.

All four contended that as members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) Union they were entitled to choose their assignments on the basis of seniority.

Compulsory Labor Bill Is Discussed

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, Sept. 14—(AP)—A Republican prediction that the White House soon may take a definite stand on compulsory work legislation was voiced today as Chairman May (D-Ky) of the house military committee called for suspension of the father-draft until congress makes a manpower survey.

May made his suggestion as Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY) told reporters he had encountered "acute" interest in a national service bill which he introduced early this year. The New Yorker, co-author of the present draft law, said he would not be surprised to see the administration get actively behind a proposal such as he has suggested.

With a national election in the offing, Wadsworth said he believed the only thing holding up a definite administration stand now is "the possible political consequences."

Wadsworth's bill would require the registration of virtually all adult men and women citizens and make them subject to assignment to work where needed. Women with small children would be exempt.

Organized labor has bitterly opposed the proposal in the past, and during hearings several months ago Paul V. McNutt, War Manpower Commissioner, refused to take a stand on it.

Since then, however, the manpower has announced it will be necessary to draft fathers starting Oct. 1.

CONSECRATION TO BE HELD IN HARRISBURG

Harrisburg, Sept. 14—(AP)—Consecration of the Very Rev. J. Thomas Heistand as bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal diocese of Harrisburg is scheduled tomorrow morning at St. Steven's Cathedral here.

The new position of the former dean of St. Steven's will give him direction over 88 churches in 24 central Pennsylvania counties. He will succeed the Rt. Rev. Hunter Wyatt Brown who resigned because of ill health.

Government Roll-Back on Retail Food Costs Planned

Mr. Poor soon bought out Merritt, moved the company from Middleton to Danvers, Mass., and changed the name to the Bay State Electric Company.

Employe Buys Own Company

At almost the same time a company called the Novelty Incandescent Lamp Company had been organized in St. Marys, Pa. It was bought out by the Howard Lumber interests Emporium. At first, it had been the plan to make novelty lights in the shape of pigs, hams, pickles, etc., but this idea was abandoned almost immediately in favor of concentrating on refilled and new carbon standard type lamps. The business began in a barn-like structure 45x50 feet. An electrical contractor, C. W. Beckley, was called in to do the wiring and other electrical work. Beckley's representative was a young Warren resident named B. G. Erskine. The new company had such difficulties in keeping its equipment working that the management finally asked Mr. Erskine to come with them as an electrical engineer. He accepted and it was not long before he was put in charge of the plant at St. Marys, and later over both the St. Marys and Emporium plants.

The Novelty Incandescent Lamp Company carried on despite numerous difficulties until 1910, when the General Motors Corporation bought it from the Howard interests. Eventually W. C. Durant, colorful and meteoric industrial operator who was head of General Motors at that time, made the acquaintance of Mr. Erskine. Pleased with the results of the plant, he decided to place Mr. Erskine in complete charge. It was under the General Motors ownership that the Novelty Incandescent Lamp's business first began to flourish.

After Durant left General Motors, another series of negotiations took place and the plants were purchased by the General Electric Company, which operated them as its Keystone Division for a little over a year. Faced with the post-war business panic of 1921, however, General Electric decided to close the plants. It was at this critical moment that Mr. Erskine, assisted by two associates, Guy S. Felt and J. C. Wortman, pooled their resources in order to put through a courageous and constructive plan. They offered to buy the plant from the General Electric. This was considered a highly unusual procedure by General Electric, but the deal finally was put through. Messrs. Erskine, Felt and Wortman could rightfully feel that their jobs and the jobs of hundreds of others, as well as important business in the two communities, had been saved. By vigorous work they were able to overcome the difficulties created by the one-year panic, and the newly named Nilco (initials of the former name) Lamp Works soon was prospering under its new management.

Back at Danvers, the Bay State Electric Company also had been faced with numerous problems. Both companies were having difficulty in finding the money to meet payrolls and other expenses. Equipment was crude and inefficient. In 1908, however, Mr. Frank Poor's brother, E. J. Poor, joined the company, and the manufacture of new carbon lamps was begun. This marked the introduction of the name Hygrade, and the name was changed to the Hygrade Lamp Company.

Hygrade Makes It "The Great White Way"

In 1911, Mr. W. E. Poor, who had graduated from Massacusetts Institute of Technology and had worked for two years as an engineer on the Boston to Cambridge subway of the Boston Elevated Railway, joined the Company. He began to develop a small low wattage sign lamp. There was a relatively large profit on this type of lamp and Hygrade was so successful in merchandising them that by 1912 there were 30,000 Hygrade Lamps visible from Times Square, New York.

Put Hygrade Over The Hump

These developments put Mr. Poor's Hygrade Lamp Company over the hump, and eliminated any serious danger of being forced out of business either by competition or lack of finances. The manufacture of tungsten filament lamps had been started in 1911 and continued to meet with success. The concern was incorporated in 1912. Four years later, Hygrade moved from Danvers to the present location, 60 Boston street, Salem. The shift was made over the weekend, and was accomplished so efficiently that production increased rather than fell off. This favorable trend continued. The Hygrade sales organization extended in the next year to the Pacific Coast, and a highlight was a contract to handle all lighting for the new buildings of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

By this time, both the Hygrade and Nilco groups were important independents in the highly competitive lamp field. In 1917, Mr. Frank Poor expanded production and entered new fields of manufacture under a patent-holder, licensing agreement. Nilco produced a similar agreement and both firms developed rapidly.

Start Manufacture of Radio Tubes

In 1923, the Nilco plant had been moved back to St. Marys and the Emporium factory had been closed. But in 1924, under the leadership of Mr. Erskine, a new concern called the Sylvania Products Company was formed for the manufacture of radio tubes in this then infant industry. Commercial radio at this time was only four years old—The Harding-Cox presidential returns had been broadcast from KDKA in 1920. Operations soon began in Emporium. Sales and production outstripped all expectations despite severe competition and by 1925 Sylvania tubes were being nationally advertised and distributed, finding an eager market.

Meanwhile, Hygrade also had become interested in the new field, and in 1929 began to manufacture radio tubes under the trade name of Neptron in a factory in Beverly, Massachusetts. The name was soon changed to Hygrade and production was moved to Salem.

Radio was booming. In 1929, Sylvania Products built its new factory in Emporium and radio tubes became the major part of the Nilco-Sylvania business. Emporium was cited by newspapers as one of the few communities not to feel the effects of the depression by 1930. Production had reached 40,000 tubes a day and the company boasted 1,000 employees.

By this time, Hygrade, having bought out a number of small competitors, was making speedy progress in the incandescent lamp field; and Hygrade radio tubes pushed ahead rapidly.

A Combination of Strength

In July 1931, Hygrade Sylvania Corporation was organized by combining the Hygrade Lamp Company and the Sylvania Products-Nilco Lamp interests. It was a combination of strength. All lamps thenceforward were manufactured under the name Hygrade and all radio tubes were marketed with the Sylvania brand. Plans were laid for still greater production of both types of products. The combination of the Hygrade Sylvania Corporation created the largest independent producer of radio tubes and electric light bulbs in the world.

By 1933, net sales of Hygrade Sylvania had passed the seven-million-dollar mark. A sales and executive office was opened at 500 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Further electronics development in the manufacture of transmitting tubes overflowed to Clifton, New Jersey, but today this and other experimental work is being conducted at Emporium. In 1936 the Company opened one of the finest modern factories in the East, when its present Loring Avenue radio tube division in Salem was put into production. At this time, experiments were in progress on the possibilities in the use of fluorescent material for lighting purposes.

Fluorescent Creates Vast New Field

By 1939, extensive experiments of the Research Department came to fruition with the introduction of fluorescent lighting to the public. Their product and rights in this field were based in part on the Cox patent, issued to one of their Research Engineers, a pioneer in this work, James L. Cox.

Public response to Hygrade fluorescent lighting was immediate. Sales boomed in spite of alert competition. It soon became apparent, however, that there was need for a complete "package" of fluorescent lighting. This lead to the development of the nationally famous Hygrade Fluorescent Fixtures which were first offered to the public in 1939.

So great was the increase in the rate of production of fluorescent fixtures that it became necessary to take space in a factory in Ipswich, Massachusetts. This space has been enlarged and the number of employees greatly increased. It became necessary also to construct a new plant for the manufacture of fluorescent lamps and Spectron sign lamp tubing. This resulted in construction of an ultra-modern factory in Danvers, Massachusetts.

Constructive growth has continued. The year 1938 marked the construction of two additional wings to the Emporium radio tube plant. In 1940 the company purchased a fluorescent powder plant at Towanda, Pa. to provide a source of fluorescent powders and other materials. This entrance into the fluorescent lighting field has resulted in developing sales of auxiliary products like Mirastat starters, sockets, switches, and other fluorescent auxiliaries. Many of these are sold to foreign countries.

Radio has also felt the stimulus of the war due to the tremendous importance of radio communications and equipment. Additional plants have been acquired which, because of the nature of their products, cannot be publicized. It may only be said that the work being done in them contributes directly to the war effort.

About a year ago the company changed its name from Hygrade Sylvania Corporation to Sylvania Electric Products Inc. This move has contributed to the establishing of a single name—Sylvania—for the Company's entire family of products. Since then the objective has been to give meaning to the name—to make it a mark of respect on anything to which it is attached—to establish it as a symbol of a thing superlatively good, wherever that symbol be found.

Establishment of the new Sylvania plant in Warren is further proof that national and world-wide markets have created a vast demand for the products stamped "Sylvania."

Americans And Anzacs Drive Toward Lae

Capture of Salamaua gives the Allies an important offensive base only 150 miles across Dampier Strait from Japanese-held New Britain.

Meanwhile, Allied long-range bombers plastered 10 Japanese bases from Makassar in the Dutch Celebes to the Solomon Islands and blew up gun batteries in the enemy's doomed citadel at Lae.

In Washington, the latest attack by U. S. army bombers on Japan's Kurtle Island base at Paramushiro was seen as the first payoff from the American conquest of the Aleutians.

Five Japanese ships, including two transports, were sunk or damaged in the raid of the big port, the key to Tokyo from the north, and U. S. fliers shot down 10 to 13 enemy fighters in a 50-minute running battle. Four American planes were lost and six others were missing.

On the Burma front, American and RAF warplanes hammered the Japanese over a wide area, blasting rail and river targets and Japanese troop encampments.

Sweeping Price Reductions Are Designed To Lower Cost Of Living By 2.3 Per Cent

Washington, Sept. 14—(AP)—General Manager Chester Bowles of the Office of Price Administration has announced a sweeping price reduction program designed to lower the cost of living for consumers by 2.3 per cent and effect substantial savings in retail prices of potatoes, lard, apples, oranges, and other products.

The roll back would be accomplished through a $100,000,000 government program of transportation subsidies, government crop purchase and resale, and in the case of peanut butter and probably lard, rollback subsidies within the financial limits set by congress.

Partial effects of the program will be felt by mid-October or November, Bowles told a press conference.

It will be followed up with a price program on winter fruits and vegetables, which Bowles said would bring their prices down to "about 15 percent less than last winter."

The $100,000,000 now is available, but additional funds from congress will be necessary, Bowles said, in order to hold down the price of milk.

Asserting that some action would be necessary very soon to put a lid on milk prices and still encourage expanded output from dairy farms, Bowles said he hoped congress would approve the use of a subsidy or production bonus payments to producers.

The OPA program expected to be announced shortly will, according to Bowles, achieve the following price reductions to consumers on staple grocery store items:

Apples: A cut of 8.75 or 9 cents a pound, by comparison with prices of 10, 12 or 15 cents at present; a decline of 17 per cent.

Oranges: A cut of 9.7 cents a pound at retail, as an annual compared with a present average of 11.2 cents a pound.

Potatoes: A rollback to 3.5 cents a pound annual average, compared with four cents and up.

Lard, vegetable oils, and salad oils: Down one cent a pound. The lard average now is 18.9 cents.

Peanut butter: A new top ceiling of 26.5 cents a pound compared with the present level of about 33.3 cents.

Bowles said the food price actions shortly to be taken, coupled with improved compliance and enforcement measures, would bring the national cost of living down to a level only 1.2 or 1.3 per cent above the September 15 level.

The new enforcement procedures, shortly to be announced, will themselves accomplish slightly more than a one point reduction in living costs, Bowles said.

The new ceiling on winter fruits and vegetables, he added, will "hit everything, including even Persian melons and watermelons."

Fruits and vegetables went up 60 per cent in price last winter, Bowles said, and "this performance will not be repeated."

That increase contributed to a 12 per cent gain in all food prices last winter and this in turn was largely respnsible for a 6.2 per cent increase in the entire cost of living.

Obituary

ROBERT J. WELD

Funeral services were held at Winslow, Wash., Monday for Robert J. Weld, well known resident and former postmaster of Sugar Grove, who died Friday at the home of his brother, Fred F. Weld. Following cremation, his ashes will be shipped to Sugar Grove for interment in Cherry Hill cemetery.

Mr. Weld, oldest son of William W. and Christina Falconer Weld, was born October 27, 1868 on the Weld Homestead near Sugar Grove. He lived there nearly all his lifetime, leaving less than a year ago to live with his brother. Also surviving are a son, Arlo Weld, of Sugar Grove, and two grandsons, Norman J. and Allen A. Weld, both of the same place.

He held a life membership in the Grange and had been a lifelong member of the Presbyterian church, serving it as an elder for many years. He served the community as postmaster for two terms.

Memorial services will be held next Sunday, September 19, at 3 p. m. in the Sugar Grove Presbyterian church, conducted by his pastor, Rev. Carl Perrin.

ROTARY MEETING

Rotary Club members attending yesterday's luncheon-session at the YWCA activities building heard Addison White, prothonotary, give an excellent talk on the life of Henry R. Rouse. He dwelt particularly on the unusual document that was Mr. Rouse's will and expressed the belief that more honor and reverence should be paid the memory of one to whom the county owes so muuch. Mr. White was introduced to the group by H. M. Stevenson, program chairman.

Significantly perhaps, Barkley told reporters he believed the country is confused by the uncertainty that has marked attempts to meet the manpower issue—that the people are worried because they don't know what to expect and because no individual knows just where he stands.

To clarify this situation, Barkley proposed that Sen. George C. Marshal army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet, be summoned before the military affairs committee, while the Wheeler bill is held on the senate calendar for action next week. This, he indicated, would enable congress to obtain an authoritative statement of the armed forces' needs before it is called upon to act.

FROLIC A SUCCESS

The Horse Frolic held at Corry last Sunday by the No-Bar Riding Club was a great success. Several from Warren county participated and among the winners were: Ernest Brown, of Youngsville; Carol Stockton, Columbus; Helen Anderson, Sugar Grove; Sherry Stockton, Columbus; Carol Stockton, Columbus.

MISTAKE IN DATE

In the article handed to the Times-Mirror relative to the meeting of restaurant owners to be held at the court house it was stated that the meeting would be held Tuesday evening. This was in error and the meeting will be held Wednesday evening, September 15. Those interested are asked to make note of the change.

HAD TWO RUNS

Firemen had two runs yesterday, both of them grass fires. The first sent the firemen to the woods at the west end of the city where from 2:10 until 3:04 they gave battle to flames. The second was also a grass fire and took the firemen to Main street on the South Side where a fire had caught along the railroad tracks. No damage was done in either fire.

CHILD WAS LOST

Lorie Rankin, 104½ North Carver street, last evening gave her parents a scare when she wandered away from home. The police were notified and in a short time located the child near Jackson street on North Carver. The child was not one whit excited over her adventure when the police picked her up and returned her to her home.

THROWN FROM WHEEL

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Whittington, of the Indian Run road, is nursing some serious cuts and bruises about his face, neck and head as a result of being thrown from a bicycle. The lad was riding down a steep hill, when he lost control of the machine and was thrown heavily to the ground. The boy was taken to Youngsville for medical treatment and then returned to his home.

USE MONEY ORDERS

When sending money to service men and women overseas, send it by postal money order and not by checks on American banks, the Red Cross advised. Information from the overseas Red Cross stated that checks on American banks cannot be cashed overseas and so are worthless. Many relatives and friends are sending such checks and they are of no value to the soldiers.

TO EXTEND SERVICE

Announcement has been made by the West Ridge Bus Company of the addition of two more daily trips between Warren and Jamestown. The new runs on a 365 day basis will be as follows: Leave Warren at 9:15 a. m. and leave Jamestown at 12:10 p. m.. The 5:20 bus to Warren which replaces the 6:15 p. m. bus to Warren from Jamestown is designed for the accommodation of war workers and shoppers and for those wishing to board the eastbound Pennsylvania train leaving Warren at 8:18 p. m.

Neck Broken In Plunge Off Load of Hay

Robert Bugbee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bugbee, who resides on a farm near Garland, is at his home confined to bed with a broken neck which his attending physician thinks will take at least three months to heal.

The young man was at work last Sunday assisting in hauling in hay from a field when the horses gave a sudden plunge and the youth was thrown to the ground. He was brought to Warren for medical attention and, after having the bone in his neck set, was returned to his home. He will be forced to wear a brace on his neck for some time.

Moose Lodge Starts Drive For Members

Warren Lodge No. 109, Loyal Order of Moose, with 150 men of the local group in the various services of the United States, has a campaign underway to replace them in the lodge membership. The campaign opened on September 1st, and it is being directed by Gust Sandstrom, who has led several of the large membership drives.

Plans are being laid for the class initiation to be held in the Moose building on Hickory street on Sunday afternoon, October 31st, which is the anniversary of the founding of Mooseheart, the famous children's home of the order. Paul P. Schmitz, director of the membership enrollment department, will be the guest speaker.

Announcement is also made that the lodge meetings throughout the fall and winter months will be held on the first and third Wednesdays of each month.

WELCOME, SYLVANIA ELECTRIC PRODUCTS, INC.

In this era of turmoil and world strife, the quickening of the community pulse by the location of the new plant of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., in Warren gives an immense lift to every citizen.

War projects which will become stagnated with the coming of peace are swelling many towns in the section and making them boom. Too few plants are being located which, with the coming of peace, will find their products facing a loosened market and an era of prosperity.

Post-war planning today is endeavoring to find some means to take up the slack with the end of the war and to have a plant placed in the community which, at the coming of peace, will find its markets enlarged is a rare piece of good fortune for any town.

Thus it is that Warren welcomes Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., in a two-fold manner today.

The Chamber of Commerce in assisting the company to find a home here has built well. It has aided the borough and its people today and with the coming of peace it will continue to give that aid.

The Sylvania manufactures a product that will not pass out of the picture with the last shot of battle. Its field in peace time will be multiplied and future growth assured.

To that end Warren extends a sincere welcome to the Sylvania and its men and women who will come here to make their home. We invite them to be one with us; to enjoy our town and its facilities for life. Our churches open their doors, our social environs beckon to each and every man, woman and child in Warren with a sense that not only by word, but by deed, can we make our new townsfolk feel at home.

This is especially true since "Ben" Erskine is a former Warren boy, one who left here for a larger field. Mrs. Erskine, a former Warren girl, is also due for a modicum of welcome when she returns "home."

So all Warren today gives a hale and hearty welcome to Sylvania, its genial president, his wife and the men and women who will make Sylvania a home-town plant.

WARREN'S LARGEST NEWSPAPER ISSUE

Undoubtedly one of the outstanding achievements of the Times Publishing Company in its many years of service to Warren is today's edition welcoming to Warren the Sylvania Products Company. Such an issue from a plant in a town the size of Warren is remarkable, both in conception and execution. The preparation of such a newspaper is out of the ordinary and it truly represents a milestone in the life of the city.

Another remarkable fact relative to the publication of the paper is the unanimity with which merchants and manufacturers of the city have used it to express to the Sylvania Company their hearty welcome to Warren. Perhaps never before has there been such a universal outpouring of public appreciation as is evidenced in this edition. Seemingly there was no firm too small to give words of welcome to the company coming into the city, while the larger firms were more extensive in their words and space.

A perusal of the various pages in this issue shows what a diversity there is in the manufacturing life of Warren and how during the past few years the type of manufacturing has changed. Where once Warren had few metal working industries and all of its factories, with few exceptions, were oil or wood working plants, the majority are now devoted to working in metals.

Warren's mercantile life has also changed greatly during the past decade and this, too, is evidenced in the advertising of the merchants now doing business in the city.

All in all, the people of this city are to be congratulated on the splendid support given the Chamber of Commerce in its effort to build a greater Warren and bring in new industries that will add to the prosperity of the community.

The part of this special edition is dedicated to the men and women from this community who have entered the Armed Services of Our Nation. Every effort has been made to have this list complete with the name of every person from the county now serving Uncle Sam. It is possible some names may have been omitted, in which case we urge that we be so notified so that they may be printed in an additional list later. We sincerely appreciate assistance received from the Veterans' Service Bureau and staffs of both Local Draft boards in gathering the names for the list.

In case your curiosity should impel you to count the names in this issue kindly let us know. We haven't had the time!

Winnie's Not Worried About a Post-War Job

Washington In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich.—For the second time in four months, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, walked into a conference of national importance and stole the show from some of the best politicians this country has—outside the White House.

First it was at the annual conference of state governors at Columbus, Ohio, in June; second, it was here at Mackinac Island where 19 governors, four senators and as many more representatives and GOP party officials assembled for the Republican postwar advisory council meeting. The jaunty, smiling young executive of the Empire state ruffled the waters of Lake Huron in a breezy hour-long press conference in which he didn't duck a single question or dodge one important issue.

SMOKING cigarettes in a moderately long holder that made many of the press corps feel that they were questioning a young edition of the President, Governor Dewey laid down his thesis for postwar foreign policy in no uncertain terms. He referred to his previous declaration that the U. S. should join "other nations to secure the peace of the world, by force if necessary."

Continuing with a blast at the New Deal, which he said in effect, started off wrong and had been getting steadily worse for ten years on the domestic front, Dewey revived his theory that ex-presidents should be life members of the Senate; vice-presidents, life members of the House, and that a place should be found for all experienced government officials, regardless of party affiliations.

Even when it came around to answering the query of "can you comment, Governor Dewey, on the report that Sen. Charles McNary has predicted that you will be the Republican presidential nominee next year?" Dewey didn't duck.

He said: "If the report is true, Charlie has been having a pipe dream." But when one veteran Washington political reporter observed: "Senator McNary has very few", Dewey joined in the general laughter.

I COULDN'T find a member of this council, who would talk at all on the subject, who didn't feel that if the convention were held tomorrow, the floor fight would be between the backers of Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell L. Willkie. The alternative expressed was that the convention might be deadlocked and Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio; Gov. John W. Bricker, from the same state; Gov. Earl Warren, of California, or some other dark horse might be advanced as the 1944 nominee. Some old timers, however, scoffed at the idea there could possibly be any deadlock.

All of which brings us back to the governor of New York. Some felt that the old line Republicans tried to relegate him to oblivion when they left him off the permanent foreign policy and international relations committee; made him a member of postwar enterprise, industry and employment, and chairman only of the reform of government administration committee.

I have talked to Dewey since. If he's disappointed I couldn't discover it.

Hollywood Gossip

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Miss Tallulah Bankhead said, in that wonderful throaty voice of hers, "Have some coffee? Oh, do have some coffee. I just clap my hands and it appears—isn't it wonderful!"

I didn't want any coffee, but I couldn't deny a great stage lady the pleasure of a demonstration. She didn't clap her hands. She stepped outside her dressing room and called, "George! Two coffees, please," and pretty soon George and two coffees appeared. Good coffees.

Miss Bankhead was in good spirits, and she didn't frighten me a bit. She was supposed to be a terror, a wildcat who might claw into Hollywood and tear it to pieces—and you too if you happened to be in the way. So I never had a better time in my life. I never met a woman I liked better, a personality any brighter, friendlier, or more interesting and full of warmth. (George, bring me a fresh tray of adjectives.)

AS for Hollywood, Tallulah said she liked it and never had said she didn't. She thought it was wonderful working here—the coffee, and scarcely having to lift a finger for herself. "Somebody does everything for me—my hair, my clothes, everything," —and even so, making pictures was twice as hard as stage-acting.

"There, it's three hours a night and your work's done," she said, "but here it's all day long. Some people say the waiting between scenes is the hardest, but I'll never think so. I'm a lazy Southern gal, and I just love waiting around."

Tallulah is making her first movie ("Lifeboat") in eleven years. Last time she left, she said things about Hollywood's climate, and the uproar was terrific. The chamber of commerce and many other Hollywoodians took it as a personal affront.

"You see," Tallulah explained, "when I went back to New York I knew my pictures had all been bad. I had friends out here. What could I say? I thought that though God might not forgive me, people might understand if I said I didn't like the climate."

So Tallulah was being very discreet about the climate this trip. She wasn't even mentioning that she loved England's fogs.

SHE had wanted to make movies again, and had had a number of offers, but never at the right time with what she considered a suitable vehicle. This time she didn't feel up to going on tour with the hit play, "Skin of Our Teeth," and when Alfred Hitchcock sent her the first part of the "Lifeboat" script she was fascinated.

"He called me long distance and outlined briefly how it finished," she said, "and so I came on out. Subconsciously, I think, I'd been afraid of pictures because I might have a poor one. I do have some position on the stage and I wouldn't want to jeopardize it. But this time I'm reasonably sure our picture will come off."

The Farnsworth rearing ponds have added thousands of trout to the streams of the Allegheny National Forest. The management of the forest in adding fish to the streams is working to make the forest a real fisherman's paradise.

On April 1 of this year the N. K. Wendelboe Company observed its 67th anniversary, oldest firm in Warren still doing business under its original name.

Warren boasts some of the best bowlers in the section and the maples drop by the thousands during the season when the dozen or more leagues are under way.

BOND DRIVE NEEDS YOUR DOLLARS

"Rainy Day Cash" Must Do Its Part

State Campaign Head

E. A. Roberts, Chairman of The War Finance Committee for Pennsylvania in charge of the Third War Loan.

"Bring Out the Mattress Money!"

That is the command for citizens of Pennsylvania as the Third War Loan now gets fully under way this week.

This money is needed, and also all funds not actually required for necessary living expenses, in order that we shall "BACK THE ATTACK."

Our men on the fighting fronts are surging ahead. They are proving their ability to succeed in the face of terrible dangers. They will not stop but they must have supplies and equipment.

The duty of those at home is to provide that equipment—provide both the funds to pay for the materiel required; and also by ceaseless energy of our workers produce the articles themselves.

The national government has called on Pennsylvanians to purchase one billion seventy-one million dollars of securities in this Third War Loan.

This vast sum is equivalent to the sale of a $100 bond for every man, woman and child in the Commonwealth. It is a high goal, but this country is in this War for the highest of goals, "The preservation of Democracy." The part that the citizens of Pennsylvania are now called on to play is no more than our just share of the great national effort.

E. A. Roberts, chairman of the War Finance Committee for Pennsylvania and the leader of the Third War Loan Campaign has pointed out that the money is available. Some of it has been stored away for a rainy day and has been out of circulation for a long time. It may be in the mattress; in the old cracked tea-pot or sugar bowl, high on the cupboard shelves.

It is doing no good there. In fact it is doing a great deal of harm, for it is lying in idleness and helping to cause inflation. Furthermore it is not safe. It may be available to the owner but it also provides an opportunity for thieves. Use it now to buy a bond. It is safe. It is always redeemable if money is needed. It will earn interest for the owner.

In the rural districts of the state the farmers have been producing more crops in response to the national call. Their machinery is deteriorating rapidly and they are doing the best they can with the implements available. The crops are sold readily and the money, if placed in war bonds, will be on hand when new equipment can be obtained.

Workers in industry are earning more than they have for years. In fact, with the shortage of consumer supplies, they are receiving more than they can spend. This extra is the money that will help the state to fill its quota. This money, thus saved, can be used to buy that long-desired automobile, sewing machine, ice-box or other longed-for product, when the war is over and industry has returned to a peacetime operation.

If all people do this with funds not needed vitally, it will prevent the soaring of prices of those commodities which we must have to sustain our standards of living. More members of each family are working now than ever before. They are needed to produce the sinews of war, and they must give willingly of time and energy to maintain a peak production. But they are earning and the money they earn must be returned to the channels that will enable their work to continue unhindered. So every one must BACK THE ATTACK—BUY WAR BONDS.

Young Men With Interesting Background Have Important Positions With New Industry

Among the persons who will come to this city to make their home and occupy important positions with the Sylvania Products, Inc., are the Alexander Brothers, Robert and Frank, of Cleveland. Both of these young men were members of Electro-Metals, Inc., at the time of its purchase by

F. D. Alexander

Sylvania. In fact, Robert Alexander was at the time of the company's purchase by Sylvania the only one of the original employes of Electro-Metals.

These young men have an interesting background as their mother, left a widow with five children, began work with the Electro-Metals in working with wires and developed many ideas that were incorporated in the later machines used by the company. Robert and Frank, due to their mother's interest in this work, followed in it.

Robert, who will be the equipment engineer with the Warren plant of Sylvania, began his career as an employe of Electo-Metals and made some of the first drawings of equipment acquiring a working knowledge of the business from actual experience. After graduation from high school he began working full time for the company in the position of draftsman. Later he contributed many improvements to the design of the manufacturing equipment and became a valued member of the Engineering Department, a position he will continue to hold in the new operation.

A tall young man with hair slightly tinged with gray he os a soft spoken and a most amiable man. Studious in mein he will bring to Warren his wife and two children and promises to make a worthy addition to the manhood of the city.

Frank Alexander, younger of the two men, will be general foreman of the Warren plant. He too has years of experience in the operations that will be carried on here. Starting in the work around 1934 he has applied himself most diligently and is considered an authority in his particular line of endeavor. He, too, is married and has a son.

Mrs. Alexander, mother of the boys, will also come to Warren and make her home here, being employed in the Warren plant.

James K. Bell, postmaster, in his youthful days published a newspaper on which he did all of the work. The late Minor Stewart and Dr. Paul Stewart, Harry Mitchell (president of the West Penn Power Company) and Clare Berger also had boy time newspapers.

Manager of Finance Co. Entering Army

Russell L. Kimberland, manager and treasurer of the Personal Finance Company, 216 Liberty street has been inducted into the armed forces of the United States and will report for duty on September 21, 1943 at Fort Meade, Md.

In making the announcement at his office this morning, J. C. Hauck, supervisor of the company, said: "Many people in this town have come to know Mr. Kimberland very well and to depend upon him for asisstance when they are in difficulty. Ever since we have realized that he was going into the service, we have been planning here in the office to take care of the needs of those customers who have in the past dealt with him personally. Miss Dorothy Baker will take over his duties when he leaves, and we are sure that his friends will receive the same consideration and helpful service they would if he were here in person."

"In this office we all feel that we are a part of the war effort," Mr. Kimberland said, "and that we have in our way been serving the country right along. Our war loans for such purposes as moving expenses of defense workers, tuition for trade and flying schools, and medical treatment are a constant and important contribution to the defense effort. I am proud and happy to be able to further contribute to the war effort by serving in the armed forces," he added. "Today I received a notice signed by the president of our parent company, Mr. Charles H. Watts, which assures me and all others who go into the armed forces that our places in the company will be held for us. This is, of course, a great comfort and satisfaction to me and the others, and means that as soon as we have licked the Japs and Nazis, we will be right back here on the job working with our friends and neighbors."

Mr. Kimberland is married and has one child. Expecting his call to the armed forces, Mrs. Kimberland and the youngster returned to her home city, Washington, Pa. The family formerly lived here at 103 Cayuga Street.

Miss Dorothy Baker, the new manager and treasurer of the office is being promoted from assistant manager. She makes her home at 800 Penna. Avenue, West. Miss Baker formerly lived in Kane, Pa. where she graduated from Kane High School. She is also a graduate of the Industrial Lender's Technical Institute. She has served with the company for the past seven years and this is her third promotion.

Miss Martha Meyers will continue her position as cashier-secretary at the Warren office.

County Third War Loan Quota Whittled Down To $2,275,106

Warren county's third war loan quota of $3,222,100 has been whittled down to $2,725,106 in the first three days of the drive. K. R. Barrett, executive secretary of the Warren County War Finance Committee for the third war loan, announced that sales through Saturday, September 11, totaled $496,994. This figure represents approximately 15% of the total quota to be reached by September 30.

The figures released from drive headquarters show that the nearly half a million in war bonds purchased to date were bought by 579 subscribers. This would indicate that purchases so far have been for bonds of large denominations. Warren county's subscriber quota is 7,000 and if this figure is to be reached and exceeded, it is going to be up to the small investor buying one or more extra bonds during the campaign. This has been called the "people's war" and the third war loan is the "people's loan." It is the purchase of these small bonds by a lot of people that will make the third war loan in Warren county a success.

Third war loan workers are now canvassing their territories, armed both with enthusiasm and order blanks a-plenty. You can help these volunteer workers by making your decision before you are called upon. Remember when deciding how many extra bonds you are going to buy that this is your war, and your chance to back the attack.

Amatic Group Goes Forward With ans Under Wartime Conditions

od news for the play-goers of ren and this section was con- ed in the recent announcement r plans had been completed for Warren Players Club 14th on.

ounded 13 years ago by some Warren's most talented citizens, Players Club has grown into institution which provides not interesting activity for its bers but excellent entertain- t for the public through its ial series of three-act plays. e plays are chosen from the m of successful Broadway pro- ions and have been ably pre- ed by Warren Players talented rs and actresses.

owing to wartime conditions, Players have this season fore- such activities as workshop rams and studio plays and are ing four three-act plays to the public. All of this is in line with the national program of providing entertainment for those on the home front and may be considered a valuable contribution to a well planned design of civilian morale.

Besides furnishing the community with a program of entertainment, the greater share of the Players' profits are spent in Warren and a consistent program of War Bond buying is a creditable activity of the organization.

The membership committee in charge of the fall enrollment has been agreeably surprised with the response on the part of the public and is already anticipating a very successful season.

The Players, in common with other groups and individuals of the community, extend the Sylvania Products, Inc., a cordial welcome to the community and to a share in their fun.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Walter Strong, of Warren, wore white satin and a short veil and carried white roses and gladioli. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Burnetta Harrison, of Celoron, N. Y., wore rose taffeta and carried pink roses and baby's breath, and the bridesmaid, Miss Virginia Dunn, of Warren, wore white jersey and wine velvet and carried red roses and baby's breath. The little flower girl, Peggy Kifer, of Warren, wore yellow organdy and the bridegroom's nephew, Ronnie Gebhart, of Warren, wore an army uniform suit. Completing the bridal party were Carl Larson as best man; George Levine and Pvt. Eugene Spencer, ushers.

A reception for 50 guests followed at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Frank Anderson, at Chandlers Valley.

The couple will go to Denver, Colo., to make their home. Pfc. Brew being located at Buckley Field. The bride, graduate of Warren High School, is also an alumnus of the Warren General Hospital training school. Mr. Brew attended Sugar Grove High School.

Those who have entertained for the bride-elect were Mrs. Ruth Ronan, Miss Dorothy Craker, Mrs. Emma Strong and Mrs. Florence Strong.

HOME ECONOMICS EXTENSION NEWS

Rest Periods Help To Break Working Hours

Knowing how to get the most out of a few minutes rest is important for any woman, whether she is doing housework or working in the fields, says Mrs. Prendergast, home economics extension representative, Warren County.

It's difficult to say how often a person should take a rest, because the variety of work may bring natural breaks in the work, when relaxation and rest will come from change of location, occupation, or position. If the work is continuous and steady, the amount of rest that should be taken would have to be determined by the worker's condition.

Generally speaking, 10 to 15 minutes in the middle of the morning and the middle of the afternoon is considered a desirable rest period in industry. In continuous farm work, two rest periods a day of 15 minutes each in addition to the lunch hour might be enough. It's not always possible to set a definite amount of time for rest, Mrs. Prendergast points out. When a woman feels so tired that she thinks she must stop before going on with her work, she should do so. In some types of work the muscular fatigue probably will cause a worker to pause for rest before any actual strain from overwork has developed.

A woman may obtain the most rest from a few minutes' pause in her work by lying flat on her back, nothing under her head, and drawing her knees up enough to relax the tension of her back. If she's in the field, lying flat on her back and raising the feet and resting them against a tree or fence is also good. While taking this rest, it is essential to relax as completely as possible.

Personal Paragraphs

Miss Eleanor Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Johnson, 216 Onondaga avenue, and member of this year's high school graduating class, left Monday morning for Washington, D. C., to enter the Sibley Memorial Hospital for training on September 15. Her sister, Miss Elizabeth Ann Johnson, member of the local high school class of 1940, was graduated September 3 from W. C. A. In all the collections of old photographs of Warren, no one seemingly has a photo of the old Ludlow Hotel. Such a print, if extant, should be placed on exhibition.

Obituary

JOHN A. GUSTAFSON

John A. Gustafson, resident of Kane for more than 60 years and father of Mrs. Jules E. Fees, of the White Apartments, died at his home Sunday morning following a long illness. He was 85 years of age, having been born in Sweden in 1858. On July 6 of this year, he and Mrs. Gustafson celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary. Besides his wife and the daughter here, he leaves a number of children, a sister and 19 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held from the family home at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. C. A. Leslie, of Tabor Lutheran church. Interment will be made in Tabor cemetery.

get set for your postwar all-gas home!

Use your War Bonds . . . after Victory . . . to buy the gas range or refrigerator you've always wanted to own

People say: "Yes, there's plenty of money and jobs now—but what about after the war? How can Business assure employment? Won't there be another depression? Won't the Government have to 'spend and spend' again?"

What do you honestly think about it yourself?

Don't you believe that American industry : : : if given the chance : : : could do as brilliant a job in peace as it is now doing in war?

Don't you believe that the average manufacturing plant could start making peacetime products again and bring back all its old workers if it had orders?

Don't you believe that those orders could be assured if people—after this war—had the money to put down for things they want to own?

War Bonds may well prove to be the answer to this whole problem of postwar employment for you, your sister's boy and the boy down the street who's now in the Air Corps.

Back up Uncle Sam, and your own son, husband or sweetheart, by buying all the War Bonds you can. That's for victory—now. Later they will be a backlog for the prosperity of your own family and a key to a richer enjoyment of living.

RELIEF SUPPLIES MOVE STEADILY TO THE AMERICANS IN ENEMY PRISON CAMPS

Japanese Make Own Rules, But Mail and Parcels are Exchanged; Red Cross Answers Most Frequently Asked Questions

American prisoners of war are shown at a camp identified as Stalagluft III, in Germany. The picture was received from William Geiger, second from right, who was captured while serving with the RAF.

BY MARGUERITE YOUNG
NEA Staff Correspondent

New York, Sept. 14—Nearly 50-000 Americans are missing or are prisoners of war, and their kith and kin have swamped authorities here with questions about them—including the question of how to inquire about them.

Red Cross officials emphasize that the most direct source of information is your local Red Cross chapter headquarters, since its officers are not overwhelmed by inquiries, and because they receive news of prisoners promptly.

However, here are the 10 most often-asked questions, with answers straight from top authorities:

1. How often may a prisoner write home?

A. In Germany, usually three letters, four postcards a month for officers, two letters, four postcards monthly for non-coms and enlisted men. In Italy, one letter, one postcard per week for all prisoners. Japan has no uniform rule; the decision seems to rest with the individual prison camp commander.

2. Have you direct word that prisoners in the Far East have received cablegrams and letters?

A. Letters—yes. Cables—no direct word yet. Efforts to get definite information in communications from prisoners are being made.

3. Can I send a package to a relative interned in the Philippines?

A. Not now, but possibly later. Two exchange ships have sailed, carrying next-of-kin parcels as well as relief supplies and prisoners to be exchanged. Any future sailings must be arranged through the State Department and will be announced in time for relatives to send packages along.

4. Can I send my son a Christmas present?

A. Yes, if you mail it promptly. Red Cross Christmas parcels already are being prepared. It may take four to six months to reach some prisoners, though a letter may get to a prisoner in Europe within one month.

5. What can I send a friend in a prison camp in Europe?

A. Only books mailed direct from bookseller or publisher, unless you persuade a next-of-kin to give you a label for his bi-monthly parcel or tobacco.

6. Can I "adopt" a prisoner?

A. No—except in most unusual cases arranged with the nearest relative and with the approval of the Provost Marshal General, U. S. A.

7. Can you get information about a soldier, presumably taken at Corregidor but not listed among officially reported prisoners?

A. Lists of those taken early in 1942 are still coming gradually from Japan. The Prisoners of War Information Bureau, under the Provost Marshal General, makes every effort to inform the family before the man is listed. If you have reason to believe you missed receiving official notification, ask your local Red Cross chapter to look into the case. If one of your family is listed as missing, be sure to keep his branch of service informed of any change in your address so that you receive further news promptly.

8. Can you verify authenticity of Axis shortwave radio messages from prisoners?

A. No. Prisoners of war messages are picked up here, are forwarded to the Provost Marshal General, then relayed to next-of-kin.

9. I received several letters from my husband when he was first taken prisoner in Italy, and was recovering from what he said was a shot wound. Now for two months I have not heard from him. Would I be told if he were more seriously hurt than he said?

A. Your country should be notified of any "change of status" in your husband's case and the information sent you. Silence may be due to war conditions such as disruption of transportation, or your husband's being transferred from a hospital to a camp where mail is slower.

10. Why do we hear that Axis prisoners here are treated like our troops—but hear nothing that leads us to believe the Axis handles prisoners in the same way?

A. Our government adheres strictly to the Geneva Convention of 1929 Relative to the Treatment of Prisoners of War. In addition to obvious humanitarian considerations, we may hope that our policy will react to the advantage of our own prisoners.

The international agreement, adhered to by 42 nations, establishes the right of prisoners of war; imprisonment in healthy places; food equal to that provided troops of the detaining power; clothing; self organization with elected representatives to deal with camp commandants and also with delegates of the International Red Cross Committee of Geneva. Sixty-three delegates of Swiss nationality are functioning; prisoners' representatives may talk to them privately.

Germany and Italy maintain contact with the International Red Cross Committee. Various proposals for solving relief problems have been presented to the Japanese Government through the Committee in Geneva and the Japanese Red Cross in Tokyo, and in addition to relief articles sent on diplomatic exchange ships, relief funds have been set up in several Far East points. Among supplies shipped and actually distributed by the end of April 1943 were 2,303,290 standard 11-pound food packages, 20,000 of them to prisoners of war in the Far East.

The first school in Warren was opened in 1804 by Mrs. Cheeks and the first frame schoolhouse was erected in 1820.

Wildcatting Program To Be Discussed

Oil City, Sept. 14—A meeting designed to stimulate the production of crude oil in Pennsylvania will be held in the ball room of the Pittsburgh Athletic Club, Pittsburgh, beginning at two o'clock Thursday afternoon, September 16.

The meeting has been arranged by the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Topographic and Geologic Survey, and representatives of the Survey will display maps and show slids of various quadrangles completed by that state agency but not yet published.

Wirt Franklin, special deputy of the Petroleum Administrator for War, will discuss the benefits of a wildcatting program, and it is believed that the information supplied by him and the survey will prove invaluable in formulating a program for the increased production of Pennsylvania grade crude, which is so badly needed in the war program.

The meeting is open to all of the producers and interested oil men in the Pennsylvania grade region and arrangements have been made for a large attendance.

When Colonel Brodhead came up the river to punish Cornplanter for assisting the British, in 1785, he found here an Indian settlement called Kanoagoa, original village on this site.

About the year 1800 was celebrated starting of the first sawmill in this county, used to saw the first lumber commercially floated down the Allegheny River.

NOTICE

"Pulpwood cutting has recently been listed as an essential occupation and those engaged in it should now include such activities in connection with any application for supplementary gasoline, tire, or automotive rations.

"If you are using gasoline-powered equipment in sawing, drawing or trucking pulpwood and it is absolutely necessary for you to have an additional allowance, you should report the fact to your local rationing board, giving full information as to the number of cords to be cut and the distance it must be trucked.

"Ceiling prices for pulpwood have been set by this office and are available upon application to your nearest OPA District Office. There is no present intention of revising these prices."

South Penn Plans Work In Local Field

Surveys are being completed today in preparation for what may prove to be one of the most extensive oil drilling developments near here in recent years. The South Penn Oil Company is planning to drill 54 wells in a "fivespot" pool development about seven miles east of Kane along U. S. Route 6.

Charles F. Stevenson, of Bradford, vice president of the South Penn company, today confirmed reports of the projected drilling operations. He said a floodable tract of approximately 62 acres would be used in the initial development, in which 30 water wells and 24 producers will be drilled.

Mr. Stevenson indicated that eight or ten strings of tools would be placed in operation, including a lumber from Kane. Future large-scale development of the area hinges largely on results of the project, it was stated.

The South Penn is reported to have oil rights on approximately 5,000 acres in Warrant 2685 and in that area has had a number of small oil producers. The wells in that section are Bradford sand producers.

Chief Cornplanter, head of the fierce Senecas, was born at Tunewaugus, N. Y., between 1732 and 1740, the exact date being shrouded in the mists of the past, according to his biographers.

The Carver House is one of the best hotels in the state. It replaced the old Warren House in 1849 and was the first brick building erected for private use in the borough.

A log hut erected by Daniel Jackson on what is now Jackson run was the home of the first white settler.

How to Make WAC Merry

AP Features

IF YOU want to make it a merry Christmas for a WAC in Africa, send her a box of the sheerest stockings you can find, a good two - way stretch girdle or a glamorous bathing suit.

That's the advice offered by a recent government survey, based on reports from returning WACs.

Other items wanted by nurses and WACc overseas include: Family needs, such as soap, starch and clothespins. Cosmetics, gloves, lingerie that can be easily laundered, handkerchiefs, tailored slips, hairpins, bobby pins, towels and wash cloths.

Public Playgrounds Have Fine Season

The fact that Warren borough's five playground areas have just concluded their most successful summer season in history, with a total attendance of 32,713 children ranging in ages from two to 16 years, is a splendid compliment to the efficiency of its supervisory staff.

Headed by Henry Kolpien, instructors and supervisors included Eleanor Abendroth and Evadna Hunter at Beaty; Marie Weisenfluh at Lacy; Ruelena Yeager at South Side; Susanne Akers and Virginia Dunn at South street, and Joan Weiler at the West Side.

Scout Messengers Are Vital Unit In Civilian Defense

Youngest unit of the Civilian Defense Corps in terms of years but by no means little in willingness and cooperative spirit is the Boy Scout Messenger Service Corps of 79 members directly supervised by Clarence Swanson, field Scout commissioner. Assistants are Senior Mesengers C. Ray Lewis, Scoutmaster of First Methodist Troop 9, and Paul Reynolds, Scoutmaster of Explorer Troop 2 of Grace Methodist church, with Chester Seymour, Boy Scout executive, as advisor.

Those comprising the Messenger Service personnel, each of which has been given an arm band, identification card and definite assignment are:

Alan Babcock, Donald Backstrom, Forrest Bainbridge, Gail Barker, Kenneth Bengston, Richard T. Betts, William L. Allegheny National Forest Great Asset to Community

Natural Playgrounds Lying At Door of Warren Some Day To Contain 727,000 Acres

At the door of Warren lies one of its greatest assets—The Allegheny National Forest destined in years to come to be one of the great National Playgrounds. Formed of parts of four northwestern Pennsylvania counties, Warren, Elk, Forest and McKean, it will some day contain 727,000 acres, although at present only 463,000 acres have been purchased and placed under forest management. The forest is one of seven National Forests in the United States.

Fire is an ever present danger and the worst enemy of the forest. A small fire may spread into a raging conflagration and fire-fighting has priority over all other features of the forest administration. While the forest areas are open to all the greatest of care is urged. Permits must be obtained to build fires in the forest areas.

Tree planting in the area is always under way and over 11,000 acres of the denuded burned over lands have been reforested. The Daughters of the American Revolution with their Penny Pines project have set out 250,000 trees. The two acre memorial plantation of the Pennsylvania Federated Woman's Clubs is located on the Hearts Content Recreational Area.

Research is carried on in the Forest at all times and careful study is given tree life. The service has designated a 4,300 acre tract of virgin hemlock on the East Branch of the Tionesta Creek, near Sheffield as the "Tionesta Natural and Scenic Area". This is to be retained in its virgin state for scientific research.

The aims of the Allegheny National Forest are:

1—To keep the land fully stocked with thrifty trees of desirable species.

2—To obtain a steady and continuous yield of useful wood products from each unit of the forest.

3—To grow the largest and best crop possible and thereby meet the needs of permanent wood-using industries with a never ending source of raw material. Timber from the Allegheny National Forest is contributing to the war effort in many ways.

4—To harvest the timber crop as it matures or ripens and to secure the closest practical use of the trees cut.

When it has been determined that the timber on a certain area is matured or ripe for cutting, the trees to be cut are marked by a forest officer, the object being to leave enough of the more thrifty trees to keep the area well stocked and thus insure a second crop of timber from the same area in twenty to twenty-five years.

Timber is not cut to such an extent as to impair the protective cover of the forest, particularly its value in regulating stream flow, nor is mature timber taken from recreational areas where it has a higher use for scenic purposes. Special care is taken to protect stream banks. Cutting is restricted for 100 feet or more along fishable streams.

Timber from Allegheny National Forest is used in the furniture industry, in the manufacture of paper, wood distillation products such as charcoal and acetic acid, shoe lasts, bowling pins, brush handles, tool handles and many other products.

At Johnsonburg, on the eastern side of the Forest, the Castanea Paper Company utilizes aspen, yellow poplar, cucumber, maple, beech, and other species in the manufacture of paper for the Saturday Evening Post, the Ladies Home Journal, and other publications. Hardwood distillation plants located at Morrison, Sergeant, Westline and Hallton utilize the native trees in manufacturing charcoal, acetates, and wood alcohol.

There are a number of local saw mills and numerous small plants engaged in the manufacture of turned articles from native white ash, hard maple, ironwood, and other trees.

At present the authorized amount of timber to be removed from the forest each year is sixteen million board feet. The harvesting of this amount of timber furnishes employment for approximately two hundred and fifty men, throughout the year. As the amount of timber ripening each year increases, the amount to be removed from the forest will be increased and more employment provided.

The federal government does not pay state or local taxes on national forest land. In lieu of such taxes, 25% of the total receipts of the national forest are turned over each year to the state to be apportioned for road and school purposes in the counties in which the national forest is located. An additional 10% is made available for road building in the national forest, so that 35% of the receipts return directly to the benefit of local national forest communities. In addition, the commonwealth reimburses the counties in which the national forest is located at the rate of 5c per acre in lieu of taxes for the benefit of schools and roads until such time as this amount is equalled or exceeded by the money received from national forest receipts.

In addition to the utilitarian uses of the forest recreational areas, there have been a number of recreational areas developed for the residents of the adjacent areas. The Twin Lakes area, near Kane, has supervised bathing and picnic tables, fireplaces, etc.; at Loleta, near Marienville, a bathing pool and picnic area is also provided; Kelly Pines camping area is also scenically beautiful, while the Hearts Content picnic grounds and the Sandstone Springs recreational spot are also attractive. On Morrison Run a bathing pool is also a feature, with a picnic area used almost exclusively by Warrenites, while on the Kinzua highway is a location for a picnic ground.

Camp Cornplanter, located between Kinzua and Ludlow, is a wonderful mountain resort, with eight dormitory buildings, an assembly and dining hall, hospital building and bathing pool. The Hoffman Home in the forest near Ludlow is high on a ridge overlooking the canyon on the east branch of the Tionesta creek.

Hearts Content Natural Area near Warren is one of the few remaining places in the east where one may walk beneath an unspoiled canopy of ancient pines and hemlocks. As the surrounding forest succumbed to the ring of the axe, the leaders of the Wheeler & Dusenbury Lumber Company, former owners of this land, offered twenty acres of untouched forest to the Forest Service in order that the public might come to marvel at this remnant of early Penn's Woods. Matched by a gift of land from the Federated Women's Clubs of Pennsylvania and by a hundred-acre purchase by the federal government, Hearts Content became a permanent heritage of all the people. Under Forest Service management, it is dedicated for all time to remain in all its inspirational beauty untouched by axe or saw.

Tionesta Natural and Scenic Area—Near the center of Allegheny National Forest where the four counties join, lies a large tract of virgin hemlock and hardwood timber. Purchased by the Forest Service from the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Company as its great Sheffield mill approached the end of its run, this stand was dedicated to public use and to intensive scientific study. 2113 acres of this tract have been carefully surveyed and data are collected annually by the Allegheny Forest Experiment Station in order to add to our knowledge of forest ecology. The remaining 1967 acres or northern half is for public use and enjoyment, and can best be reached from a forest road running south from Ludlow.

Wildlife adds materially to the enjoyment of the forest by the public. In cooperation with the State Game Commission and the State Fish Commission, hunting and fishing within the forest are being constantly improved. The state hunting and fishing laws are in effect on all lands within the national forest.

Today many excellent pools and shelters, of streams formerly characterized by sluggish and shallow water, have been created by dams and deflectors constructed under the supervision of the Forest Service. A stocking program is under way whereby fingerling trout are placed in the small feeder streams which form the headwaters of major trout streams. Fingerlings are secured from the Farnsworth Trout Bearing Station, recently constructed in the forest by the Forest Service. It is operated by the Fish and Wildlife Service through cooperation between the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the U. S. Department of Interior. As a result of this program of stocking and stream improvement, together with the planting of legal size trout during the spring months by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, trout fishing on the principal forest streams has shown considerable improvement.

It is estimated that over 250 black bears and more than 10,000 deer make up the big game population of the forest. In addition, there are many thousands of small game animals, such as rabbits, squirrels, raccoon and opossum. Game birds and fur-bearers make this an imposing list.

Wildlife is a remarkable resource produced by and because of forest lands and water. Its presence in numbers and kinds compatible with available food supplies is an integral part of a well-balanced forest relationship. Its harvest by means of hunting, trapping, or fishing as a means of desirable control of numbers or distribution, provides sport, fur and meat as a part of the social and economic service this forest may render to mankind.

Allegheny National Forest is public property. It is owned by the people; their tax money was used to buy the land, and is being used to protect and develop it. It is intended that the benefits of the forest shall accrue to the public.

May your visit prove a happy one and may your conscience be clear in the knowledge that you have done your part to safeguard this heritage for yourself, your children and your children's children.

Please be careful with fire.

Third War Loan Drive Places On Shoulders of People of County Great Responsibility

The Third War Loan Drive now progress places on the shoulders the people of Warren county a eater responsibility than any they ve ever before undertaken. War- n county's share of the $15,000,- 0,000 nation-wide goal is $3,222,- 0.

Warren county earned an envia- e record in the First War Loan, id in the Second War Loan, but must be remembered that in both ese previous drives a large share the funds came from bank sub- riptions.

In the Third War Loan banks will not be given an opportunity to invest in government securities as they did in the other two drives. The current campaign has aptly been termed "The People's Loan."

This campaign aims directly at the average citizen, the ordinary man with a job and a family, the fellow whose salary has had substantial bites taken out of it by taxes and the increased cost of living. It is every inch his war and his money that must pay for it. Out of the slim margin between expense and income must come the precious non-inflationary dollars that will purchase the tanks, guns and supplies with which the road to victory is paved.

Warren county's quota of $3,222,-100 is a personal matter, an individual challenge. In order to give every person in Warren county his or her opportunity to buy war bonds during the Third War Loan, the county has been organized such as it has never been organized before. In Warren proper, and in every village and hamlet, there have been appointed war workers to carry the message to every nook and cranny of the county.

The Warren County War Finance Committee for the Third War Loan is headed by H. W. Conarro. Co-chairmen are R. W. Mackay, also serving as chairman of the Banking and Investment Committee, and M. H. Deardorff, who is in charge of the county outside Warren and North Warren. D. C. Smith is vice chairman.

The Industrial Division is headed by J. L. Blair and W. E. Yeager is chairman of the Payroll Deduction Plan.

N. D. Paterson and Mrs. Marie Hamilton share the chairmanship of the Business and Professional Group.

The house-to-house canvass of Warren is under the leadership of Mrs. Katherine Davis.

Headquarters for the Warren County War Finance Committee are in room 201 of the Warren National Bank building. The office is in charge of K. R. Barrett, executive secretary.

President Roosevelt officially opened the September drive with an address to the nation last Wednesday night, in which he said: "We can be sure that our enemies will watch this drive with the keenest interest. They know that success in this undertaking will shorten the war. They know that the more money the American people lend to their government, the more powerful and relentless will be the American forces in the field. They know that only a united and determined America could possibly produce on a voluntary basis so large a sum of money as $15,000,-000,000."

Right now it is costing nearly $100,000,000 a day more to equip our men and take care of other war expenditures than we were spending a year ago. To carry the fight to the enemy is costly, and to back the attack is the duty of every man, woman and child at home. But you aren't asked to give—only to lend, to invest your money at a generous rate of interest in the safest known securities—backed by the United States Government. In the Third War Loan there is a Government Bond to meet every investment need and every size of pocketbook.

The war workers of Warren county will call on you soon. When you are visited, remember this: "Every dollar that you invest in the Third War Loan is your personal message of defiance to our common enemies—to the ruthless militarists of Germany and Japan—your personal message of faith and good cheer to our Allies and all the men at the front"—the closing words of President Roosevelt's appeal to you to back the attack with war bonds.

There are approximately 902 square miles in Warren county.

Book of Remembrance At the Salvation Army

Mothers and wives of Soldier Boys may have their boys' names put in our BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE.

This is a friendly courtesy that the Salvation Army offers to the residents of Warren county. Your boy will receive some kind of a remembrance every three months while he remains in the service.

Send name and address of boy to local Salvation Army. No cost or obligation connected with this service.

School Music Boosters Have Vital Project

If community construction projects form a part of the government's post-war program, preliminary investigations originated by the Warren School Music Boosters' Club may be the means of realizing for the community one of its most needed facilities, a public auditorium.

Such a community project, a building with seating capacity and staging equipment adequate to the demands of lecture groups, dramatic and musical organizations, would be in line with other successful efforts of this very new civic organization and would have the hearty support of such groups as the Waren Concert Association, Warren Players' Club, school and civic bodies of all types and purposes.

The enthusiasm shown by the Boosters in their past projects and the wholehearted cooperation given their efforts by the Warren public would certainly indicate success of the project if conditions warrant in the period of construction that will inevitably follow release from the armed forces of thousands of Warren county men needing employment.

Fall Primary Election Is Held Today

Throughout the state today primary elections are being held and in this county the voters are going to the polls. From all indications the vote being cast is not an overly heavy one, although efforts have been made to get a large number of the voters to the polls. Interest in the primary in the county is at low ebb as the only contest is for the place on the Republican ticket as county treasurer. William Simonsen, who ran four years ago in the primary, is being opposed by Assemblyman W. W. Muir. Both have made a strong campaign.

In the larger voting districts machines are used and returns from these will undoubtedly be in early. Where machines are used: Warren borough, Clarendon borough, Youngsville borough, Sugar Grove Borough, Conewango First; Sheffield and this year for the first time both Glade districts will use the machines. In all other districts paper ballots are used.

Returns will be received as usual at the office of the county commissioners and at the Times-Mirror.

The Warren County Crippled Children's Committee was organized November 18, 1925.

Plenty Opportunity For Learning From Babyhood to Adult

In addition to fine educational opportunities provided through its free grade and high school system, Warren can offer its young people and others interested a fine preparation for business life in special night school instruction; also a chance to work for degrees in extension courses offered at the high school by Penn State and Edinboro Teachers' College.

Even the very youngest members of the family have a chance to start their training early in private kindergarten classes conducted in East street and A. Bessie Johnson buildings.

Hoff's Business College has placed its graduates in positions of trust and importance in a large share of the country's diversified business interests and enjoys a fine reputation among institutions of this type.

Younger pupils of the community, if they be of the Catholic faith, have opportunity, also, of studying at St. Joseph's Parochial School under the expert guidance of the Benedictine Convent Sisters.

The first four-horse stage arrived in Warren on May 24, 1826. Weekly trips were made between Warren and Dunkirk and, in 1849, stages left daily for Buffalo and Pittsburgh.

Warren is one of eleven counties in the nation to be named after General Joseph Warren.

The Warren Academy was organized in 1836 under Rasselas Brown.

OCD Requests There Be No Let-up In Protective and Instructive War Measures

Since the country's leaders, from President Roosevelt down through the many protective branches, have emphasized repeatedly the assertion that it is still possible for America to suffer "token" attacks by enemy forces, the Office of Civilian Defense has asked that there be no let-up in community efforts toward protective and instructive measures.

It is the hope of defense officials that a copy of what they term "Operations Letter No. 128" may be placed in the hands of every family in the country. To this end, Warren county's senior gas officer, Lt. Victor VerMilyea, has released to the Times-Mirror for its Sylvania Welcome Edition the following text of Operations Letter No. 128: "How to Protect Yourself Against War Gas":

1. Stay Indoors. A tightly closed room affords protection against war gas. All windows and doors should be tightly shut, and blankets (to be soaked with water) or cardboard should be kept in readiness to cover and seal shattered windows. Choose a room on an upper floor if possible; most was gases are heavier than air, although they may be carried up with air currents.

2. If caught outdoors in a gas attack, get out of the area at once. Look down and shield your eyes with your arm. Do not worry about any brief vapor exposure to which you may be subjected. The danger from this source is not great.

3. Prompt action will avoid serious effects. If you know or suspect that you have gotten any of the gas on your person or clothing, do not go hunting for a casualty station or gas cleansing station and expect someone else to help you. Knock on the first door you come to, and take whatever steps are necessary. Self-aid is the quickest and safest way.

4. This is what you should do. This routine should be memorized so it will be done automatically in an emergency:

(a) Remove shoes and outer clothing and drop them outside the house, in a covered can if available. Do not touch this clothing again except with sticks or gas-proof gloves. Do not cling to false modesty. To enter a house with contaminated clothing endangers everyone in it.

(b) Get to a bathroom, kitchen or laundry room as fast as possible.

(c) If your eyes have been exposed to liquid gas or spray, flush them immediately. Plain water out of a faucet, shower-head, canteen or douche bag will do, but a lukewarm dilute solution of bicarbonate of soda (heaping tablespoonful in a quart of water) is even better, if it is handy. Let anyone nearby help you.

(d) If drops of liquid blister gas have splashed the skin, you can prevent serious burns by adequate cleansing. Promptly blot up the liquid with pieces of cleansing tissue, cloth, or a handkerchief, which should be disposed of carefully in order that it cannot contaminate anyone else. Then sponge the skin briskly with laundry bleach containing sodium hypochlorite, if it is at hand, and rinse off under the shower or in a tub. A thorough bath with a vigorous lathering is the final step, which should never be omitted. Dry the skin by patting. Do not rub. Dress in whatever clean clothing you can get. If blisters develop, you should seek medical advice.

(e) If your nose and throat feel irrirated, snuff and gargle with a liute solution of bicarbonate of soda. If your chest feels heavy and oppressed, if you have any trouble breathing, or if smoking becomes distasteful, lie down immediately and stay perfectly still until you can be taken to a doctor. Do this even if you feel fine otherwise.

5. Remember: Cleanse yourself quickly and calmly. Follow the instructions of your air-raid warden.

Greetings

The Ministerial Association extends a hearty welcome from the churches to Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., and to all its employes who will be at home in Warren.

Here are 25 churches, each maintaining worship services and Sunday schools, and the YMCA and YWCA departments for all youths and adults. Together through the Ministerial Association they plan and work for the moral and religious welfare of all the people.

The churches join in the Warren Council of Weekday Religious Education for a program in which the youth of high school age are instructed in special classes for one hour each week, attendance reaching about 1,600.

A leadership training school is held for adults, in which workers are instructed for leadership in religious service.

Special services mark Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter, Memorial Day and community Sunday evening worship is conducted through the summer months. A full week of solemn services is dedicated to the Passion Week preceding Easter Sunday.

In the Ministerial Association, meeting twice a month, a well-planned program for effective religious work in the whole community is worked out through respective committees.

You and your friends are invited to find a welcome in the churches' services and we hope you will find a church home and be among our many worshipers and workers

J. C. WYGANT,
Ministerial President.

Classification and filing of finger prints at the police station in Warren is exactly the same as is done by the FBI at Washington. Files at the Headquarters now contain close to 4000 prints.

The police prowl car operated in connection with the police radio service travels an average of 57 miles each night.

Tidioute Boy Is 'V-Man of Week' In Washington

Again word comes from Washington, D. C., that Capt. Elmer J. DeVore, native of Tidioute and now of the Civil Air Patrol, has been honored because of his activities in connection with that phase of public service. This time, he has been chosen "V-man of the Week" by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of the capital city.

Executive officer of the Maryland wing and squadron commander in Washington, he teaches training classes every Wednesday night and has more than 250 hours of flying time for the CAP to his credit.

Earlier in the year, Capt. DeVore was winner of an award by the National Air Derby Association for doing the most work to promote civilian aviation in that area in the past year. He has been a member of the CAP since its organization.

Hi-Yuh, Sylvania!

Just step right in and have a place at the table. Make yourself at home and hang up your hat. We are mighty glad to see you and want you to just be one of the family. We feel we have one of the finest places in the land here on the banks of the old Allegheny with its fine timbered hills with glimpses of farmlands here and there. We are proud of it. And we are proud, too, to have you come in and become one of us.

You know we have a happy family. There just isn't any bickering or back bitin' among us and we know you are that kind of folks. We know that you folks are the kind that are welcome and we are just stickin' out the hand of fellowship and saying "Welcome".

We feel we have a lot in common and we ask you to just tell us what we can do to help you in any way you say and we will be doing it right away.

So just draw up to the table and pick out a comfortable chair 'cause we want you to stay a long, long time and become one of our family circle.

Interesting Data About Sylvania Gleaned in Report

Annual Statement Contains Outline of Features, Aims And Performances of Owners

With the Sylvania becoming one of the integral features of life in Warren, it should be of interest to Warren folk to become acquainted with the company, its people and its plans. To that end, the annual report of the company as presented for 1942 was turned to for enlightenment. Some of the interesting features of the company, its formation, aims and performances are to be found in the following, culled from the pages of the report:

"For 1942 sales totalled $32,338,-70.49, which includes all types of business and makes an all-time high figure. This compares with sales of $20,561,246.21 in 1941. In time of war, 'sales' takes on a new meaning when the government becomes the largest customer and a large portion of our business is made up of products without which no modern war can be fought. The extent to which radio and other electronic products are utilized in this war may well be one of its outstanding characteristics. The radio industry in December, 1942, was producing at the yearly rate of two billion dollars in radio and electronic equipment. This dwarfs the last peace-time year (1941) with its $400,000,000. While our share of this in dollars is a very substantial amount, the relative importance to the war effort of many of these critical and special products far outweighs their monetary worth. Our production accomplishment was remarkable when it is considered that a large portion of these war goods consisted of products we had never made before. It is a great credit to the engineering and production organizations in all divisions of the company that they were able to accomplish many difficult tasks, to exceed their own promises for delivery, and to solve many problems hitherto unconquered.

"Early in the year the radio industry discontinued the manufacture of civilian sets, and became one of the most completely converted industries. Non-availability of radio sets and curtailed manufacture of renewal types in favor of direct war products resulted in a growing shortage of renewal tubes for civilian sets as the year closed.

"A decrease in the building of war plants and the issuance of War Production Board restrictions conserving critical materials were reflected in declining sales of our fluorescent fixtures. However, many important war plants, such as Boeing Aircraft, Bell Aircraft, Remington Rand, etc., were equipped with Sylvania fixtures. We were among the very first to design, produce and deliver industrial fixtures with non-metallic reflectors. This move is saving many thousand tons of critical steel. Co-operating with the lighting section of the War Production Board, remarkable use of alternate materials was made in incandescent lamps. Also in co-operation with the government the standard line of tungsten lamps was reduced from some 3500 to about 1700 items, and restrictions in the amount of material which could be used for manufacturing were adopted. The sale of Sylvania tungsten filament lamps in 1942 compared favorably with the sales volume of other years. This fact is due to the greatly increased purchases of the Army and Navy and other government agencies from the company, sales to domestic consumers having decreased to a considerable degree because of material restrictions.

"Improved methods of manufacture of fluorescent lamps, including the 'Mercury Bomb', not only saved critical materials, but further increased efficiency and life.

"High on the list of this year's important accomplishments was the change of the corporate name from Hygrade Sylvania Corporation to Sylvania Electric Products, Inc. The recommendation of the board of directors was approved by stockholders on July 30th and the new name came into official use on August 12th, when the amendment to the articles of organization was filed with the secretary of state of Massachusetts.

"When Hygrade Sylvania Corporation was formed twelve years ago by a merger of Hygrade Incandescent Lamp Company of Salem, Mass., and Sylvania Products Corporation of Emporium, Pa., there was made possible coordination of manufacturing facilities, more effective use of personnel and a simplification of product lines.

"After a time it became apparent that it would be advisable to sell all products under one brand name instead of having some known as Hygrade, some as Sylvania, and some under other special names. This was the major reason for changing the corporate name, the plan being to market all your company's products under the brand name Sylvania; one name and one trade-mark for everything. The new name trademark retains the triangle from the old Hygrade mark and the 'S' from the Sylvania oak leaf.

"The first evidence, not only of the wisdom of taking this step, but also of not waiting till after the war, came from one of the important branches of the military services. They were among the first to congratulate the company and to thank us for saving them a great deal of trouble and confusion.

"As a result of careful planning, the change was made without delays and with a minimum of difficulty and practically no disturbance in the operation of any department. The reaction of jobbers, dealers and individual customers throughout the country has been uniformly favorable.

"In line with an agreement made with the underwriters in connection with the sale of common stock to the public in 1941, the Company listed its common stock on the New York Stock Exchange, and trading began on August 17, 1942. The Directors took this step in recognition of the rapid expansion of the Company and because of the increasing public interest in its operations and its securities.

"In July of 1942, after obtaining the approval of the Preferred stockholders at a special meeting called for that purpose, the Company sold to the public $4,000,000 of a new issue of 3¼% Fifteen Year Sinking Fund Debentures due June 1, 1957. With the proceeds, all of the Company's bank loans amounting to $2,074,121.39 were paid and the balance was added to working capital to provide for the increasing inventories and accounts receivable arising from expanding manufacturing activities and increased sales volume.

"Rapidly mounting wartime demands for products manufactured by the Company subsequently made it evident that further substantial funds to finance its increasing war production would be needed, and a 'V' Loan Agreement was signed as of January 14, 1943.

"Under the provisions of this Agreement, the Company is enabled to borrow any amount up to the designated $10,000,000 limit; paying 2½% interest on the amount actually borrowed and ½% interest on the balance which is held for possible future requirements; under certain conditions a cancellation fee of ¼% is payable. The Company has thus secured financing which has the flexibility needed for its rapidly expanding war contract business.

"Further integration of the organizational program referred to in last year's report was carried out in 1942. There were a number of organization changes.

"During the year, D. G. Mitchell joined the company as Vice President in Charge of Sales. R. M. Wise became Director of Engineering and C. P. Boggs became Director of Manufacturing.

"Expansion of personnel and facilities, partly made necessary by war work, was greatly facilitated by the appointment with the Radio Division of:

"H. W. Zimmer—General Manager Operations—Radio Receiving Tubes.

"R. M. Wise—General Manager Operations—Special Tubes.

"Mr. Wise will continue to assume the responsibility for Special Tubes for the duration of the war but will eventually devote all of his time to the position of Director of Engineering.

"Within the Lighting Division the following appointments were made:

"R. M. Zabel—General Manager Operations—Lamps.

"C. F. Horne—General Manager Operations—Fixtures and Appliances.

"Each division was organized by plants on the basis of geographic and products considerations. An organization pattern for each plant was established to include supervision of engineering, manufacturing personnel, cost accounting, purchasing, quality, industrial engineering, and maintenance.

"Managers were also appointed for major company and divisional functions.

"In December, Robert H. Bishop was appointed General Sales Manager of the Lighting Division.

"In November, the Board of Directors established a voluntary contributory Savings and Retirement Plan incorporating the feature of profit-sharing. The Plan was developed to fit the particular needs of SYLVANIA and its type of people, and its adoption came after careful consideration of special factors, such as the great preponderance of women over men and the varying average period of service among different types of employees.

"As far as we know the Plan is unique. It was arrived at after many months of study and after consideration of more than one hundred various annuity and pension plans. It has many flexible features affording employees benefits not found in many other plans.

"First of all, the Plan provides a convenient opportunity for regular and systematic savings. It provides a means whereby the employee may share in the profits of the company. For long term service employees, there are provisions for retirement and pensions which augmented by Social Security benefits, should provide security in the employee's advanced years, and hence give more opportunity for the advancement of younger workers.

"Funds to make the plan effective are provided by (1) an Employee contribution of 3% of his salary or wages by payroll deduction each pay day; (2) a Company Contribution equal to one-half of the Employee Contribution; and (3) Company Profit Sharing Distributions equal to 4% of Annual Net Profits before Federal Taxes.

"An additional Company Contribution makes possible special provisions for service prior to December 1, 1942, the effective date of the Plan.

"Exact prior service cost is in process of being calculated; it is estimated at approximately $1,-210,000, which is to be paid to the Plan over a period of not more than 25 years. In 1942 the Company contributed to the Plan on account of prior service cost the sum of $110,000. The prior service contribution is necessary in order to provide a retirement allowance for older employees of long standing who in their remaining years of service prior to retirement age would not be able to build up a sufficient credit with respect to future service.

"The Company assumes the entire cost of the expenses of operating the Plan so that all of the funds contributed by the members and by the Company will be available for the payment of benefits.

"Many pension plans which have involved large fixed annual charges have had to be abandoned in periods of depression. To promise a measure of old age security to our employees and to be compelled later to abandon our Plan would cause much suffering. After providing for past service benefits, the Company is obligated to the payment of 1½% of members wages. Additional payments depend on Company profit. Members will receive substantial credits when profits are large but when profits are small there will be no burden on the Company which would make it necessary to abandon the Plan. This provision of our Plan is not conventional but the management believes it is very sound.

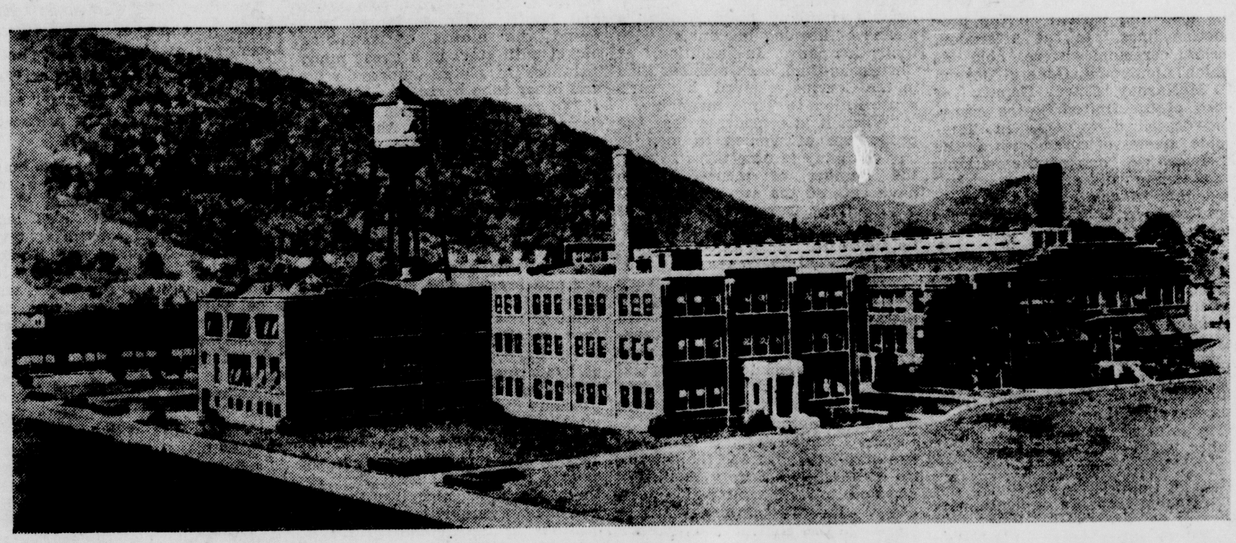
Modern Parent-Home of Sylvania at Emporium



The factory of the Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., at Emporium is one of the most modern manufacturing buildings to be found in the country. During the past few years additions have been erected and these are marked by many windows making the plant a delightful place in which to work. Sylvania is justly proud of this building.

Flag Pole and Colors Are Dedicated at Thomas Plant

One of the most inspirational affairs held in Warren recently was the dedication of a new flagpole and flag at the plant of the Thomas Flexible Coupling Company last evening. The affair had been arranged for the employes and their families and there were a large number in attendance. The Veterans of Foreign Wars aided in the affair and their band and a speaker from the organization took part.

The program was opened with a selection by the V. F. W. Band and Orrie Goughler, chairman of the Committee from the VFW made a short talk and presented the flag. It was accepted by Henry Sandblade, Vice President of the Thomas Flexible Coupling Company in a pleasing manner. The raising of the flag on the new pole followed while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner".

An address of a patriotic nature was delivered by J. R. Allen, patriotic instructor of the VFW for the Department of Pennsylvania. This was an eloquent address and was well received by the large number present.

Another selection by the band a Retreat by Leidy Williams brought the program to a close.

Hermit's Spring, one of the popular resorts for forest explorers, has a tale connected with it made famous in the novel "The Baron of the Barrens."

Attorneys in Warren when it was incorporated as a borough were Josiah Hall, Gillman Merrill, Thomas Struthers and Lansing Wetmore.

"By the institution of this plan, the Company recognizes an obligation to employees who have served the Company faithfully in the past. By providing pension benefits for them, a liability is discharged which otherwise would have continued to increase in the years to come.

"The Plan is available to every employee of the company with three years' service, regardless of rate of pay of work. Provision is also made so that those coming with the company between the ages of 35 and 40 require only two years' service to become eligible for membership, and those employed at 40 years or over, only one year.

"Of particular importance is the fact that the Plan provides benefits for members with relatively short terms of service. For SYLVANIA, with its large proportion of women employees, this is important.

"To summarize the principal features of the Plan:

1. A system for regular Employee Saving.

2. A Profit-Sharing Plan involving distribution of 4% of the company's annual profits before Federal Taxes for the benefit of members only.

3. A system of Termination payments for short service members of the Plan.

4. A Retirement Annuity for all members in good standing who resign voluntarily or are retired by the company after reaching 50 years of age.

5. Correspondingly larger Retirement Annuities and other optional benefits for members remaining with the company until the normal retirement age of 65.

6. Certain other benefits such as Death Benefits for beneficiaries of members of the Plan who die in service and Disability Payments.

"The purchase of Government War Bonds by employees has shown a true "Win-the-War" spirit. Every Sylvania plant has won the Minute Man Flag, indicating 90% or more of the employees in that plant are participating in the payroll deduction plan for War Bond purchase. Well over 95% of all employees regularly subscribe for about 10% of earnings in bond purchases.

"Employees of the Emporium Radio plants of the Company were awarded the Army-Navy E for outstanding production achievement for military and war needs.

"The event was celebrated by the entire community on November 5. Army and Navy officers toured the plants and talked with the men and women on the production lines. In the afternoon, formal ceremonies were held at which Lieutenant General Joseph T. McNarney, Chief Deputy of Staff of the United States Army, and described by Quentin Reynolds, master of ceremonies at the E award as "one of the nation's outstanding military strategists," had this to say about the work the Company is doing in the radio field:

"Someone may ask, 'What damage can we do to the Japs and Nazis with one of those little radio tubes!—That would be a cinch question for the crew of a Flying Fortress . . . for the American crew in a General Sherman tank riding across the sands . . . for our ground troops doggedly holding the airfield on Guadalcanal . . . They all use those little radio tubes. They do more than use them. Many, many times they depend on those tubes for the saving margin between life or death, victory or defeat.

"These tubes may not look as deadly as an aerial bomb or a 105 mm. gun. They are, however, JUST AS IMPORTANT."

"Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher made the presentation on behalf of the Navy and the award was accepted on behalf of the Company by Mr. B. G. Erskine, President, and by a group composed of Margaret Miller, John Klees, Twila Lepionka, Mary O'Malley and Herbert Vogt, representing the employees.

"Admiral Fisher said in part, "I heard accusations of complacency and inefficiency in our Navy Yard. A newcomer doesn't appreciate the problem of training new men.

"When I see a smooth running machine like this factory here, it makes me feel good to the soles of my feet.

" 'Utmost'—a little word of meaning. It expresses what we can do. This nation has the right to expect the utmost from its citizens. It will receive it from all but the poltroon and the traitor."

"Hourly rates were increased 7½% in May 1942. With this increase, hourly rates are now 24% higher than they were in January, 1941. Salaries have also been revised upward.

"Employees who join the nation's Armed Forces after six month's service with the Company, and who are granted a leave of absence, will receive one month's pay upon leaving.

"All Company members in the Service receive The Beam, Sylvania's company magazine, as a means of keeping in touch with their Company. In addition, at Christmas-time, each member then in the Service received a year's subscription to Time magazine.

"When it is considered that the proportion of women to men in our company is now three to one, the number of men—655—who have entered the service is indeed substantial. During the course of the year, we also had our first enlistments in the WACCs and the WAVEs.

"With a longer average work week and the increase in new and inexperienced employees, health and safety problems have increased in importance. During the year provision was made for a formal rest period in each work schedule requiring more than four hours continuous operation.

"The Company's staff of nurses has been expanded and the activities of its special Safety Engineers directed toward minimizing accidents. It spite of a nationwide trend to the contrary, Sylvania's accident record continued to improve and its employees won three national safety awards during 1942. In one case, this represented a record of three consecutive years without a lost-time accident.

"During the past year, the number of man-hours worked in all plants of the Company increased 68%, while the disabling injuries per man-hour increased only 33%. This experience is all the more noteworthy in that generally in all industries, the rate of accidents increases faster than the number of man-hours worked.

Service Record—as of December 31, 1942

Years of Service	Males	Females	Ttl.	%
3 yrs. or less	2,258	5,950	8,208	80.25
4 to 5 yrs.	151	339	490	4.87
6 to 10 yrs.	352	571	923	9.01
11 to 15 yrs.	179	274	453	4.42
16 to 20 yrs.	36	44	80	.78
21 to 25 yrs.	35	32	67	.65
26 to 30 yrs.	5	9	14	.015
Over 30 yrs.	5	1		.005

"Employees associations make available sick benefits, hospitalization benefits and group insurance to all members. Funds are provided one-half from members and one-half from the Company. In the year 1942 these associations paid $61,212.01 in sick and hospitalization benefits and $22,000.00 in death benefits. Group hospitalization sponsored by the Employees Associations is open to voluntary participation by employees.

"Facilities for saving money and borrowing for worth-while purposes are made available either through the Credit Union organized and operated by the employees in Massachusetts or through regular banking facilities made available in our Pennsylvania plants.

"Cafeterias, dispensaries with a registered nurse in attendance, first aid equipment and facilities for eye and dental examinations are provided in all plants where there is a sufficient number of employees to make them practical.

"In September a Quarter Century Club was formally organized with thirty members, and on December 31st there were thirty-six members.

"During 1942 the transition from civilian to military work was quite rapid, completing the trend begun in 1941. Much of the new work undertaken cannot be discussed at this time, but does account for a considerable part of the expansion of output volume realized during the year and in prospect for the immediate future.

"During the year we were fortunate enough to be able to add substantially to our engineering staff personnel. This increased personnel was particularly welcome in view of the great demand for trained engineers both in war industries and in the armed forces. Additional laboratory space and facilities were also made available through the plant expansion program.

"For some time the need for centralized facilities for research has been recognized. Plan and appropriations have been made which should make such a project a reality within a short time.

"Both in connection with new products and older products going into military and essential civilian channels, the need for substitute materials was felt during the entire year, and considerable engineering effort was devoted to work along these lines.

"While substituting less needed materials for strategic ones, wherever possible, Sylvania has continued in 1942 to consider quality its ideal. Mica from India has been largely replaced by that of the Americas—from both North and South. Our engineers have found the means of replacing nickel with steel in a great many instances in plates, support rods, and other tube parts.

"To present some idea of this degree of substitution, the following may be useful:

"The use of steel in parts formerly requiring nickel released nickel worth approximately $200,000 for other war uses in 1942. The substitution of steel utilizing only small amounts of copper has made available quantities of copper and brass. The tin in solders has been reduced by the employment of less useful materials. Surface coatings developed by Sylvania have made possible the use of baser materials. On the other hand, the use of gold and other precious metals has released other vital materials needed for the successful prosecution of the war. Ingenuity has made it possible not only to substitute, but to eliminate the use of much nickel by the employment of simple mechanical operations in the manufacture of lamp mounts.

"Progress was made in planning for immediate as well as for more distant future research and engineering activities, with the expectation that these plans would begin to mature in 1943.

"During the year the patent position of the company was further strengthened by the addition of a number of new patents."

Formation of the Warren Relief Association was hastened by relief activities that followed the flood of 1882, which carried away bridges across the Conewango and cut off vehicular communication between the borough and what was then known as Glade.

The first religious congregation formed here was of Presbyterians but the first church building was erected by Methodists in 1833. Of brick, it was occupied continuously until demolished in 1885.

July 24, 1825 saw Warren's first newspaper, the "Conewango Emigrant". Among many succeeding it were the "Warren Courier", "Warren Gazette", "Warren Mail", "The Voice of the People", "Warren Bulletin", "Democratic Advocate".

Honus Wagner, Claude Ritchey and other famous ball players in the old Iron and Oil League made their headquarters in Billy Moran's Warren Hotel which was in the building now owned by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Masterson Company Has New Building

Announcement was made today of the purchase of property on Lexington avenue formerly occupied by the Lexington Roller Rink by the Masterson Transfer and Storage Company. The price was not announced.

The building was erected many years ago and was used for a time as a plant for the making of incandescent lamps and still later as a plant where artificial fever producing machines were made. The roller rink moved into the building remodeled for its use with a composition floor, etc. The rink the Masterson Company will have extensive repairs made. A modern office will be arranged and overhead doors hung for the garage, etc. The work will be started as soon as plans are completed but it is not expected that the company will move for at least two months.

The structure is a large one and recently vacated.

The Masterson Company for many years has been located in the Waters building at the rear of the Emblem Oil Company's service station. The company operates a fleet of trucks and vans and also specializes in the moving of heavy mochinery, etc., with specially constructed trucks.

Warren has three traffic bridges connecting various portions of the city and a need exists for a fourth at the western end of Warren.

Looking at WARREN
for the First Time

To newcomers to Warren—to new people, to new business firms, Warren looks different than it does to us old-timers. We who have lived here so long may take much of Warren for granted.

So, as we welcome the Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., to our business and community life let us "lift up our eyes to the hills" surrounding our green valley. Let us be glad of our fine churches and schools, the efficient management of our borough, our alert and modern business firms, our service groups: Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy and Girl Scouts, Business and Professional Clubs. Our post office and municipal building are modern and beautiful. Our library, unusual for so small a town. Our system of park and public playgrounds, our many private clubs, well-kept homes and victory gardens . . . And our court house showing blind justice holding the scales . . .

So, because you have helped us see our town with new eyes, we say, THANK YOU, and

Welcome, Sylvania

5 AP STAFFS IN ONE GET THE REAL VASHINGTON NEWS

5 AP's Regional Service staff has the home town touch. A Regional reporter, such as Jo Thompson, interviewing Representative John M. Costello of California, watches for news important to some one state or section of the country.

JOB IS FINISHED

Street Commissioner E. T. Beck with his crew of men have just completed one of the most important pieces of construction work that the city has taken up in years. This is the concrete culvert which will handle the waters of Indian Run on Brook street and East Fifth avenue. This stream for years has caused trouble each fall and spring and has caused hundreds of dollars damage. Council some weeks ago authorized the building of a three by eight foot covered culvert which will carry the water and this work has not been completed. Indian Run for 30 years has been a problem for the sewer committee and now that it is completed the Councilmen are breathing easier.

The big rocks along the highway near Scandia are one of the scenic sights of the county.

TIMES TOPICS

BENEFIT GAMES

The Service Fund of the VFW Auxiliary will again profit by attendance at the weekly series of games to be held in the post rooms on Wednesday evening.

STAFF TO MEET

Forest Waite, commander of the local control center, has asked that staff members meet at the center Wednesday evening for the purpose of considering incidents prepared by local chiefs for submission to the state control center.

MAY MOVE OCT. FIRST

Chairman Earl Patchen of the Council building committee gives it as his opinion that if no unforseen holdups occur the men of Engine Company No. 2 will move into the new fire station by October 1st. The temporary quarters rented by the city are not as comfortable as the new station house with its cozy living quarters and bunk room will be and the men of the Engine Company are hopeful that Mr. Patchen's prognostication is correct.

TIMES TOPICS

SEND-OFF FOR MEMBER

In addition to a program of movies arranged by the chairman, Peter Nelson, Kiwanis Club members meeting at the Hotel Carver at noon Wednesday will say farewell to R. L. Kimberland, manager of the Personal Finance Company, who leaves soon to enter the armed forces.

IS GIVEN FAREWELL

Members of the local Gracchian chapter held an informal meeting last evening at the home of William H. Wright, president, as a farewell for Sam A. Reed, past president of the group, who is leaving tomorrow to make his home in Souther Pines, N. C.

HONOR INDUCTEE

Fellow employes of the three state liquor stores in Warren, Sheffield and Youngsville are holding a farewell gathering and picnic this afternoon and evening at the Johnsen cottage at Oakview Park to honor Stanley Lawson, chief clerk in the local store, who is leaving next week for army duty.

Wall eyed pike are still plentiful in the Allegheny river in the eddy at Warren and during the past two years many big ones have been taken opposite Hazel street. The pike lie in deep water and many frequent the old pier of the bridge that once crossed the river at Hazel street.

Cornplanter reservation, 22 miles above Warren on the Allegheny river is the only Indian tribe now in Pennsylvania.

Back in the '80s the Piso Company had a complete printery and issued millions of small almanacs that were shipped all over the world. Charley Crandall (late Elk's minstrel star) wrote a clever song one time entitled "The Piso Girls."

The original Conewango Fishing Club was organized in 1895 and started on its first trek to Lake Talon, Ont., on August 3 of that year.

In one case, this represented a record of three consecutive years without a lost-time accident.

"During the past year, the number of man-hours worked in all plants of the Company increased 68%, while the disabling injuries per man-hour increased only 33%. This experience is all the more noteworthy in that generally in all industries, the rate of accidents increases faster than the number of man-hours worked.

Service Record—as of December 31, 1942

"Employees associations make available sick benefits, hospitalization benefits and group insurance to all members. Funds are provided one-half from members and one-half from the Company. In the year 1942 these associations paid $61,212.01 in sick and hospitalization benefits and $22,000.00 in death benefits. Group hospitalization sponsored by the Employees Associations is open to voluntary participation by employees.

"Facilities for saving money and borrowing for worth-while purposes are made available either through the Credit Union organized and operated by the employees in Massachusetts or through regular banking facilities made available in our Pennsylvania plants.

"Cafeterias, dispensaries with a registered nurse in attendance, first aid equipment and facilities for eye and dental examinations are provided in all plants where there is a sufficient number of employees to make them practical.

"In September a Quarter Century Club was formally organized with thirty members, and on December 31st there were thirty-six members.

"During 1942 the transition from civilian to military work was quite rapid, completing the trend begun in 1941. Much of the new work undertaken cannot be discussed at this time, but does account for a considerable part of the expansion of output volume realized during the year and in prospect for the immediate future.

"During the year we were fortunate enough to be able to add substantially to our engineering staff personnel. This increased personnel was particularly welcome in view of the great demand for trained engineers both in war industries and in the armed forces. Additional laboratory space and facilities were also made available through the plant expansion program.

"For some time the need for centralized facilities for research has been recognized. Plan and appropriations have been made which should make such a project a reality within a short time.

"Both in connection with new products and older products going into military and essential civilian channels, the need for substitute materials was felt during the entire year, and considerable engineering effort was devoted to work along these lines.

"While substituting less needed materials for strategic ones, wherever possible, Sylvania has continued in 1942 to consider quality its ideal. Mica from India has been largely replaced by that of the Americas—from both North and South. Our engineers have found the means of replacing nickel with steel in a great many instances in plates, support rods, and other tube parts.

"To present some idea of this degree of substitution, the following may be useful:

"The use of steel in parts formerly requiring nickel released nickel worth approximately $200,000 for other war uses in 1942. The substitution of steel utilizing only small amounts of copper has made available quantities of copper and brass. The tin in solders has been reduced by the employment of less useful materials. Surface coatings developed by Sylvania have made possible the use of baser materials. On the other hand, the use of gold and other precious metals has released other vital materials needed for the successful prosecution of the war. Ingenuity has made it possible not only to substitute, but to eliminate the use of much nickel by the employment of simple mechanical operations in the manufacture of lamp mounts.

"Progress was made in planning for immediate as well as for more distant future research and engineering activities, with the expectation that these plans would begin to mature in 1943.

"During the year the patent position of the company was further strengthened by the addition of a number of new patents."

Masterson Company Has New Building

Announcement was made today of the purchase of property on Lexington avenue formerly accupied by the Lexington Roller Rink by the Masterson Transfer and Storage Company. The price was not announced.

The building was erected many years ago and was used for a time as a plant for the making of incandescent lamps and still later as a plant where artificial fever producing machines were made. The roller rink moved into the building remodeled for its use with a composition floor, etc. The rink the Masterson Company will have extensive repairs made. A modern office will be arranged and overhead doors hung for the garage, etc. The work will be started as soon as plans are completed but it is not expected that the company will move for at least two months.

The structure is a large one and recently vacated.

The Masterson Company for many years has been located in the Waters building at the rear of the Emblem Oil Company's service station. The company operates a fleet of trucks and vans and also specializes in the moving of heavy mochinery, etc., with specially constructed trucks.

Formation of the Warren Relief Association was hastened by relief activities that followed the flood of 1882, which carried away bridges across the Conewango and cut off vehicular communication between the borough and what was then known as Glade.

The first religious congregation formed here was of Presbyterians but the first church building was erected by Methodists in 1833. Of brick, it was occupied continuously until demolished in 1885.

July 24, 1825 saw Warren's first newspaper, the "Conewango Emigrant". Among many succeeding it were the "Warren Courier", "Warren Gazette", "Warren Mail", "The Voice of the People", "Warren Bulletin", "Democratic Advocate".

Honus Wagner, Claude Ritchey and other famous ball players in the old Iron and Oil League made their headquarters in Billy Moran's Warren Hotel which was in the building now owned by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Warren has three traffic bridges connecting various portions of the city and a need exists for a four at the western end of Warren.

Looking at WARREN
for the First Time

To newcomers to Warren—to new people, to new business firms, Warren looks different than it does to us old-timers. We who have lived here so long may take much of Warren for granted.

So, as we welcome the Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., to our business and community life let us "lift up our eyes to the hills" surrounding our green valley. Let us be glad of our fine churches and schools, the efficient management of our borough, our alert and modern business firms, our service groups: Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy and Girl Scouts, Business and Professional Clubs. Our post office and municipal building are modern and beautiful. Our library, unusual for so small a town. Our system of park and public playgrounds, our many private clubs, well-kept homes and victory gardens . . . And our court house showing blind justice holding the scales . . .

So, because you have helped us see our town with new eyes, we say, THANK YOU, and

Welcome, Sylvania

You are mighty welcome to Warren and we feel that you will find the Elks Club a mighty homey place. We challenge you to come up and astound us with your fish stories, hunting tales, and other tall stories. We know some good ones and are betting that you will have to go some to beat us. But it can be done and they do say that if anybody can do it the Sylvania boys are the ones.

So, welcome! Come up and make yourselves at home in Warren and visit us at the Elks Club.

5 AP STAFFS IN ONE GET THE REAL WASHINGTON NEWS

5 AP's Regional Service staff has the home town touch. A Regional reporter, such as Jo Thompson, interviewing Representative John M. Costello of California, watches for news important to some one state or section of the country.

JOB IS FINISHED

Street Commissioner E. T. Beck with his crew of men have just completed one of the most important pieces of construction work that the city has taken up in years. This is the concrete culvert which will handle the waters of Indian Run on Brook street and East Fifth avenue. This stream for years has caused trouble each fall and spring and has caused hundreds of dollars damage. Council some weeks ago authorized the building of a three by eight foot covered culvert which will carry the water and this work has not been completed. Indian Run for 30 years has been a problem for the sewer committee and now that it is completed the Councilmen are breathing easier.

The big rocks along the highway near Scandia are one of the scenic sights of the county.

BENEFIT GAMES

The Service Fund of the VFW Auxiliary will again profit by attendance at the weekly series of games to be held in the post rooms on Wednesday evening.

STAFF TO MEET

Forest Waite, commander of the local control center, has asked that staff members meet at the center Wednesday evening for the purpose of considering incidents prepared by local chiefs for submission to the state control center.

MAY MOVE OCT. FIRST

Chairman Earl Patchen of the Council building committee gives it as his opinion that if no unforseen holdups occur the men of Engine Company No. 2 will move into the new fire station by October 1st. The temporary quarters rented by the city are not as comfortable as the new station house with its cozy living quarters and bunk room will be and the men of the Engine Company are hopeful that Mr. Patchen's prognostication is correct.

TIMES TOPICS

SEND-OFF FOR MEMBER

In addition to a program of movies arranged by the chairman, Peter Nelson, Kiwanis Club members meeting at the Hotel Carver at noon Wednesday will say farewell to R. L. Kimberland, manager of the Personal Finance Company, who leaves soon to enter the armed forces.

IS GIVEN FAREWELL

Members of the local Gracchian chapter held an informal meeting last evening at the home of William H. Wright, president, as a farewell for Sam A. Reed, past president of the group, who is leaving tomorrow to make his home in Souther Pines, N. C.

HONOR INDUCTEE

Fellow employes of the three state liquor stores in Warren, Sheffield and Youngsville are holding a farewell gathering and picnic this afternoon and evening at the Johnsen cottage at Oakview Park to honor Stanley Lawson, chief clerk in the local store, who is leaving next week for army duty.

Wall eyed pike are still plentiful in the Allegheny river in the eddy at Warren and during the past two years many big ones have been taken opposite Hazel street. The pike lie in deep water and many frequent the old pier of the bridge that once crossed the river at Hazel street.

Cornplanter reservation, 22 miles above Warren on the Allegheny river is the only Indian tribe now in Pennsylvania.

Back in the '80s the Piso Company had a complete printery and issued millions of small almanacs that were shipped all over the world. Charley Crandall (late Elk's minstrel star) wrote a clever song one time entitled "The Piso Girls."

The original Conewango Fishing Club was organized in 1895 and started on its first trek to Lake Talon, Ont., on August 3 of that year.

Plenty of Exciting Grid Fun in Store For Local Fan

Dragons Already Have Shown They Have What It Takes To Battle the Best of Elevens

With the opening games out of the systems of the High School teams in this section the sports observer can take a slant at the talent and gain a better idea of what is what on the gridiron. Corry has taken a severe wallop in the loss of Chuck Jackson, who in practice last week banged up a knee which may leave him with one of those trick affairs that pop in and out. It is a blow to the Beavers. Jackson was a tower of strength in the Beaver backfield.

Ridgway has bounced back again this year with perhaps more lettermen than any other high school outfit on the Warren schedule and trouble may be looked for from Stanford's Elkers. They have a veteran outfit in many positions and have a line up presenting these old trouble makers: Hen Johnson, Roy Healy, Keith Mader, Dick Warmbrod, Eugene Pearson and Charles O'Leary in the line and that elusive hip twister Red Olson in the back field. Stanford has a goodly field of boys to put into the game this year and it will be a good thing to keep a weather eye on the Elkers.

Oil City, Franklin and Titusville promise to be no great shakes this year but they have always given plenty of trouble to the Warren elevens and this year promises to be no exception. Oil City has some big boys in its squad and the Nursery has always produced some speed. Titusville during the past couple of years has not gone to town in any great way but have won a consistent number of games and have sprung many surprises.

Corry has a veteran line which is giving Coach Putnam little worry but his backfield is not too hot. Red Kennedy and Jimmy Reynolds with Chuck Jackson were rounding into form in the backfield but if Jackson's knee should play him tricks a new man will have to be dug up at that position.

Jamestown, according to the word brought down from the Hilltop, has a host of candidates all of them big and rangy and Coach Leidig's Dragons will have to show plenty of intestinal fortude to take their measure.

But the die is cast and the season is on and there will be plenty of good gridiron fun and the Warren High School students will provide plenty of color at the games with their band and cheering sections.

Coach Leidig is working hard to get a game to fill the spot for next Saturday but if he should not be successful he is planning a Football Festival that should draw a huge crowd. He plans on dividing his squad into two sections and providing a game. Then he also plans a program of punting, passing and other contests and it should form a three hour program with every minute filled with something of interest.

The idea sounds great and there are hundreds who feel that the Mentor should not cast about too hard for a contestant.

MBS Only Chain To Carry World Series

New York, Sept. 14—(AP)—As it has done each fall starting in 1939, the MBS network again this year will be the only chain to carry the world series play by play. This is under an exclusive sponsorship arrangement whereby the $100,000 paid for the broadcast rights will go to the Red Cross and other charity organizations.

Also, as usual, Red Barber will be the play-by-play announcer, with two other microphone experts to be selected. Under the schedule as announced, play is to start in New York October 5 and then switch to St. Louis on October 10.

Card Rookies May Be Used In the Series

St. Louis, Sept. 14—(AP)—Two newcomers to the St. Louis Cardinals' pitching staff may get starting chances in the World Series.

Remembering the showing young Johnny Beazley made against the veteran Red Ruffing last year, Manager Billy Southworth is keeping his eyes on two southpaw rookies, Alpha Brazle and Harry Brecheen.

As the Cardinals announced the start of World Series ticket sales, Southworth said he hasn't definitely picked Mort Cooper for the first game.

Should Cooper or Max Lanier run into defeat in the opener, Southworth may turn to his two first-year pitchers who have been carrying their share of the load.

Brecheen, with 31 walks and 59 strikeouts in 116 innings, verges on the good-pitcher proportion of passes to whiffs—one to two, and has a 9-5 win margin.

Major League Leaders Hav Chance To Clinch Pennan During the Next Weeke

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

There isn't any mystery about which teams are going to win the major league pennants, but a lot of fans are rushing for pencil and paper to figure out when the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees will get around to clinching their championships.

It may contribute to the calm and orderly processes of arithmetic, therefore, to point out that there will be no clinching before next weekend and the situation can be explored without the aid of rapid calculus.

The Cardinals can settle the senior circuit controversy with any combination of five victories for themselves or five defeats for their immediate pursuers, the Brooklyn Dodgers, while the magic combination for the Yankees is ten, and consequently further removed.

The Cardinals might be able to make short shift of their pennant problem except that they haven't played since last Saturda are aren't scheduled again Thursday, when they will em on a six-game four-day s with the New York Giants.

Out of this action should the Cardinals' clincher, but it arrive before Saturday.

Both the Yanks and Indians be reasonably busy this week result it would be possible for York to put over the clinche Sunday if it were to win all games in the meantime and Cl land were to lose continuously since this is unlikely, and Monday and Tuesday are dates in both leagues, the guess is that the Yankees will nail down their pennant until latter part of next week.

Action in the majors yeste was confined to Boston, where Braves completed their suspe ed game of July 18 with Brooklyn Dodgers and obtaine 7-6 ten-inning triumph, but the regularly scheduled con 10-3.

Grid Sport This Week Take Step Nearer Center of Stag

BY HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Sept 14—(AP)—The Iowa Pre-Flight Eleven, glamor team of early 1942, and Michigan, expected to replace the Seahawks in that role this fall, open their campaigns this weekend as the gridiron sport takes another step nearer the center of the stage.

Davis cup team, rates the young tennis players in this order: Bobby Falkenburg, Jimmy Brink and Jack Tuero. Bobby gets the top spot because of his tennis brains, but man isn't so sure that Brink won't be the best player in the long run.

Gil Had His Fill

Gil Bouley, a 230-pound tackle at Boston College last year, pared his weight down to 218 while he was training to become an army physical training instructor at Atlantic City, N. J. . . Then Gil decided he'd like to be a flier in spite of the 200-pound limit, and the cadet selection board gave him two weeks to get rid of the extra poundage. . . So midsummer afternoons, Bouley swathed himself in wool and galloped along the boardwalk . . . Most of the bathers on the beach paid little attention, but one stopped Gil and asked. "Who are you fighting?" . . . "The Cadet board," replied Bouley, moving off at double time.

Autographed Ball Sells $10,000 Bond

Philadelphia, Sept. 14—(AP)—When it comes to selling war bonds the team of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill ranks near the top.

A baseball autographed by them brought a $10,000 subscription at an auction between games of Sunday's Athletics-Senators doubleheader at Shibe Park.

Two balls signed by Washington and Philadelphia players brought $1,000 each.

Girl Football Coach Is Not Discouraged By Her Defeat

BY ARDEN SKIDMORE

Salina, Sept. 14—(AP)—Comely Pauline Rugh, the girl football coach, lost her first game 47-0—but she's not asking anyone for a spare shoulder to weep on.

"Don't worry too much about it," she told her Bell township lads, patting them on the back as they trooped to their dressing room Saturday. "It was my first game and yours, too. We were too inexperienced."

Someone asked mischieviously if she might quit after such a bad defeat. "I should say not," she snapped. "I'm going to do my darndest to have a good team."

The Derry players—they weren't going to let any girl-coached team beat them—won about as expected. Bell, it should be explained, is a "B" class school in this western Pennsylvania hamlet, Derry an "A" class school. It was like pitting Sewanee against Notre Dame.

"In her own class she's going to give opponents a handful, and I mean that," declared Brunto Conti, Derry coach. "Her boys were very aggressive and reallly cooperated with her. They really snapped to her call for the pre-game huddle."

Conti said he didn't believe Bell used a dozen plays but he reported, "I saw a very nice pass play into the flat on the strong side from an unbalanced line, and her off-tackle looked good.

"The 22-year old blonde also used an end run, line buck, and on one occasion a reverse.

Conti, with a wide grin, said Miss Rugh didn't come over to shake his hand after the game, as is customary. She looked "pretty badly broken up," he said.

"I thought he should have come over to my side of the field," Miss Rugh retorted.

What color the Bell team lacked Miss Rugh supplied. In fact, more than 3,000 fans came principally to see her.

Attired in a two-piece brown suit with a sweater under her jacket, she squirmed and pitched nervously on the bench like any other coach.

Frisch Given Contract For Another Year

Pittsburgh, Sept. 14—(AP)—Along with hearty congratulations on having a team that likely will finish in the first division in the National League, Frankie Frisch yesterday was handed a contract for another year as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Frank has done a good job this year," declared Club President William Benswanger, announcing the arrangement.

No announcement was made as to Frisch's salary. The agreement holds for one year.

Frisch, the one-time Fordham Flash, went to the New York Giants direct from college in the summer of 1919. He stayed with the Giants until 1926 and from then on until 1938 was with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Managing the Redbirds from 1934 to 1938, Frankie became the first major league pilot to win a world series in his first full year as a manager. In Pittsburgh, he succeeded Pie Traynor in 1940.

SPORT SHORTS

Philadelphia, Sept. 14—(AP)—Dudley Brundage, whose brother Bob was first-string fullback on Penn's last two teams, and Joe Michaels, a V-12 Navy student who captained Drexel Tech's last team for the duration, are fighting it out for the tailback spot as Penn drills for the season's opener with Princeton a week from Saturday.

Philadelphia, Sept. 14—(AP)—Steve Bellois middleweight contender, will make his first Phila. appearance Sept. 27, promoter Herman Taylor announced, meeting Young Kid Robinson of Philadelphia in a 10-round preliminary to the Chalky Wright-Terry Young fight in the arena.

Allentown, Sept. 14—(AP)—Ossie (Bulldog) Harris, 157-pound Pittsburg negro with a bothersome left jab, fought to a draw with Neil Miller, 157, of Wilkes-Barre, last night. The split decision brought catcalls from many in the crowd.

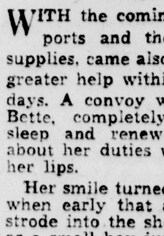
SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 14—(AP)—Comparing this year's Oklahoma football squad with the 1942 outfit. Harold Keith comes up with the following sets of figures: 1942—age, 20.8 years; height, 6 feet ½ inch; weight 187 pounds; 1943—19.3 years; 5 feet 11½ inches; and 174.6 pounds . . . and his average 1943 player is a navy trainee, too . . . Clemson's Joe Sherman puts the situation at an "Army" school somewhat more simply—"we're planning to do the best we can with what we have, which is not quite some."

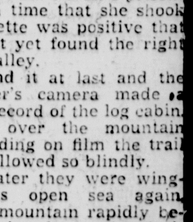
Future Book

West Coast golfers, including Lieut. Marvin (Bud) Ward, the national amateur champion, are high on the prospects of 14-year-old Buddy Moe of Spokane, who shot 72-69—141 in the Spokane City championship this summer . . . and the fight folks out that way say to watch for light heavyweight Joe Kahut, who is "frozen" on his Oregon farm . . . Alrick Man, Jr., who handles the Junior Davis cup team, rates the young tennis players in this order: Bobby Falkenburg, Jimmy Brink and Jack Tuero. Bobby gets the top spot because of his tennis brains, but man isn't so sure that Brink won't be the best player in the long run.



THE LONG NIGHT

By Eleanor Atterbury



Chapter 24

WITH the coming of the transports and the much-needed supplies, came also the promise of greater help within the next few days. A convoy was on its way. Bette, completely refreshed by sleep and renewed faith, went about her duties with a smile on her lips.

Her smile turned to amazement when early that afternoon Scott strode into the shelter as excited as a small boy just invited to go fishing.

"Where's Bette?"

Bette put down the book she'd been reading to one of the patients, stood up.

"You're to report to headquarters," he said, his lips grave, his eyes dancing. "Major Field's orders."

"You're kidding!"

"Come on." He took her arm, still grave but Bette saw laugther pulling at the corners of his mouth. "You will disobey rules and regulations," he teased deliberately as they crossed to the cave dug near the ruins of what had formerly been the recreation building. Her green eyes snapping she notched hr chin higher, said calmly, "What's the joke?"

But it wasn't a joke. It was heady, thrilling excitement.

"YOU'LL understand, Miss Stuart, you are not obliged to consent to undertake this job," Major Field smiled slowly. "But if you care to volunteer, we could use your services to splendid advantage."

"Certainly, I'll go," Bette answered promptly. "When do we leave?"

The Major glanced toward Scott who had stood silent throughout the time his superior officer outlined the plan. "You were quite right, Mac. She's top drawer."

Bette flushed slowly as the Major turned his approving smile back to her, hoped fervently that neither man could hear the sudden rapturous thundering of her heart. Scott had asked for her! Scott had wanted her to go with him!

For Scott MacQuaid and the photographer, the flight was more or less routine. But to Bette it seemed like a kind fate's generous reward for every moment of work and worry her career had cost. To fly back over the trail she had followed, to identify the Porter cabin to locate the trail over the mountain leading to the enemy camp on the other side of the island. It might have been something she'd dreamed up.

Swathed in a borrowed flying suit, she clambered into the scouting plane, strapped herself into the seat with fingers that trembled with sheer excitement.

Major Field poked his head through the open door, said gravely, "Sure you don't want to change your mind, Miss Stuart? This isn't going to be any joyride, you know. There's a chance you may not get back."

BETTE shook her head. "I know And there's a chance I may be able to help, too, you know." She smiled and pushed back the thought that this time when Scott took to the air, she wouldn't be left on the ground to worry about his safe return.

They rose from the floor of the narrow valley with such speed that the mountain walls seemed to fall away on either side, the river to dwindle rapidly from thundering current to tiny silver ribbon.

Once above the first falls, however, Scott dipped lower and Bette peerd down anxiously, searching for remembered landmarks on that trail she had followed only days before.

From the air, it was easy to see how the stream fell down the mountainside. Then, as it grew smaller, as tributaries branched away into heavily timbered country, Bette realized how inevitable it had been that she lose her way. Scott circled slowly, gave her plenty of time to search the open en[illegible] the tall trees for the log cabin where she'd spent dangerous hours as Paul Porter's prisoner. But each time that she shook her head, Bette was positive that they had not yet found the right mountain valley.

They found it at last and the photographer's camera made a permanent record of the log cabin.

Then on over the mountain range, recording on film the trail Bette had followed so blindly.

Instants later they were winging towards open sea again, leaving the mountain rapidly behind. When the plane pointed almost directly down and roared toward boiling surf far below, Bette realized that they must be near the sheltered bay that hid the Japanese hornet's nest that must be wiped out.

The swift dive took Bette's breath. She clung to the seat strap.

THE plane flattened out abruptly. Bette shook off a feeling of faintness, recognized that they flew only hundreds of feet above the tiny harbor now, so close that she could easily see the camouflaging underbrush strung on wire over the hidden vessel. Scott guided the plane deliberately around the harbor twice, giving the photographer ample time to picture everything. Then, imperiously, Scott turned the plane about once more, zoomed low over the enemy ship, headed out toward the ocean.

Suddenly Scott seemed to have gone completely mad. Twisting the plane, turning it abruptly, he sent it through the air on a crazy zig-zag pattern. Hypnotized, Bette watched the speedometer edge from 250 to 300 m.p.h. This low over the heaving ocean, it seemed even faster. Was he showing off like some smarty small boy? She frowned anxiously and pantomimed her question to the photographer sitting behind her.

He merely grinned, jerked a thumb over his shoulder. Bette flattened her nose against the window to see. On their tail and drawing steadily closer were two Jap Zeros'

Eye-Witness To Thrilling Battles In the South Pacific Will Address Warren Rally

What will undoubtedly be the biggest entertainment attraction of the year in Warren county, is scheduled for this coming Friday night, September 17, when Joe James Custer, United Press correspondent in the Pacific Theatre, will speak at a public rally. The rally is being held in connection with the Warren County third war loan drive, and every man, woman and child is invited to attend this great free demonstration. The First Presbyterian church has been selected for the rally because of the large seating capacity. The rally will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

Joe James Custer was the only newspaper man to eye-witness the fierce sea engagement between Allied and Japanese naval forces off Guadalcanal on August 8, 1942.

From the bridge of the U. S. S. Astoria, Custer saw three Allied ships—the Australian Canberra and the U. S. Cruisers Quincy and Vincennes—sent to the bottom in what he describes as "38 minutes of utter hell."

The Astoria was hit more than 200 times during that engagement and she was afire amidships. In the final seconds of the battle a Jap shell exploded on the deck near Custer. Blood and pain blinded him. A shell fragment, it was established later, had torn its way through his cheek and lodged behind his left eyeball. The Astoria sank the following day and Custer was removed with the other wounded to a relief ship.

Before he was invalided home—temporarily—Joe James Custer had a front seat at every important Pacific engagement—from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo. He was on the Marshall and Gilbert Islands raid. he was on an escorting destroyer when Jimmy Doolittle and his boys swept off the Hornet's deck, headed for Tokyo . . . in short he's seen history made, and seen our boys fighting and dying to make our victory possible.

When Joe James Custer comes before you next Friday night, he will tell you his story—a story of bravery, heroism and sheer American grit and determination that no red-blooded American will want to miss.

Now on a nation-wide lecture tour under the direction of the Leigh Bureau of Lectures and Entertainments, the Warren County War Finance Committee was exceedingly fortunate to be able to obtain Joe James Custer for the Friday night rally. Custer's talk will provide the audience with 60 tense, exciting minutes of war experiences from a man who has seen more hot sea action than any other war correspondent. In addition to the talk by Joe James Custer many other surprises are in store for those who attend, including the High School Band.

Register and Recorder, O. E. Loper issued a marriage license Saturday to Charles Spencer Hudson, of Warren, and Ruth Irene Richardson, of Ellsworth, Pa. An application was made the same day by Jack Wiles Moore and Mary Elizabeth Lind, both of Warren.

JOBS IN BUFFALO

Manager David Levine of the Federal Employment office calls attention to the advertisement of the Buffalo Battery Company run by the office today, the company is seeking men and women both and Mr. Levine states draft age fathers might find an opening in essential employment with the Buffalo concern.

COTTAGE SITES SOUGHT

Harry T. Klinestiver, publisher of the Tionesta Republican spent some time in Warren Sunday and while here commented on the growth of the cottage colonies along the Allegheny river. He stated that the demand for cottage sites was mounting and that the river frontage near Tionesta both on the river and Tionesta creek had been fairly well exhausted. He also stated that over Labor Day every tourists camp near near Tionesta and every hotel and rooming house in Tionesta was crowded many sleeping on cots. Mr. Klinestiver is highly enthusiastic over the future of this section as a resort region and feels that the people of the section are not yet fully awake to the possibilities of the tourists as a source of income.

Manager of New Plant Has Long and Active Career

R. W. Beal, Manager

A. L. Chapman Asst. Manager

Dynamic R. W. Beal, formerly president of Electro-Metals, Inc., at Cleveland and one of the owners of that corporation, has been appointed as manager of the new Sylvania Electric Products plant here, it was announced today. Simultaneously it was announced that Arthur L. Chapman, general production foreman at the Emporium plant of Sylvania, has been named as assistant manager of the new plant in Warren.

Mr. Beal is a native Pennsylvanian having been born at Hadley, Pa., where he spent the early years of his life. In young manhood he became identified with the George Worthington Hardware Company and met considerable success with that firm. He then became a salesman with the Lowe Brothers Paint Company and created a sensation with his work for them in the southwest. Later he became affiliated with the National Life Insurance Company and again scored a success.

Electro-Metals then attracted his attention and he entered its employe as a salesman, later buying into the company and advancing with its growth until he became president of the firm and one of its nine owners.

Energetic, persevering and possessed of a capacity for hard work he gave of his talents to the company until it became a leader in its field. Due to his ability many improvements were made in the machinery entering into the production.

Upon the sale of the Electro-Metals to the Sylvania Mr. Beal due to his experience in the work of the plant was retained and he will come to this city to make his home and be manager of the plant here.

West Hickory 4-H Club Has Fine Program

The West Hickory 4-H Supper Club presented a very enjoyable program at their round-up Saturday, Sept. 11. The club members exhibited their work and received certificates of completion and merit awards.

The program was in charge of the club president, Aldine Vandervort. Miss Mary Green was pianist. To open the program the audience joined in singing "America." A humorous skit, "Radio Recipes," was presented by Betty Schall, Mary Green and Shirley Hannah. "Jolly, Jolly Six Pence" was sung by Betty Schall and Jeanine Jones. Helen Lewis read "Food for Health." "Shingle Bells" and "While the Organ Peeled Potatoes" was sung by the club. "Calories" was read by Twila Crawford, followed by a piano solo by Mary Green. Betty Head gave a recitation "Vitamins." The National 4-H Club song, "Dreaming," was sung by the club members. A pantomime "While Dining" showing some of the common breaks in table manners was read by Aldine Vandervort and acted by Gloria Stoddard, Shirley Hannah, Janet Williams and Jeanine Jones. Slides titled "Ladies and Gentlemen" were shown by Mrs. Brady, the Extension worker. Betty Head and Betty Schall played a guitar duet. The club closed their program by singing "4-H Will Shine Tonight."

The following girls received certificates of completion and merit awards. Blue merit—Mary Ellen Cook, Helen Lewis, Gloria Stoddard, Betty Head, Mary Green and Aldine Vandervort; Red merit—Janet Williams, Betty Schall, Shirley Hannah, Effie Alabaugh, Twila Crawford and Charlotte Kennedy; white merit—Jeanine Jones. These girls, though they cannot all be excellent cooks and receive a blue merit any more than everyone can be an artist, have proved by completing their projects that they possess that admirable characteristic of completing the job they began.

The Club members and Extension worker wish to extend their thanks to Mrs. Russell Kifer who was local leader of the club, to parents and friends who have shown their interest and given their help in any way at home or during the Club program.

The New Process Company, employing female labor chiefly, is an important source of employment in the borough. It accounted for 82.5 percent of the gross receipts of the Warren post office in 1940.

How many readers have heard the far-famed Ripley acclaim the "Warren Public Library as the only building of its kind having a smoking room?"

YOUNGSVILLE

Youngsville, Sept. 14—Brokenstraw Fish and Game Club has just received a number of cans of brown and rainbow trout for distribution in streams in this section through Congressman L. H. Gavin of Oil City. The trout will be distributed by Fish Warden Ross Bailey and Gurney Ball.

HEAR ARMY SERGEANT TALK

The Methodist Brotherhood at its meeting of Thursday evening, held in the Methodist church, heard a most interesting talk by Sergeant Stanley Davis, who was spending a furlough at his home in Youngsville, following military maneuvers in the south. Sergeant Davis told in a very interesting manner of the careful training army troops are receiving in this country, preparing them for combat duty. The boys learn by actual experience some of the hardships which they may meet later. They are required to crawl from one position to another with machinegun fire a few inches above their heads and sleep where night finds them, much as they would if in enemy country.

MRS. SMITH HOSTESS

Mrs. Merle Smith was hostess to the Methodist Dorcas Class Thursday evening. An election of officers were held at the business session, resulting as follows: Mrs. Willis Kinnear, president; Mrs. Merle Smith, vice president; Mrs. Charles Spencer, secretary and treasurer; Miss Nellie Knapp, teacher.

Mrs. Dwight Jack led in the opening prayer. Plans for improving the class room were made. A very interesting contest in sewing on buttons with the hands in heavy gloves was provided by the committee. Mrs. Belle Kay acted as assistant hostess.

Delicious refreshments were served.

GIDEONS SPEAK

Messrs. Groce and Miller, of Bradford, were the seakers Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service in the Methodist church. This was Conference Sunday, so the pastor was not present. M. H. Sellin presided at the meeting and Vernon Jones acted as pianist. Both speakers were representatives of the Gideon organization and told of the work of this group of Christian traveling men who are now placing millions of New Testaments into the hands of service men.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN

Congressman L. H. Gavin, of Oil City, was in town last week calling on friends in the borough.

Mr. and Mrs. Naman Anderson, Miss Naomi Hendrickson and Miss Margaret Dyer visited Niagara Falls over the weekend.

Howard V. Brown, of Albuquerque, N. M., formerly of Kane, was a dinner guest Friday of Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Smith, who have also lived in Albuquerque.

C. R. Negus, of Fort Pierce, Fla., is visiting relatives in Youngsville and Jamestown.

The Christian Young People's Society of Youngsville meets Friday evening on Island Park. A weiner roast is to be a part of the evening's entertainment.

U. B. CHURCH EVENTS

Sunday evening the Christian Endeavor Society held an out-of-doors installation service for their newly-elected officers.

Wednesday afternoon the Dorcas Class will meet with Mrs. Freeborough, with Mrs. James Jones as program leader.

On Wednesday the World Friendship Circle will meet directly after school, with a tureen dinner at the church at 5:30 p. m.

The Truth Seekers Class will meet Thursday with Mrs. Ethel Taylor.

Coal Users Are Urged to Put In Winter Supply

Received today from the Office of Price Administration in Erie are the following tips to consumers of anthracite coal, to be kept in mind when ordering from their respective dealers:

1. Order as you always have—by phone, letter or personal visit. No coupons are required.

2. Give your dealer a signed statement of the amount of coal you have on hand, the amount you used between April 1, 1942, and March 31, 1943, the amount you wish to order, and whether or not you have orders standing with other dealers, (if so, give details.)

3. If your yearly consumption of coal is under three tons and if you have not received more than one and one-half tons since Sept. 1, you need not furnish any written statement.

4. Order from your regular dealer. If you have moved away from your former dealer, or he has gone out of business, or you are a new user of coal this season order from your most convenient dealer.

Your dealer must deliver first to customers with less than one-fourth their year's requirement on hand. He will give second preference in his deliveries to orders from customers whose supply is more than one-fourth but less than one-half of the annual need. Your dealer may not deliver any more coal than you need to bring your supply up to one-half of your annual need. Your dealer must deliver in the order of your preference rating.

Warren today makes feeble efforts to stage various sports and it brings to mind that once Warren was a giant in the sports field with a great baseball team, national circuit bicycle races and other real events.

Warren police try the knobs of over 565 doors in making their nightly rounds about the city. And an average of three doors are found unlocked each night.

Decline of Relief Rolls In State Noted

Harrisburg, Sept. 14—(AP)—The state department of public assistance reports that 3,666 persons left the commonwealth's relief rolls in August, completing the fourth year of a steady decline that began with the first fighting of the war.

"At the time the German army commenced its invasion of Poland," said Secretary Samuel Y. Ramage in a statement, "more than 1,000,000 persons were listed on the rolls of the department and another 500,000 were receiving support through the federal program of work relief.

"Four years later, when the first Allied troops landed in Italy, less than 250,000 persons remained on the state assistance rolls and the federal work relief program had been discontinued because of the almost complete absence of unemployment."

He said the start of September saw 247,126 persons (157,658 cases) receiving state aid, consisting of 89,626 old-age assistance recipients; 111,337 persons, or 28,305 cases, aid to dependent children; 32,719 persons, or 26,333 cases, general assistance; and 13,394 blind pensions.

LETTER TO A PUMPER FROM HIS SON, OVERSEAS

Dear Dad,

You'd be proud of the job you're doing at home if you could see the job Pennsylvania Oil is doing over here.

Our outfit uses plenty of it. And I mean plenty. You pump it out of the ground. We pump it into planes and Zoom! off they go to bounce their bombs on Hitler.

These oils can sure take it—and they've got to. The pilots on these all night bombing raids "don't spare the hosses"... and that's no military secret!

Keep it coming, Dad. The more we get the quicker I'll get home.

Joe

No war material is more important than Pennsylvania Oil and no war work on the home front is more important than producing, refining, and transporting it.

High Grade Town

THE Hygrade Sylvania Corporation is one of the outstanding manufacturers in America of many types of electrical devices. Its spectacular growth in recent decades; the rapidity with which it has forged to the front in its field; its increasing expansion, almost without pause: all these things testify to the truly remarkable character of its executive leadership. Its present position among the industrial giants of Pennsylvania is one to challenge the imagination.

Warren, too, has its claims to distinction. Probably no lovelier site for a community exists anywhere, with its picturesque rivers and its green, enveloping hills. The character of its community life is unusually high. Its material standing is solid and substantial, without soaring booms or disastrous declines. Its workers are skilled, intelligent, and public-spirited. The level of its culture is far beyond anything usually experienced in communities many times its size

We are happy that a Hygrade Company and a high grade town have, in a measure, joined their fortunes. We expect to like the Sylvania people. We hope they will like us.

Warren C. of C. Dominant Factor In Upbuilding of Our Civic and Commercial Life

The Warren Chamber of Commerce, which is affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America and the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, has been, and is, a dominant factor in the civic and commercial upbuilding of the community. From the first, the purpose of the organization was to promote Warren as an industrial center, residential community and trading area. On this foundation it was built. Through the years succeeding, presidents surrounded themselves with capable and efficient associates who helped contribute something worthwhile to maintain the broad policy and sound character which continues to distinguish the Warren Chamber of Commerce today.

Even before Pearl Harbor the Chamber was active on a score of fronts relative to patriotic activities. Since our entr into the present World War the office of the Chamber o Commerce has been the medium through which various governmental agencies have functioned locally For example, an expert from the priorities section of the Erie office of the War Production Board is at the Chamber every other Monday for consultation on priorities. At other times many of our citizens receive guidance directly from the Chamber by reason of its close affiliation with the War Production Board. From time to time the Chamber has brought to Warren representatives of different governmental agencies. At such times meetings for retailers and manufacturers have been arranged. Governmental information, provided by federal agencies, as well as pertinent data provided by the State of Pennsylvania, are all available to the membership.

Under the supervision of the secretary, a valuable activity of the Chamber is the Warren Credit Information Bureau, which is affiliated with the Associated Credit Bureaus of America, the National Retail Credit Association and the National Consumer Credit Reporting Corporation. It is a fact-finding agency, with file information on activities and credit habits of individuals in Warren county. Investigations—credit, personnel, rental and private, are invited. It protects the interes of credit grantors and customers alike by issuing up-to-date confidential credit reports on all applicants for credit. Membership in the Credit Bureau is not restricted to members of the Chamber of Commerce. In addition to being of value to the community through its local membership, it compiles character reports for war plants and governmental reports requested by the office of the Provost Marshal and other reports usually of a confidential nature.

A considerable part of the work of the Chamber is conducted through standing and special committees. Two of the most active are the Industrial Development Committee and the Retail Merchandising Committee. The members of the latter are elected by the retailers themselves. Its activities are many-fold, all with the objective in view of aiding the retailers and through them the many thousands of patrons they serve, to the end that Warren may continue to be recognized as a foremost shopping center. In peace time it promotes numerous special sales events, conspicuous among which are the semi-annual Dollar Days, opening nights, decorative Christmas lighting, etc.

The governing body of the Chamber of Commerce consists of 15 directors elected annually. The present officers are: Donald C. Smith, president M. H. Deardorff, fist vice president; W. S. Clark, second vice president; L. A. Branch, treasurer; A. L. Langdon, assistant treasurer; Melvin G. Keller, secretary of the board; A. F. Kottcamp, secretary.

The board of directors consists of: Stewart Beckley, Roy L. Blodgett, L. A. Branch, Ralph E. Brasington, W. S. Clark, M. H. Deardorff, J. P. Fenstermacher, L. E. Fredrickson, Emmons R. Jones, Melvin G. Keller, Ben Kinnear, Byron W. Knapp, Donald C. Smith, W. A. Walker and W. H. Wright.

Warren's worst industrial fire wiped out the plant of the Jamieson Refining Company at Venturetown and burned for almost a full week.

Front View of Warren Branch of Sylvania

The new home of the Sylvania Products, Inc., on East Street was formerly one of the most attractive automobile salesrooms and garages in Warren. The brick portion to the front was used as display rooms and offices and the large concrete part to the rear with its close to 20,000 square feet of floor space was used for garage and workshops. The concrete portion will form the work plant of Sylvania.

When "Ben" Erskine Resided Here Some Years Ago He Was A Hard-Working Electrician

Radio has become such a thoroughly accepted part of life in America that it seems incredible that there was a time only a few years ago when it was scorned as a toy for children, a thing without the slightest commercial possibilities.

It was the firm belief in radio of such men as B. G. Erskine, chairman of the board of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., that played a large part in building the radio industry to its eminent position today.

Buffalo-born, "Ben" Erskine lived in Warren some years ago and at that time he was a hard-working electrician. He did more than fix short circuits in factories and homes. He studied nights and delved deeply into the scientific side of the electrical industry, and even more deeply into the commercial aspects of the business.

It was on November 27, 1906, Thanksgiving Day, that young Erskine arrived in Emporium to take charge of the installation of electrical equipment in the year-old Novelty Incandescent Lamp Company, established on the site of the old Howard lumber yard there.

He installed the equipment so well that the company hired him and within a few months he was put in charge of the St. Marys lamp manufacturing plant, where old, discarded, burned-out carbon filament lamps were salvaged and renewed. In 1909 he returned to Emporium and became superintendent of the plant. By 1910 he was general manager and his responsibilities and extensive offices had increased—but, as he smilingly recalls today, nobody in the plant was too high-placed to be above a repair job when a breakdown occurred. The old-fashioned gas engine generating plant frequently tested this attitude, and "Ben" Erskine and other executives would join the workmen, working all night Saturday, all through Sunday and Sunday night if that was the only way to get the repair made.

Later, when the company was owned by a large outside corporation, B. G. Erskine's name was on a door marked "President, Keystone Division."

In the post-war panic of 1921-22 Erskine and his associates, Guy S. Felt and J. C. Wortman, borrowed all the money they could and succeeded in purchasing the Emporium business from the corporation, which was on the verge of closing down the place. Hundreds of employes were saved from discharge.

When the Sylvania firm and the Hygrade Lamp Company of Salem, Mass., joined hands for further

Moving Will Be Completed OverWeekend

Typical of the efficiency and foresight of modern industry is the way Sylvania Electric Products Inc. anticipates things. It is common knowledge that manufacturers under present-day conditions must anticipate where to buy materials, how to ship finished products—these and dozens of other things are required.

But our hats come off to the leaders of Sylvania who first took over the Hubbard Building for a plant, then acquired additional machinery, working facilities and space in Cleveland, Ohio, then hired about two dozen Warren girls and sent them to Cleveland for intensive training in jobs they will perform when the new plant opens up here.

Armed in advance with this knowledge, it was less surprising to us the other day to find out how little time Sylvania expects to lose in effecting the actual transfer of operations to Warren.

"We will shut down Saturday night in Cleveland, and open up in Warren at seven a. m. the next Monday—there will be no lost working time at all," declared H. Ward Zimmer, manager of plant operations at the home factory in Emporium.

Second Largest Maker of Radio Tubes Is Coming

The world's second largest producer of radio tubes and third largest producer of incandescent and fluorescent lights and fixtures will open its newest plant in Warren the end of the month. The company is Sylvania Electric Products Inc., which has successfully competed with the largest companies in the electrical products industry.

When War Production Board officials appealed to all the companies in Sylvania's field, asking them to increase their production by any possible means the company which has headquarters at Emporium willingly expanded to the utmost.

Ultimately, the maximum had been reached, and Sylvania discovered a plant in Cleveland, Ohio, which was available and purchased it, with all its equipment and facilities. This is the plant that is being moved to Warren where greater opportunities exist for the finer, precision type of production personnel in addition to the cleaner, more healthful and comfortable working conditions that are here.

In keeping with the needs of the armed forces and the immense requirements of war industries, Sylvania plans to have a plant in Warren that will be considerably larger than the factory purchased in Cleveland. New machinery has been bought and some of the processing devices now in operation at Emporium will be brought here and integrated with the balanced program of production, according to Sylvania officials.

Charley McNett, of the Clarendon fire department is the oldest active fire chief in service in the nation and also in point of years served. He joined the Clarendon Department as a 'torch boy".

Down Through the Decades

1901—Typical American enterprise, courageous and far-seeing, led to founding of a new business firm at Salem, Mass., and St. Marys, Penna. Burned-out carbon filament lamps were salvaged and renewed by unique process. B. G. Erskine, a former Warren resident, was a vital figure in the St. Marys venture; and Frank A. Poor, a former hay and grain businessman, founded the Salem concern, and was later assisted by his brother, E. J. Poor.

1911—Under General Motors ownership, the Pennsylvania works expanded with Erskine at the helm, while Mr. Poor at Salem was joined by his brother, W. E. Poor, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and new lamps were added to the output—so successfully that 30,000 "Hygrade" (the new trade name) lamps helped to make New York's Broadway "The Great White Way."

1921—Mr. Erskine, and his close associates, Guy S. Felt, and J. C. Wortman, showed their fortitude by buying out their firm's new owner, General Electric, in the face of the post-war panic that threatened the jobs of hundreds of workmen. More than plain optimism was involved; their shrewd judgment soon led to the manufacture of radio tubes for the new, booming radio industry and spurred their operations.

1931—Hygrade Sylvania Corporation was formed, linking the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts plants, to make the world's largest independent producer of light bulbs and radio tubes. Two years later annual sales exceeded the $7,000,000 mark. Progress required a New York office which was opened in a skyscraper at 500 Fifth Avenue.

1941—By now fluorescent lamps had won wide approval from the public, after this company was among the world's first to make commercially practical lamps of this kind, and again the entire corporation gained new fame. Soon afterward the company became Sylvania Electric Products, Ind., and all the millions of products turned out at more than 15 plants today bear the proud name of Sylvania, a mark of distinction and merit.

1951—The post-war world is now seeing Sylvania's countless contributions to winning the war, formerly military secrets, harnessed in thousands of ways to work wonders in the daily lives of everyone.

Pnblicity Committee of Local C. of C. Goes To Work; Hearty Handshake By Business

The large spread of newspaper space that makes possible this welcome edition of the Times-Mirror reflects the close cooperative community spirit of Warren and Warren county business enterprises.

A publicity committee of Chamber of Commerce members headed by Emmons Jones as chairman, and supported by William Cannon, Byron Knapp and Plumer Printz, with the Times-Mirror regular advertising staff, approached local businesses with the thought of a "Welcome to Warren" issue of this paper to present to Sylvania Electric Products, Inc. Not in any way to boost their own varied products, the space used here today represents how graciously and heartily these enterprises responded to welcome Sylvania as a new industry to Warren's already diversified lines. Manufacturing, distributive, retail and fraternal organizations and many individuals expressed thanks to the committee for the opportunitl to join in the welcome to our new fellow citizens of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc.

Superintendent Is Among the First To Arrive In City

Arthur L. Chapman, who will be the superintendent of the new Warren plant of the Sylvania Products, Inc., has arrived in the city and is making his home in Pleasant township. He is the first of the group of men who will make Warren their home to really become a Warrenite. He is handling the changes being made in the Sylvania building and preparing for the coming of the machinery, etc.

He was born and reared in the upper peninsula of Michigan where his father was a machinist. When a boy Arthur Chapman enjoyed studying and working with manufacturing machines.

Upon completing his schooling in 1929 he went to Cleveland and went to work for a manufacturer of radio tubes, at the same time taking courses in electronics at Case School of Applied Science.

In 1933 he joined the Sylvania Company in Emporium and his first job was to set up and supervise the material inspection department. His work on materials took him to all the manufacturing departments of the plant so that he became familiar with all the various phases of the radio tube manufacturing.

His work rapidly gained him promotions and in 1942 he was made assistant superintendent of the receiving tube plant at Emporium which position he held until he was chosen to be the superintendent of the new plant in Warren.

Mr. Chapman is married and the father of three children. Until the war made 24 hours a day almost obligatory for the Sylvania head he was an ardent fisherman and hunter and a great lover of the out of doors.

Company I, 16th Regiment under the captaincy of Fred E. Windsor led the whole state in National Guard efficiency and was widely heralded in the press for that attainment.

Good examples of native stone structures are the First Methodist church in Warren and the Warren State Hospital, at North Warren.

Police Department Best and Most Efficient in History

Members of Force Not Only Prevent Crime But Engage In Myriad of Important Duties

One of the most important things in a modern city is the police department which has the handling of Public Safety in its control. In Warren the police department at the present time is perhaps the best and most efficient in its history. Not only is the personnel of the force the best trained and most efficient in the history of the city but the equipment of the department has reached a point where the citizens may be proud of it.

Not only is it the province of the Police Department to check crime but the myriad of other duties assigned to a Police Department during war times keeps the men alert and keen at all times.

The Headquarters at the City Building is the best equipped of any to be found in this section. The Chief's office, the deskroom and the cells of the department are all well arranged. In the basement is a revolver range where the men are kept keen eyed by constant practice.

A complete photographic outfit by which pictures of prisoners may be taken is a feature of the department's equipment. All convicted prisoners are photographed and finger printed and a complete Bertillion record compiled. The finger prints are classified and filed in the same manner as those of the FBI at Washington and the scales and measuring machines are of the latest design. In fact there are at the present time almost 5000 finger print records in the files here.

A two way radio outfit has been found to be of great use and the officers cruising the city in the police car are enabled at all times to keep in touch with the desk sergeant on duty. It also enables a quick response to calls made to the stationhouse and many times the officers have arrived on a scene before a crime had been completed.

The Department is headed by Burgess Raymond W. Steber. He came to the police department as chairman of the council police committee in 1929 and served four years in that capacity. Mr. Steber has been Burgess for the past ten years and during that time has headed the Police Department and added much to its efficiency.

The force consists of a chief and nine men, two lieutenants and seven patrolmen. George Haehn is chief of the department and is a Warren county man having been born at Grand Valley. In May 1921 he became affiliated with the force and served four years under Martin R. Wholeben as a patrolman. October 1st, 1927 he was chosen chief of the department. Schooled under the direction of the State Police School and with a diploma in the school of police experience he is a student of police work.

First Lieut. Michael Evan came to Warren from Sheffield and where he served as a deputy game warden receiving much experience as an investigator. He was added to the department in 1936 and has been a student of police work and has attended several police schools.

Second Lieut. Gordon Munn, was born and reared at Garland and was added to the department in 1936. He has specialized in traffic work.

Wallace Outrid, a world war veteran, has been in the department for 14 years and is a level headed officer. Clarence Park, one of the old Pennsylvania Highway Patrol, brought to the department his experience on a motorcycle and is a popular officer.

Ray Eckhart, now a patrolman, formerly a Captain, resigned the latter position due to ill health and is now on the night desk. He served 13 years in the department and is mainly responsible for the excellent finger printing and filing system now in use in the department. Charles Musante is a Warren High School graduate and became an officer in 1941. A life long resident of the city he is familiar with people and affairs. Gerald E. Conboy is also a High School graduate and is a snappy, efficient officer. Louis Gaghan was added to the force in 1942 and is a well mannered and clever patrolman while Wilfred Hewitt, formerly with the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, was added to the force in 1942 and is doing a good job as patrolman.

All of the men have been in attendance at the Police Schools conducted by the State and have added much to their efficiency by classes conducted at the headquarters at regular intervals.

It is believed that LaSalle, who went down the Allegheny in 1762, was the first white man to set eyes on the area that now comprises Warren county.

That little wire gadget in the ceiling of automobiles in which motorists hang their hats by inserting the brim was invented by the late Charley Young, of Warren.

tions, at his headquarters in Emporium.

Products to be manufactured in the Hubbard Building will contribute in an important way to Sylvania's war production program. A large percentage of the products being manufactured by Sylvania are going either directly or indirectly to the armed forces. Citizens of Warren employed in the new Sylvania plant can be justly proud of their contribution to the war effort.

Mr. Zimmer said it was possible to say that the plant would employ a sizeable force, the majority of whom will be women, and most of them will be Warrenites. A number of employees and officials will move to Warren from Emporium and from Cleveland, Ohio, he added.

New machinery, obtained under high military priorities because of the importance of the products to be manufactured, plus equipment already in service, will round out the facilities called for by the new establishment.

Town Crier Morrison opened the first court in Warren on November 29, 1819.

Starbrick, suburb to the west, takes its name from a brick company which was once located there.

growth and development in 1931, Mr. Erskine was elected president, a position he held until early this year, when he became chairman of the board of directors.

"There never was a more democratic, easy-to-talk-to fellow in this world than Ben Erskine," say his friends in Emporium, and that means everybody.

President of the Emporium Trust Company, Associate Judge of the County Court, chairman of the Ration Board, former Republican county chairman and still active in party affairs, Mr. Erskine lives in his Fourth street home in Emporium and maintains a summer place in Rich Valley, north of Emporium.

Allegheny Hiking Club Soon To Enter Upon Fifth Season

One of the organizations which has taken full advantage of the natural recreational facilities around Warren is the Allegheny Hiking Club. The club, organized in 1939, will soon enter upon its fifth season of Sunday afternoon hikes, beginning in late September and continuing through the winter and spring season.

Every section of Warren county has provided interesting trips for the hikers, as shown by the large map of the first 100 hikes, which is now on exhibit in Geracimos' restaurant. The enthusiasm of the club's activities has continued throughout its entire history, with an average of more than 20 hikers every Sunday. Newcomers to Warren or others who have not yet joined the group are cordially invited to start hiking when the 114th trip will be announced later this month. The trips are usually about six miles of hiking and frequently include some of the most beautiful territory and scenic views in western Pennsylvania, which are especially enjoyable in the colorful autumn season. Many of the Allegheny National Forest trails have been included and, although gasoline restrictions may prevent getting far enough away to enjoy some new hikes which are planned, it is hoped that these trips can be made in future months, and meanwhile many journeys near Warren are contemplated.

Nine School Buildings In the Borough Have a Depreciated Valuation of Over Million

The nine school buildings of Warren's free educational system, including their grounds and equipment, have a depreciated valuation of $1,683,290, according to an estimate as of the beginning of the new school term.

Highest of these is the high school, with a capacity of 960 and enrollment of 750, $458,403, and Beaty building, same capacity and registration of 800, $579,329. Smallest is the Seneca building, built for 80 and with 39 enrolled, value $27,-109. In between are these others, numerals indicating in order the capacity, enrollment and evaluation: East, 320-177, $114,674; Home, 160-117, $46,246; A. Bessie Johnson, 480-248, $96,019; Lacy, 520-253, $142,127; McClintock, 320-147, $91,356; South, 680-193, $128,-027.

The current emergency has made many changes in the curriculum and even more may appear. Greater emphasis has been placed on current events in all grades. Spanish has been made an elective in grades 11-12, instruction is planned in consumer education and dietetics and pre-induction courses have been introduced in applied mathematics and science, pre-flight aeronautics, electricity, machines, automechanics, radio, problems of war and peace, global geography, together with more physical education weekly. This last item includes one hour swimming per week and first aid as a required course.

Assistance has been given in all salvage fields and more such effort will be expended in the current term. Bond sales amounted to $39,135.26 in the school year 1942-43, while at the same time elementary pupils deposited $5,-626.44 in the thrift program. Able assistance of teachers, janitors and older students has been given in rationing and military registration.

A Junior Red Cross program has been set up in all grades and a large group of high school boys is registered with the Department of Forests and Waters as assistants in forest fire fighting.

At South street building, the machine shop layout represents an expenditure of about $25,000 on the part of the federal government and several thousands from the school district. This school has been training both men and women for entry into essential industries to release younger men for active service in the armed forces.

Children's Aid Society Has Served For Over Fifty Years

The Children's Aid Society of Warren County, whose chief purpose is to provide care for dependent or neglected children or children in need of some provision which their immediate families cannot furnish, has served in this stated capacity for over 50 years.

It has grown from a group of four or five interested women meeting in a member's living room to an agency equipped with offices, a board of 15 members, an office secretary and a social worker. The corporate membership includes some 300 people of the county.

The CAS performs a variety of functions, all of which lead toward the safeguarding of the welfare of children which, in turn, leads toward the development of sound future citizens. The program of the agency includes medical services, help and protection to the unmarried mother and her baby, aid for the problem child and security in adoptive and foster home placements.

Warren county is one of ten auxiliary to the Children's Aid Society of Western Pennsylvania. By means of this close alliance, with Mrs. Anna R. Ramsay serving as executive secretary, and Miss Kathleen Sibley as field representative, there is an opportunity for exchange of problems and services. Robert Dunham, treasurer of the local board, is a member of the board of directors of the Western Pennsylvania Society.

The executive committee of the 15-member board is comprised of: President, Mrs. George F. Wholeben; vice presidents, Mrs. B. V. Lesser, Mrs. J. Russell Elliott; secretary, Mrs. A. C. Jackson; treasurer, Mr. Dunham; advisor, John Stewart.

WARREN COUNTY DRAFT BOARDS

Warren county's two draft boards are among the 422 operating in Pennsylvania under the Selective Service Act passed on September 16, 1940. Board No. 1 covers all of Warren borough, Clarendon borough, Kinzua, Corydon, Pine Grove, Glade, Elk and Mead townships, the remainder of the county's 52 precincts being allotted to Board No. 2. Their membership and office personnel is as follows:

No. 1

R. C. Thompson, chairman; Maurice R. Emery, secretary; George Q. Calderwood, member; Rose F. Juliano, Ann N. Draheim and Margaret Lundgren, clerical workers; R. Pierson Eaton, government appeal agent; M. A. Kornreich, advisor to registrants.

No. 2

Warren J. Kay, chairman; Fred A. Shaw, secretary; John J. Wolfe, member; Helen Peterson, Helen Yeagle and arian York, clerical workers; Warren Stone, government appeal agent; L. C. Jamieson, advisor to registrants.

Starl Rowland, old Warren riverman had fame on all of the three rivers for his prowess as a wrestler and battler in the old Red Lion at Pittsburgh. Starl had a hold known far and wide as "the grapevine twist" which caused him to be feared by even the boldest of sweep pullers.

Warren's first movie house was started on Hickory street by Bob Criswell of Bradford. Then followed a deluge with one where the Blue and White is now located; one in the room occupied by the Cozy Corner and one operated by Tom Bacher in the room just vacated by the Townsend Club, while Frank Emerson opened one on the East Side.

The Warren Lodge of Odd Fellows is among the oldest fraternal organizations in the borough. It was organized February 27, 1849.

County Has Enviable Record For Services Given By The American Red Cross Chapter

Even before this country became actively engaged in the war which has spread to so many countries and involved so many peoples, the American Red Cross was busy with efforts to alleviate the sufferings of millions of people and prepare for any emergencies and a study of approximate figures for a year's output is proof that Warren county's chapter has had no small part in this task.

Production hours stand at the approximate figure of 104,602, in which 7,492 garments have been completed, 229,167 surgical dressings have been made, 794 kit bags sewed and filled, 1,300 pounds of yarn have been knitted up, 11,553 yards, or about seven miles, of material have been fashioned into garments.

First aid instructors numbering about 60 have taught basic and advanced first aid to classes totaling 600 persons and aim to have "a first aider in every home". Since it was started only a short time ago, the functional swimming class has given three inductees the primary swimming lessons that may save their lives and 60 persons in 13 classes have received junior and senior life saving. The nursing group has graduated four classes of nurse's aides, whereby 63 actives have already provided nearly 8,000 hours of voluntary service; 260 persons have completed the 22 home nursing classes. Six nutrition classes have graduated 185 individuals.

There are at present approximately 1,600 blood donors on its rolls, 80 having already earned their silver pins for three donations and a number of others registering for their fourth. The mobile unit is brought from Buffalo two days each month for this purpose.

Junior Red Cross memberships have been enrolled through the public schools, until now the whole county has been covered in this program of instruction, in good citizenship and other topics.

The home service department has lent a hand to 700 Warren county boys and girls in the armed forces, its activities extending from home front to prison camps and hospitals abroad.

Staff assistants to carry on this immense program number 22, augmented with hundreds of others who have volunteered for some phase of the work being turned out.

A Cigarmakers' union was organized in Warren December 1, 1877, and at one time was one of the strongest organizations in the community.

Warren Council, Knights of Columbus, was organized in 1905 and formerly met in a hall over 223 Liberty street.

"West Point" Control Center of Pennsylvania

Since Regional Director Al Cotton has frequently referred to the Warren Control Center as "The West Point Center of the State" and army and civilian authorities have praised its efficiency and personnel, readers will enjoy picking out friends in the above picture of its "cadets", taken on the steps of the municipal building a few days ago. —Picture by Stokes.

Congratulations to the

and its employees on the opening of the new Warren plant!

May we also take this opportunity to bring this message to every new employee—our present and future customers—about the Great A&P Tea Company's policy of bringing you "better foods at lower prices"!

We've devoted over 83 years to fighting that old bogey, the High Cost of Living. And we've turned in victory after victory against that insidious enemy of the pocketbooks of America's families. To keep prices down, we've short circuited the routes foods travel from producers and growers to consumers' market baskets. We've established direct quick routes that save handling and transportation costs . . . and we've shared these savings with our customers. We've even lowered our profits for our services . . . to make our values bigger. Here's the proof: In 1942 our profit per dollar of sales was 79 one hundredths of one per cent (about ¾ of a penny on each dollar rung up in our cash registers)—in 1941, it was 1.22%. And here's our pledge to you: We'll continue to battle rising prices . . . to bring you the biggest food values possible. We want your dollar to buy more at A&P!

WAGON TONGUE BATS

Ball players with Warren's pennant winning Iron and Oil league team originated the name as night after night they would prowl the country lanes until they found a farmer's wagon parked out of doors. They would saw off the tongue and have Harry Parks turn it into baseball bats.

Justice H. S. Perry, white whiskers and all, held forth as Justice of the Peace here for a myriad of years. At one time he was a partner of John D. Rockefeller and John Archibald in the Titusville oil field. He was also a personal friend of Phineas T. Barnun. He held an autographed pass to all entertainments owned by the great showman.

Odin Lodge No. 1, Scandinavian Fraternity of America, has been meeting regularly since it was chartered March 14, 1888.

Warren County Defense Council Earns Enviable Record

Two Distinct Branches Of Service Are Organized With School Unit Also Functioning

Organized June 6, 1941 by proclamation of the Warren County Commissioners, the Warren County Council of Defense has gone steadily forward until it has earned an enviable reputation among similar units in this state.

The local defense set-up is headed by Allen M. Gibson, with P. C. Ostergard, R. W. Steber and J. K. Bell as other members of the executive committee. Under this plan there are two distinct branches of service, with F. W. Waite directing the protective units and W. T. Corbett guiding the war services groups. Working with these as director of training courses is School Superintendent John G. Rossman.

As commander of the county control center, Mr. Waite has under his supervision the following chiefs of service: Air Raid Wardens, W. C. Stuart Fire Wardens, Douglas G. Kropf; Auxiliary Police, George F. Haehn; Emergency Medical Officers, Dr. T. K. Larson and K. E. Forsgren; Emergency Welfare, Miss Frances Schimmelfeng; Rescue Squads, Chief Kropf; Decontamination Officer, Lt. Victor VerMilyea; Road Repair Crews, C. W. Barwis; Demolition Squads, Lt. Gordon Munn; Forest Fire Fighter Service, George E. Spinney; Disaster Relief, N. D. Paterson; Pennsylvania Minute-Men, Captain C. D. Cannon; Communications Officer, Harold Passinger; Public Utilities, John Fenstermacher; Evacuation Authority, P. C. Ostergard; Industrial Protection Division, MacLean Houston; Transportation Officer, Clifford Johnson; Red Cross, C. J. Crary; Pennsylvania State Police Liaison Officer, Pvt. Leslie G. Fobes.

Under the County War Service Council are these county chairmen: Consumer Interests, Food Conservation and Nutrition, Mrs. H. W. Conarro; Nurse's Aides, Mrs. W. E. Lutz; Block Plan, Mrs. Palmer Davis; Speakers' Bureau, Rev. J. C. Wygant; Agriculture, Leo E. Johnson; Education, H. L. Blair; Victory Gardens, Edward W. Johnson; Business Organizations, A. F. Kottcamp; Publicity, C. A. Berger.

Rounding out the defense council program in Warren county, Youngsville's unit is headed by I. A. Schnell; Sheffield, Francis Borden; Tidioute, W. C. Tompsett; Sugar Grove, F. A. Schoonover.

Allan Gibson

BOARD OF HEALTH

Meets at Municipal building the last Friday of each month at eight p. m. B. H. Donovan, president; M. R. Overturf, vice president; Dr. E. S. Briggs, secretary; other members, Paul Braunschweiger and Cecil Winans. Ralph N. Brown, health officer.

One of Warren's finest and most impromptu fireworks displays took place when Andy Ludlow dropped a cigarette into the midst of a fireworks display of Frank R. Scott, one Fourth of July night. The fire department halted the display.

Eva Tanguay sang "I Don't Care" and scattered pennies from the stage in Warren when brought here by the Columbian Athletic Club.

Many Groups Cultural In Value Are Active in Boro

Along with its industrial and educational advantages, Warren is particularly fortunate in having many groups which might be termed cultural in value, each contributing to the special interests of a membership group or to the public entertainment and morale.

One of the finest social buildings in the community is the Woman's Club, whose rooms and auditorium may be rented for special functions and whose program for its members cover fields of music, literature, art, community service and, at present, wartime activity of a varied nature.

Meeting in this same clubhouse is the Philomel Club, music group which observed its golden jubilee last season and has been instrumental in bringing to Warren some of the finest solo and ensemble artists in the music field. Presenting its concerts here, also, is the Warren Concert Association, a purely local, non-profit group organized for the purpose of bringing to Warren the best musical attractions available on its limited budget.

For several seasons the Lecture Forum of the local YMCA has brought outstanding speakers on a variety of topics, presenting them to the public from the Woman's Club stage.

From this same stage are presented the public productions of the Warren Players Club, now entering its 14th season and enjoying a reputation envied by many near-professional playhouse groups. Along this same line, the High School Dramatic Club has several evening programs annually that provide good entertainment and are a fine preparation for those who graduate into the older dramatic unit. High school students, too, are responsible for many pleasant evenings through the medium of choral, orchestral and band presentations.

Warren has a very fine conservatory of music, headed by a man who has earned international fame through his writings and compositions, Dr. LeRoy B. Campbell. In addition, there are many skilled teachers in private studios of voice and instrumental instruction.

Very active YMCA and YWCA units, each with its own building, service clubs for both men and women, nature and science organizations and others fraternal or social in nature add much to the community's intellectual and cultural attainments.

Warren Public Library

Few people who daily walk by the Warren Public Library building on Market street are aware of the fact that its inspiring inscriptions are the work of the late Harvard University president, Dr. Charles W. Eliot, composed expressly for this beautiful structure, erected and dedicated in 1916 as a memorial to Judge and Mrs. L. D. Wetmore, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Henry and Mrs. J. P. Jefferson. They read:

BIOGRAPHY—THE STORIES OF LIVES THAT COUNTED IN THEIR TIMES FOR LOVE OR HATE FOR MISERY AND WOE OR WELL-BEING AND JOY.

HISTORY—THE STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE, IN CONFLICT WITH NATURE AND WITH ITS OWN ELEMENTAL PASSIONS BUT EVER ASPIRING.

LITERATURE—THE STOREHOUSE OF KNOWLEDGE, THE RECORD OF CIVILIZATION THE FULCRUM FOR THE LEVER OF PROGRESS.

PHILOSOPHY—THE THOUGHTS OF MEN ABOUT HUMAN THINKING REASONING AND IMAGINING AND THE REAL VALUES IN HUMAN EXISTENCE.

RELIGION—REVERENCING TRUTH, SERVING JUSTICE PRACTISING GENTLENESS MERCY AND RIGHTEOUSNESS AND LOVING GOD AND THE NEIGHBOR.

The 1943 annual reports of the Warren Library Association show that here, too, has been felt the pressure of the rapidly increasing wartime atmosphere, demonstrated in somewhat lower circulation figures but in an ever-growing demand for assistance to readers seeking information about the war and plans for the post-war peace.

Circulation figures stood at 159,595, with a per capita loan of 10.6 volumes for the 60% of Warren's population registered as borrowers. Originally planned to house 75,000 volumes, the building's present collection figures have reached 61,808.

In addition, the Library Association still maintains its document library over the theatre in the Struthers Building, Third and Liberty streets, with an attendant on hand daily from 3:00 to 5:00 p. m.

The association's board of control has H. L. Banghart as president; W. Floyd Clinger, vice-president; Mrs. Allison Wade, secretary; Elmer T. Lundahl, treasurer; William H. Wright, book chairman; Mrs. C. W. Beckley, art chairman; Robert W. MacKay, finance chairman; E. D. Wetmore, building chairman; Charles Miller, Raymond W. Steber and Spencer L. Myer, members.

The staff, headed by Head Librarian Leon I. Jones, consists of the following: Catherine Henderson, Martha Branch, Olive Archibald Huff, Mrs. John W. Lutz, Miriam Richardson, Betty Brann, Lilith Lacy.

The late Dr. Harry Barnhart built in its entirety one of the first automobiles that chugged about the streets of Warren.

Allegheny River Has Had Large Place In U. S. History

In the current issue of the publication of the Department of Internal Affairs published by the State of Pennsylvania there is an especially interesting article relative to the Allegheny river. The article is entitled "The Allegheny River and its Place in History". The river is yearly assuming more and more importance and the article follows:

The Allegheny and Ohio watersheds have received considerable attention in these columns at the hands of the late Dr. Herbert Snow. Quite a few inquiries have come to the Department from persons in the western part of Pennsylvania asking for further information on this subject since the discontinuance of these articles following the death of their author. For these it may be noted that a book which has received considerable notice since its publication last year, "The Allegheny," by Frederick Way, Jr., illustrated by Henry C. Pitz, Farrar and Rhinehart, Inc., contains much of interest. As a glance at the map will show, the Allegheny is a natural link between the Lake Erie country and the Ohio River, a waterway which early served as an emigrant route to the West. There were several headwaters. Christian Schultz Junior made use of one when on a freshet he keelboated down French Creek from Waterford to Pittsburgh in the summer of 1807, feasting on venison, wild turkey and Allegheny River pike and catfish as he floated along. Emigrants from northern New York and New England made use of another way when they flatboated and rafted down the hill-bordered Allegheny proper from what is now Olean, N. Y. There in the spring, season of freshets, surrounded by their portable possessions, they eagerly awaited transportation to the deep black soil of the Promised Land. A third route, also used by the emigrants bound for the Ohio or Mississippi country, was used as late as 1868. Captain Way reminds us, by a big store boat, which came down Conewango Creek from Lake Chautauqua to peddle her pans and panes on the Ohio River.

Captain Way and a young friend made the Olean-Pittsburgh cruise in May, 1938, and Captain Way's description of the wildness of the Upper Allegheny will set many a man itching to take a canoe and get up there. Then, having made this initial survey, he begins an impressionistic sketch of the history of the river from the days of LaSalle to those of Captain Tom Clark, whose dramatic voyage down Allegheny from West Hickory to Pittsburgh in 1919 was made to reprove that the river was navigable. He quotes an English map maker, Lewis Evan's description of the English manner of trading with the Injuns which is too good not to be true. Judging from the names of the traders Lewis mentioned, one may hazard the Irish bull that more of his English traders were Irish than English. The author has made George Croghan a personality in a sentence: "The last is a Dublin Irishman who is a meer Idol among his countrymen, the Irish traders, and the Indians from whom he has taken a Squaw to wife." Captain Way goes on to tell how Celoron's expedition started planting its famous lead plates in the Allegheny at Warren and Franklin, how George Washington fell into the Allegheny above what is now Pittsburgh. He draws on Great-Grandmother Mary Anderson Way's early memories of Pittsburgh for the intimate local happenings of the pioneer town.

At this time the latitude and longitude of the Allegheny were greatly in its favor. It had gravity on its end. The most eastern headwater of the Mississippi, the most northern headwater of the Ohio, the Allegheny had the whole of the Ohio and lower Mississippi country below it. Consequently Allegheny River salt packed meat in St. Louis. Allegheny River timber built houses of Louisville, Natchez and New Orleans, for the Allegheny preceded the upper Mississippi as the lumber yard of a nation building it way westward. Hard, blue Allegheny River ice tinkled in the julep glasses of Nashville planters. Allegheny River cobbles and boulders, gift of a generous glacier, paved the streets of Cincinnati. How much latitude and gravity helped in all this can be realized from the fact that Captain Way reports that blocks of Allegheny ice have sailed serenely by the city of New Orleans.

Salt, lumber, ice, sand-and-gravel and oil, and the greatest of these was oil. Oil gave the valley such place-names as Oil City and Oil Creek and Petrolia, but that story must be read to be appreciated. It is part and parcel of the history of the "internal affairs" of Pennsylvania.

A Hearty Welcome to You

Warren's Oldest industrial institution welcomes you to our city. Our Company was established here in 1851 and has steadily grown since that time.

In normal times we supplied the Chemical, Petroleum, and Process Industries with Heat Exchangers, Condensers, Mixing Equipment, Driers, Fractionating Columns, and various items of special alloy and carbon steel.

At the present time we are continuing to do this for our customers who are turning out material to help win the war. This covers such industries as Chemical Plants, High Octane Gas Units, Synthetic Rubber Plants, Nitric Acid and Ammonia Plants, and other confidential Army, Navy and Maritime projects.

Coming of Sylvania Recalls Other Pleasant Invasions

Visit of General Irvine and Andrew Ellicott Is Recalled By Latest Addition to Boro

(By Joe Warren)

Well, I see we are having another invasion with those Sylvania folks coming into our territory. An' I am glad to see them, too. Seems to me as if there has been just one invasion after another in Warren, why it only seems yesterday that I looked up and down the Conewango came floating a crew of Frenchmen back in 1749. They held a Solemn Mass on the banks of the Allegheny and then floated off down the river, burying lead plates as they went. If we only knew where those plates were we could use 'em in the war effort.

And then in 1795 Gen. Irvine and Andrew Ellicott invaded the valley again and laid out a town which they named for Me. A lot sale followed and all of the lots were sold and the valley was really invaded. In 1800 plenty of folks came in and Dan Jackson established a sawmill from which a raft of pine was floated down to Pittsburgh.

Later still, Warren was invaded by a band of German settlers and still later came an invasion of Swedes and all of them made the fine folk that inhabit this region. Warren's history was always sort of placid and calm with never an incident that might be termed sensational. Perhaps the greatest thing that ever happened here was the Flood of '65. They was the highest water I ever saw in this valley. Gracious, it swept thousands of feet of lumber and hundreds of barrels down the river.

The oil men for a time were sort of tempestuous but they were fine fellows and tumbled about the hills sinking holes here and there bringing out millions of golden dollars. The tanners too with the bark-peelers had their day and they were rewarded by more gold all of which went to make this section great.

And always they were thoughtful of the other fellow. Today Warren perhaps has more kind-hearted folk than most anyplace else. For the kiddies we have a Crippled Children's Society and many a little one has been aided back to health and strength by this group of folks. And the Tuberculosis Society, with its nurse, affords rare help to some unfortunates, while the Visiting Nurse is a Godsend to many others. The Warren Relief Society and the Children's Aid are two more grand organizations.

And, just so man in Warren won't have to live alone, there are any number of fine organizations. Of course, there are the churches with their scores of activities, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. with handsome buildings and ambitious programs. And the lodges—gracious me, what a lot of them are here and some have been functioning for years on end.

The clubs, too—the Elks, the Moose, the Conewango Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Knights of Columbus, American Legion, and the Sons of Italy, all social organizations where among his fellow men we Warren fellows can mingle and enjoy fellowship.

And don't forget those service clubs, the Rotarians, Kiwanians, Lions and Exchange Club fellows, and the Zonta and Business and Professional Women's clubs

The hills around Warren also provide fun and health. Where the padded foot of Cornplanter's boys fell in the woods the Boy and Girl Scouts now enjoy hiking; picnic spots galore are to be found and at the observatory, near Heart's Content, folks can gaze at the stars and "the glory of the firmament." The woodlands abound in game and the streams in fish. Truly, a great place to live.

And right at our dooryard the county's farms are producing good things to eat. Over 2100 farms are producing the fruits and grains we need while the cackle of the hen and the gobble of turkeys betokens feasting when one so desires.

The town is well organized socially and there is always room for lots more folks to be tucked into our busy life and made welcome at our fireside. I am certainly sure I am glad to see those Sylvania folk coming to Warren. For years I heard the Sylvania Foresters sing and cavort around their camp fires, so we welcome them to ours and will move over and make a place for them where they will be right at home. So, move right in, folks, throw another log on the fire and let the blaze rise higher. Welcome.

WHAT A LAUGH THE KIDS GOT IN PARADE

Remember the big Columbus Day parade at the time of the Chicago Worlds Fair? The bike was in its prime and Supt. of Schools W. L. MacGowan built a working oil well to peddle in the parade on his bike. It was top heavy and what a laugh the kids all got to see him trundling the thing in the parade with split coat tails flying and both hands too busy to wipe the globules of sweat from his face.

WAS GREATEST HOME TALENT STAGE SHOW

"Pinafore" staged by local talent under the direction of the late W. A. Alexander was undoubtedly the greatest home talent staged during the past 50 years. Alexander painted and built the scenery and was stage manager and director. Mabel Ross was Little Buttercup, Bert Bell sang Dick Deadeye, Amos McAlpine was Ralph and Charlie Crandall was "The Ruler of the Queen's Navee."

Big fleets of rafts in the eddy in the spring when the freshets swelled the river. Jim King took many of the big Alleghenies down stream.

Many Fine Camping Spots In Easy Distance of the Borough

Out-of-door recreation is always a problem for residents of every community and during the past decade Warren has put forth efforts to secure plenty of out-of-door fun. The war period has curtailed much of this, but nevertheless there is plenty to be found. Right at Warren's door are the Conewango creek and the Allegheny river, with hundreds of cottages and camping spots, while in the Allegheny National Forest, Hearts Content and Sandstone Springs, with myriads of spots for camps, are to be found.

And now the Veterans of Foreign Wars are arranging to supply the need of a supervised, pure water swimming pool where young and old may find bathing. The organization has just purchased the Lindsey farm in Pleasant township, which will be a Mecca for out-of-door enthusiasts.

The farm is a large one and on two sides it is bounded by the Allegheny National Forest. This land is now being surveyed and when all is done competent planners will lay out the site for the swimming pool with a picnic area, lands for sport of all kinds, etc.

The Veterans have proceeded slowly, but anticipate that once the committee in charge has its plans properly blue printed, activities will increase. It is planned by the organization to conduct several "bees" during which members of the body will take part in doing the work.

This is a wonderful project and within the coming years the spot will become the Mecca for thousands of Warren folk. The Veterans are winning wide commendation for their efforts.

While Warren as yet has had no fines imposed for an infraction of the Civilian Defense regulations it is interesting to note that all fines for such violation under an Act of the last legislature go to the treasury of the municipality where they occur.

Data Concerning Air Mail Pick-up Service at Warren

Two Round Trips Are Made Daily Between Pittsburgh And Jamestown, N. Y. Points

Warren was one of the offices located on the experimental Pick up air mail service placed in use by the All American Aviation, Inc., on May 13, 1939. The experiment was continued for one year and then discontinued, pending investigation by Congress and their approval for placing on a permanent basis. The service had proven so satisfactory that it was placed on a permanent basis on August 22, 1940, with one round trip daily. In July 1942, two round trips daily, from Pittsburgh to Jamestown, N. Y. were in operation, giving excellent service to Warren and nearby offices, as well as to offices as far east as Emporium and intermediate places.

The number of pieces of mail dispatched from the Warren office has consistently increased from month to month as shown by the data given.

The volume of mail handled via the Air Mail Pick-up system for the year 1942 is as follows:

Mail volume, (pounds)	301,117
Mail volume (pieces)	7,088,103
Express volume (pounds)	106,303
Express volume (pieces)	8,577
Hours flown	7,987
Pick ups made	50,757
Gasoline used (gallons)	146,506
Oil consumed (gallons)	1,690
Operating percentage	93.5

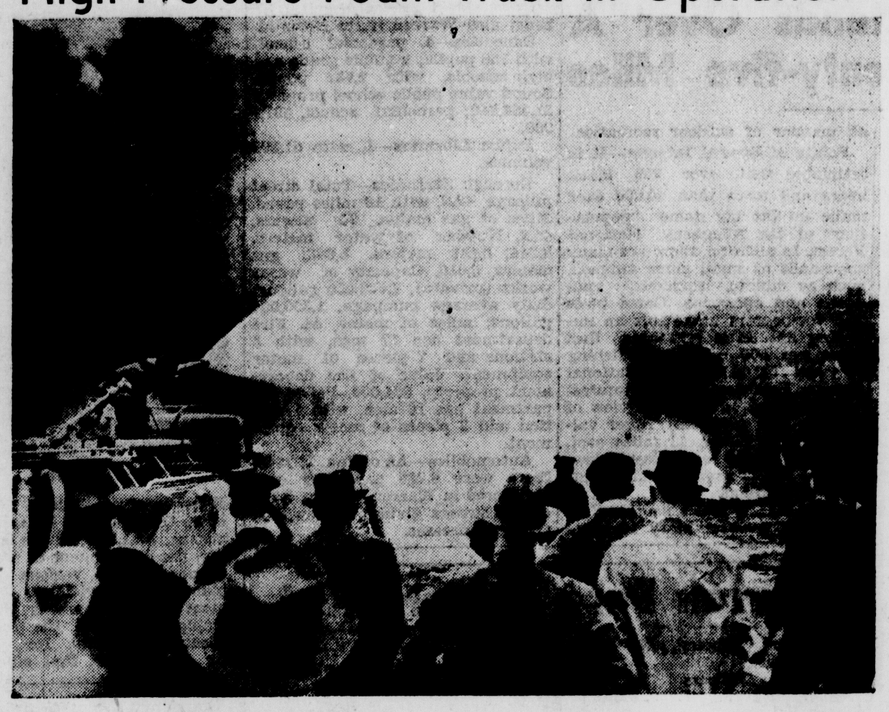
The various Airports in use are not lighted for night flying, therefore the time of arrival and departure varies with the hours of daylight. At present the planes leave the Warren Air Port at 9:25 a. m. and 1:32 p. m. for Jamestown, N. Y. and 10:13 a. m. and 5:35 p. m. for Pittsburgh, Pa. Mail should be in the Warren office 45 minutes before the leaving time of the plane to insure dispatch thereby.

The plane leaving Warren at 5:35 p. m. makes connections at Pittsburgh, Pa. with the trunk lines, giving fast service to the entire United States. Mail will reach:

Detroit, Mich. at 9:16 p. m.
Columbus, Ohio, 9:30 p. m.
Chicago, Ill., 9:17 p. m.
Amarillo, Tex. 4:13 a. m.
Los Angeles, 9:12 a. m.
New York City 11:38 p. m.
Cleveland, Ohio, 8:22 p. m.
Washington, D. C. 8:20 p. m.
Norfolk, Va. 9:52 p. m.
Milwaukee, Wis. 11:33 p. m.

An interesting sight, that has been watched by thousands, is the accuracy and speed of the pick-up of mail by the plane swooping in close to the ground at 90 to 110 miles per hour, catching the pouch and rising again in to the air toward the next station.

High Pressure Foam Truck in Operation



The above picture of Warren's High Pressure Foam Truck in operation appeared in the Jamestown Post-Journal at the time it was demonstrated at the New York State Fire Chiefs' Convention this year. The truck is the only one of its kind in use affording the use of high pressure lines, foam mixer and foam lines and has a water apron so that it can be operated close to a fire.

What excitement reigned years ago when the fire bell rang! How Tom Wallace with a team of horses would dash from the Wallace livery to the old city building, hitch to a hose cart and dash to the blaze.

Workers Plan Meeting On Welare Work

Six northwestern Pennsylvania counties comprising Region No. 1 of the Pennsylvania Welfare Conference will be represented at a citizens' conference on social welfare to be held at Meadville on September 21st.

"Adjustment of Social Services to War Time living" will be the general theme of the morning, luncheon, and afternoon sessions to be held in Grace Methodist Church.

Among those taking part in the program are: Mrs. Marjorie Lenz, of the county probation department of Buffalo, New York; Miss Margaret Rich, of the Family Service Society of Pittsburgh; Dr. William Hartwell, of the University of Buffalo; Dr. Leonard Rosenzweig, of Warren State Hospital; and Mrs. Mary Denman, President of the Pennsylvania Welfare Conference.

The Conference will open at 10 a. m. Counties in Region No. 1 are Erie, Warren, Crawford, Mercer, Venango, and Forrest. James H. Auld of Mercer is chairman of Region No. 1 Executive Committee, and County Commissioner Wesley J. Reitz of Meadville is local chairman of the Conference.

Warren's City Hospital One Of the Finest

Announcement in a special Associated Press dispatch to the Times-Mirror that a measure just added to the statute books will "require all hospitals to take footprints of newly-born babies as well as fingerprints of mothers" emphasizes the often-repeated statement that Warren has one of the finest and most up-to-date hospitals in the country.

The demand that all hospitals adopt this protective measure will recall to many women who have borne babies in Warren General Hospital that such footprinting of their progeny has been a regular part of the hospital's routine for a good many years. Each baby born in the maternity ward is immediately footprinted and prints of the mother's right hand are filed on the same card.

This is only one phase of service in which the local institution is far ahead of many other hospitals of its comparative size and financial standing. It is operating most efficiently today with a greatly depleted medical and nursing force and is yet meeting satisfactorily the hundreds of demands made upon it daily.

Welcome Sylvania to Warren

National Forge Extends Greetings and Best Wishes to SYLVANIA ELECTRIC PRODUCTS, Inc., and Compliments its Good Judgment in Locating in the Warren Industrial Community

EVERYONE interested in the Warren County Industrial Community will take great pride and satisfaction in adding the name of Sylvania to this region's growing list of prominent manufacturers.

This new Warren Industry already is nationally known and nationally famous for the quality and utility of its products. Sylvania has well earned a position of high repute in the ever-advancing fields of radio, electronics and illumination.

In coming to Warren, we are sure Sylvania not only will find a sincere and hearty welcome throughout this community but will also find Warren people quick to appreciate the high standards of product and management which have characterized this fine Company for many years.

Warren is a community accustomed to making quality products requiring high craftsmanship by skilled workmen. The workers at National Forge — to give just one example — have made such a fine record for high-precision work on heavy-duty steel forgings for the U. S. Army and Navy that they have received three "E" awards and three White Stars for sustained excellence in production.

Quality is a tangible word in Warren. So is Cooperation. Warren always has been a public-spirited community with a sure sense of civic pride. The Warren record for War Bond buying and Red Cross contribution — including blood donors — is outstanding for a city of Warren's size and production. That's why it is such a privilege to be one of the many who are extending a Warren Welcome to our new friends and neighbors of Sylvania and wishing this fine Company all the success its Warren location can personify and produce.

Warren Co. Potato Growers' Association Already Sending "Blue Bags" Into the Market

Warren county potato growers are now watching their ripening crop with an eagle eye as the potato crop this year promises to be a good one. From all indications the bank accounts of the members of the Warren County Potato Growers' Association will be appreciably swelled by the receipts this fall.

The association composed of farmers and businessmen has had a most splendid effect on potatoes growing in this county during the past decade. The haphazard growing of potatoes has been thrown into the discard. Tested varieties suitable to this climate are now specialized in. The fields are carefully prepared for planting and the spraying, etc. is done with meticulous care and as a consequence the acrops have grown in volume each year.

Already the "Blue Bag" in which the Association members pack their well graded potatoes are coming into the market and the buyers have learned that the "Blue Bag" is a sign of quality.

It is confidently expected that this year the crop will amount close to 200,000 bushels in this county. Last year over 150,000 bushels were sold by the Association members.

Miss Ella Mae Jensen, of this county was one of the contestants for the 1943 Potato Blossom Queen at the Camp Potato Contest held in Potter county and the honor went to Miss Carolyn McHenry, of Benton, Columbia county.

In this county the season's first marketing and grade supervisors school was held at Pittsfield and more than 50 growers and grade inspectors took part. The grading of the potatoes is one of the big features of the marketing program and at the Pittsfield school it was pointed out that the grade supervisors must be true to themselves, to their employer, to their association and to the consuming public.

The following from the county were qualified or requalified as association local grade inspectors: Oscar Lauger, Youngsville; Harry Long, Pittsfield; Ed Leofsky, Garland; Homer Gibson, Warren; Ellsworth Reynold, Torpedo; Mrs. Carl Spelling, Bear Lake; Harold A. Martin, Torpedo; W. D. Finzer, Pittsfield; George Lauger, Youngsville; W. C. Leofsky, Garland; Homer Lindell, Akeley and Fred D. Madis, Youngsville.

WARREN A RESORT FOR PITTSBURGH FOLK

Warren each year is exercising more and more charm on the folks of the Pittsburgh region. Scores of cottages below Warren on the river are owned by Pittsburgh people while above Warren several have summer homes. The beauties and good angling along the Allegheny in years to come will make this an admirable place to enjoy the summer time.

RAILROADS TAXED BY FREIGHT TRAFFIC

Railroads at the present time are taxed to capacity by the demands made in the moving of freight cargoes over the lines. The New York Central branch into Warren carries no passenger traffic, nor does the River Division of the Pennsylvania, both being devoted exclusively to freight. The Philadelphia and Erie Division carries both freight and passengers. The Pennsylvania now has 14 crews stationed in the city with numbers of extra crew men and to that end has a large number of rooms leased in a house on Fourth avenue, where the men are quartered. Never in many years have there been so many men employed here on the railroad.

GARDNER'S ROCKS GOAL FOR HIKERS

Gardner's Rocks, to the east of the city just beyond the State Hospital farms there, form a goal for scores of hikers each summer and fall. The walk into the rocks is not difficult, although no automobile can be driven in. The rocks are massive and are so formed that persons may make their way to the top which, like palisades, flank one side of the valley. Springs are nearby, furnishing sparkling water for the picnic parties and corn roasts and other outings cause many to visit the spot. Pike's Rocks, near Chandlers Valley, also form another interesting spot for visitors.

The Warren Chapter, Eastern Star, has been in existence since May 3, 1907.

The Royal Arcanum, recently reorganized in Warren, was originally Romana Council No. 181, chartered Feb. 11, 1888.

Large Force of Men Schooled For Use in Case of Wartime Service or Peace Emergency

Warren's Auxiliary Firemen, organized under the skilled direction of Fire Chief Douglas G. Kropf, is another group of Civilian Defense Corps trainees that might prove of real benefit to the community not only through wartime service, but in case of any real emergency of a peacetime nature.

Those who have taken the special training program and are listed by Defense Council as qualified Auxiliary Firemen are as follows:

Paul F. Mathis, Peter G. Yaegle, Wilford A. Winner, James A. Seitz, John W. Bennett, James H. Frantz, Leland A. Webster, Charles H. Frantz, Basil L. Weiderhold, C. HAIRPIN TURN ONE OF STATE'S BEAUTY SPOTS

Hairpin Turn on the road between Warren and Kinzua is one of the most famous beauty spots of the entire state and in its beauty far exceeds that of the Delaware Water Gap. The view from the turn on top of the hill is magnificent and for 22 miles the landscape is spread out in rare attractiveness. Thousands drive over this highway just to enjoy the view and every year finds the number increasing.

Lieut. Eben N. Ford Post No. 336, Grand Army of Republic was organized in the Hoffman block, where the Kresge store now stands in May, 1883.

Chief Cornplanter Post No. 135, American Legion, was organized November 11, 1919, and the first quarters of the post were on the third floor of the Citizens' National bank building.

Warren Airport Sufficien In Size to Handle Almos Any Type or Make of Plan

Of distinct advantage to a community such as Warren is the proximity of an airport which may be used for training purposes, which is of sufficient size to handle practically any plane that might be flown here on a business mission and has both mail and express pick-up service twice daily on the ever-expanding system of American Airways, Inc.

Looking ahead to increasing air travel, the Warren Airport is admirably located for easy access, allowing business men to reach the heart of town quickly and without great expense.

Although not of a size to land the great passenger and heavy express planes envisoned for the future, the local port has been used without trouble by pilots of AT-6 and AT-9 trainer classification, has played host to a navy amphibian and those who know say that any experienced pilot could set dow P-40 on its runways. Stand Oil has sent in a Spartan Exe tive, the size of plane most lik to be used by business in the n future, and its landings seve times annually are negotiated w little or no trouble.

Mail and express are sent and ceived twice daily in round trips the pick-up service and several s cial consignments picked up h have been of the 1,000-pound cl

I've stood in front of the Court House for many long years, offering a drink of cold water to all who wished. And I've gotten pretty well acquainted with Warren. In my silent way I've welcomed many a newcomer to this village. Now I hear another business will soon make Warren its home.

To the Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., I give my hearty welcome. I'm sure this new business will find Warren a fine place to work and a happy place to live. To live well, one must have good things to eat. This the people of Warren find in a group of independently-owned stores, the Nation-Wide Stores. These food stores, eight of them, are doing a successful business at

Welcome

Sylvania Electric Products, Inc.

Here's a rousing round of welcome to Warren's newest industry, Sylvania Electric Products, Inc. We're sure you'll find the ease and informality of the small town combined with the dignity and broad outlook of a much larger place. You'll delight in our hills and river, our institutions and community life. May you soon look upon Warren, not as the new place where you've settled, but with that warm friendliness of your own home town.

Floridin Company was incorporated in 1910. Thirty-three years of continuous operation with principal office in Warren and plants in Quincy, Florida, and Jamieson, Florida.

The business of Floridin Company originally consisted of mining, manufacturing, and distributing fullers earth of a quality and peculiar formation found no place in the world except in Florida and Southern Georgia. A great portion of the production of fullers earth is of necessity used in the manufacture of lubricating oils.

Floridin Company has developed over the past few years one of the best equipped laboratories for research and experimentation in its particular field of oil decolorizing and absorbents in general. The laboratory, located in Warren, is well staffed with an able group of graduate chemical engineers and assisants. Through its research activities Floridin Company has discovered a number of new processes and products. The principal products, including fullers earth, are highly essential as war materials, and are so recognized by the War Production Board.

Authorization of Kinzua Dam Is Made Part of Flood Control Program for the Upper Ohio

Authorization for the erection of the Kinzua dam on the Allegheny river about 15 miles upstream from Warren has been made as a part of the flood control program on the waters of the upper Ohio. The flood control plan for the Allegheny valley comprises a series of dams, deepening of channels, etc., by which the ood waters can be controlled.

Of all the dams on the program, the Kinzua dam is the largest and will be the most expensive, the cost having been estimated at $37,000,000, including property damage and relocation of roads and railroads. This dam will be of concrete and will be slightly larger than the famous Tygart river dam at Grafton, W. Va.

The building of the Kinzua dam will mean the expenditure of huge sums of money in this section, as most of the money will be spent for labor and material, much of which can be secured here. Its building would be a matter of years.

The plans of the U. S. engineers call for the use of the Kinzua project as a dam to impound flood waters, as one to keep down the pollution of the stream and as a power project. This latter object is being viewed with the most interest in this section, as cheap power would make for much added prosperity in the post-war period.

Due to the importance attached to the construction of this dam, it would not be surprising if the coming session of congress would make an appropriation for its building. The importance of the flood protection plan was accented by the floods of last spring, which did much damage to war plants along the lower streams. The stoppage of essential war work has led to planning by the U. S. engineers to seek appropriations for key projects.

The Crooked creek dam, Mahoning dam and Tionesta dam have been completed and it was estimated that during the flood times their use controlled the height of water in the Allegheny at least two feet. U. S. engineers hold that the dams on the Monongahela and its tributaries also had a large effect and saved thousands of dollars at points along the Ohio.

With the end of the war, further extension of navigation on the Allegheny is also anticipated. The stream is now navigable to a point 60 miles above Pittsburgh—East Brady. Ten dams have been built and three additional dams would bring the slack water to Oil City.

During the war river navigation mounted to new highs. The Port of Pittsburgh during the war has broken all records. Pittsburgh has more commodities pass through its port than the Panama Canal. Inland water transportation has been demonstrated by the war to be safe and sure and the cheapest of all transportation. Had the Allegheny been slack-watered to Warren, it would undoubtedly have rivaled any valley in the world for business.

With a myriad of good industrial sites along the shores of the river and with the finest silica sand in the world in the hills along its banks and in the bottom of the stream itself; with coal, oil, limestone and other natural resources, the Allegheny valley has a real future.

And there is always the possibility that with the Allegheny slackwatered up to French creek that the French creek route could be used to Erie in the much-discussed Ohio-to-the-Lakes canal.

Warren is vastly interested in the Kinzua dam and the general feeling is that its building will add to the prosperity of the residents of this section.

It's a far cry from the old stone lock-up at the river's edge opposite the Carver House to the sanitary steel lock-up of the present police station. Can't you still see John Utter struggling down the long stairs to the lock-up with an inebriated lumberjack whose spiked shoes clung to every wooden step?

Former Warren Man Gaining Recognition for His Work for Polio Victims In Fort Worth

The following feature story which appeared in the Fort Worth-Star-Telegram, of recent date, will be read with much interest by older citizens who will recall when A. B. Vera, now of that city, was a member of the faculty of the Warren High school:

BY STANLEY GUNN

"Mister A. B." is the "busiest man" of the week—for this or any other week since early in July.

"Mister A. B." as he has been known since coming to Fort Worth 34 years ago, is A. (for Adams) B. (for Blake) Vera, white-haired secretary-treasurer of the Tarrant County Infantile Paralysis Association.

Since July 6, when the drive began to obtain $50,000 for infantile paralysis treatment, (the unpaid) Vera has been working some 50 hours a week and donating also the services of his business staff of five women at Vera-Reynolds Insurance Company. He pays the staff time and a half for Saturday overtime, when they try to catch up on his insurance business, and is paying "double" for those who forego their usual two-week vacations.

"We started off with the idea that Fort Worth always takes care of its own citizens," he said, "and now the entirely voluntary campaign has gone over the top with nearly $10,000 additional which undoubtedly will be needed."

Collecting nearly $60,000—and a great part of it in nickles and dimes—keeps Vera and his business staff going from 9 a. m. until after 5 p. m.

"There have been more than 200 children in this office with their jars of change," Vera estimated. "One day it took three of us to carry about $4,000 in change to the bank."

Deposits are made daily and they range from $15 the first day to $6,000 July 26. Each deposit slip lists the donors.

Two phones ring "constantly" Vera said, and he receives a half dozen or so calls at home.

"For the past month we've done practically nothing else but handle donations," Vera said. "The children come in and we tabulate the money, send them over to The Star-Telegram to have their pictures put in the paper, fill out a report on the collections and then go to the bank."

He praised the contribution of the newspapers, and said they have a great deal to do with the success of this voluntary campaign.

Fort Worth has raised "more money than any other city in the State," he said, and has received many letters complimenting the work of the local group.

When the campaign began the local association had only $2,200 in the bank. "It seems to me that everyone in Fort Worth has contributed at least once and there have been contributions from Handley, Arlington, Everman and all over the county," he said, "and many persons have contributed many times."

"Bill Green, the school superintendent, for instance, said that 'all the kids remember me and come around for donations. I am glad to give every time'."

The association has an agreement with Harris Memorial Methodist Hospital that all cases will be accepted.

"If the patient can pay for all or part of the treatment, we make an investigation and take care of the expense. But no patient is turned away and treatment is not delayed."

Thirty-seven cases are now being financed by the association and in the past some 200 patients have received aid. Detailed reports are sent to the national association, which gets half of the funds raised at the annual President's Birthday Ball. Treatments can cost thousands of dollars, and iron lungs, respirators, hot packs and other expensive equipment must be bought.

In addition to his unpaid position as secretary-treasurer, Vera is active in many other organizations.

He has been a Rotary member since 1913 and hasn't missed a meeting yet. He plans his vacation so he can maintain his perfect attendance record and has visited clubs from New York to San Francisco and from Miami to Minneapolis.

Other organizations in which he has served include Salesmanager's Club, Girls' Service League, Council of Social Agencies, Community Chest, Moslah Shrine Temple, Masonic Lodge No. 148, Knights of Pythias, Fire Underwriters' Association, Dramatic Order of the Knights of Khorassan, Glen Garden Country Club, Fort Worth Welfare Association and First Presbyterian church. He has been secretary-treasure of the infantile paralysis association since it was formed in 1935.

Vera was born in Petroleum Center, Pa. He taught school at Warren, Pa., studied law at New York Law School and Dickinson College where he was a member of Delta Chi. He graduated in 1903 and after practicing law went to Quincey, Fla., where he was in business until he came to Fort Worth.

Start Mailing Soldiers Gifts Overseas Now

Expecting to handle more than 10,000,000 Christmas packages for soldiers overseas, the Army has announced its wrapping regulations and set a time limit for mailing.

Only packages mailed between September 15 and October 15 can be handled. Normal restrictions on overseas mailing—particularly the requirement that the package must have been requested by the soldier—have been lifted for Christmas parcels.

More than 10 per cent of the gifts mailed last year were delayed because of faulty addresses. The address should include the soldier's full name, rank, Army serial number, service organization and unit, army postoffice number, and port of embarkation postmaster.

Gifts should be securely packed and wrapped, but in such a manner as to permit ready inspection—every package must be opened, examined and rewrapped at the port of embarkation.

Most of the cement walks used by residents of Warren at the present time were laid by our present Street Commissioner E. T. Beck, Marcus Larson and the Cappellety Brothers.

North Star Lodge No. 241, F. & A. M., chartered in December, 1848, is the oldest fraternal organization in the county.

Route 6 Chief Artery To The Outside World

As showing the strategic value of Route 6—the Roosevelt Highway—the only highway in the United States routed from the tip of Cape Cod to the Pacific coast—the heavy truck traffic rolling over it is pointed out. The route is the most direct to the east and to the west and the big trucks laden with war goods roll over it night and day by the thousands.

Route 6 is Warren's chief artery to the outside world both east and west and in the post-war planning for a National Highway it should be the logical choice. Political influences are at work to carry the proposed National Highway up into New York State, where it would traverse a section of Route 20, which is anything but a direct route east and wes..

State Senator L. E. Chapman is urging State Secretary of Highways Shroye to push the claims of the Roosevelt Highway for recognition in the post-war plan for a super highway east and west. Senator Chapman proposes that Route 6 be made a six-lane highway throughout its length, that the grades be improved and that the construction be urged by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Warren Lodge No. 223. B. P. O. E., was organized in June, 1922, and has been located in the present club house at the corner of Fourth and Liberty for about thirty years.

FACTORY STILL USES CREEK WATER POWER

A throwback from the good old days when huge water wheels furnished power for manufacturing plants in this section is to be seen at the Phenix Furniture Company plant. A dam in the Conewango creek diverts water to the company's plant, where it is still used to furnish power. The demand for power, however, is greater than is furnished by the water wheels, hence has to be supplemented by steam.

Warren Fire Department Second to None in Entire Area

Finest Equipment and Well Trained Men Serve to Keep Down Local Insurance Rates

In locating a manufacturing plant in a community one of the most important items to be considered is the efficiency of the fire department in the place of location. In coming to Warren the Sylvania Elecric Products, Inc., gave due and proper attention to the department which protects Warren's industrial interests from the ravages of fire. Another item for consideration is the matter of insurance rates.

In this connection Warren is most fortunate in that it has a fire department which over a decade has established a record for small fire losses and which by the efforts of the department have caused the insurance rates to drop. The loss by fire to Warren industry during the past ten years has been light and there have been many incipient fires stopped before they gained sufficient headway to become a problem for the firemen. The insurance rates reflected this and Warren today has one of the lowest insurance rates in the country. Only the fact that war conditions prevail operate to keep installations by the Water Company being made thus affording further reduction in the insurance rates.

During the past decade the Fire Department has been almost entirely rebuilt under the direction of Fire Chief Douglas G. Kropf. The equipment of the department has been added to in such a manner that the men are trained in the handling of the most modern fog and vapor nozzles, pipes of various kinds and in the handling of industrial fires. A constant survey of the industrial section of the city is made and the hazards studied with a view of handling them in an emergency.

The department at present has a modern aerial ladder truck carrying a complete emergency lighting set operated by a small gasoline engine; life net, salvage covers, swabs, brooms, etc. In addition there is an American LaFrance pumper with cellar, wall and other pipes, an assortment of nozzles of various sizes and tips. Also at the Central station, there are three stations in the city, is one of the most modern pieces of apparatus to be found in the United States. Designed and built by Chief Kropf it is designed for fighting fire in high value areas. This truck is equipped with a pump and also a turret pipe and deluge set capable of firing 1200 gallons of water per minute on a blaze. It also carries a foam mixer and 1200 pounds of foam while a water apron can cover the apparatus at close up work. Here too, in the Central Station is an emergency truck equipped with stretchers, tools of all kinds and chemical tanks. A complete first aid box is also on this truck equipped for the treatment of burns, cuts and other injuries. A station wagon for hose pick-up and hydrant repair is also at this station.

Douglas G. Kropf, who has served as fire chief for the past ten years and has rebuilt the fire department into the smooth running machine it is today.

It is interesting to note that the high pressure truck with the emergency truck were designed and built by men of the department and the total cost was slightly less than $7000 for the two trucks.

On the East Side Engine Company No. 2 is located and this truck equipped with a cab to protect the men from the weather is equipped with a pump, hose, chemical and booster tanks. In the Fourth Ward Engine Company 3 wll soon be housed in a modern fire station on Pennsylvania avenue. This is now being built and is fast nearing completion. Here is a pumper truck equipped similar to that on the East Side.

The department is fully paid and has 16 men and the chief on the payroll and the men have all been given especial training regular classes being maintained in various phases of fire fighting. At the rear of the fire station much work is done by the men. At the present time there are several new men on the staff and they are undergoing various pbases of the work under the care of the Fire Captains.

In addition to the equipment owned by the city the OCD has loaned to Warren for the duration about 1000 feet of hose, three pumpers, two of which have been mounted and are available for emergency in any industrial plant, several complete uniforms of rubber trousers, boots and coats. Thirty-five auxiliary firemen have been in training in the use of this apparatus and this group is at present being trained in an advance course of fire fighting with especial reference to incendiary and similar fires.

It's a far cry to the efficient fire department of 1943 with its Gamewell Alarm system and annunciators, its hook-up with industrial plants, schools, hospitals and business houses from the old department of scores of years ago. The new apparaus, equipment and trained men are all modern and efficient.

In addition to the local department the fire departments of the county have a reciprocal arrangement whereby in event of a fire apparatus equipped with the same thread as Warren hose or adapters whereby every piece of apparatus in the county can be drawn into Warren.

A simiilar reciprocal arrangement has been worked out with several of the cities in this section: Kane, Bradford, Jamestown, Corry, Oil City and Titusville that in event of emergency they, too, may be called up.

The Warren County Good Roads Association was functioning in a big way twenty years ago with E. W. Cooney as president and E. M. Lowe, secretary.

General Joseph Warren Chapter, of the Daughters of the American Revolution was organized Feb. 22, 1911.

Warren Court, Catholic Daughters of America was organized November 25, 1923.

Playhouses In Boro Furnish Best In Movies

Warren can point with pride to the entertainment which is provided to its citizens by Warner Brothers, who control both theatres in this city. For many years both theatres were operated independently, but some years ago Warner Brothers, during their period of expansion, acquired a long-term lease on Library Theatre and later purchased the Columbia.

Library Theatre was erected by Thomas Struthers on a site purchased by the people of Warren. At the time of its opening it was one of the finest playhouses in this section and during its life as a legitimate house some of the most famous stars of the stage trod its boards. For a time it catered to Warren with plays and pictures. Leased by the Columbia Amusement Company of Erie, it was modernized and later the Warners took it over.

The Columbia was erected by James D. Woodard, who was active in its management for several years and later it was leased to various persons, the Warners finally purchasing it.

Both houses present excellent pictures and George C. Sarvis, Warner's representative in Warren, gives Warrenites excellent entertainment and is highly cooperative in all civic projects, extending every possible aid that the theatres can give.

CORNPLANTER LANDS SPOT OF INTEREST

Tourists to this section are frequently attracted by the fact that the Cornplanter Indians have their lands on a grant made to the old Chief along the banks of the Allegheny river above Warren. The lands contain little of interest with the exception of Cornplanter's Monument, erected by the State of Pennsylvania. However, many of the Indians have baskets and other articles for sale.

WOODLANDS ASSURED FOR FUTURE TIME

The woodlands to the north of the city have been assured for all time by the action of a group of men in the city headed by Charles Conarro. They raised a sum of money and established a forest which was presented to the city. This will preclude the cutting of timber on the hillside and will at all times preserve the beauty of the hillsides. Ensconced in the trees is Washington Park with its picnic facilities.

FURNITURE FACTORY USES ASSEMBLY LINE

Assembly lines in the making of automobiles, airplanes and mechanical devices are really old stuff at the present time, but the introduction of an assembly line into a furniture factory is something new. At the plant of the Paramount Company on the South Side an assembly line has been introduced and results are excellent. The company has completed a large number of contracts for the U. S. Government, in addition to its regular lines.

WELCOME--

to Sylvania Electric Products, Inc. from the Banks of Warren

WE WELCOME this thriving industry as a fine addition to those already established here in Warren County. The entire community prospers as its industries flourish,---because increased payrolls mean better homes---better living---better business for all---happier people.

THE THREE BANKS of Warren, as always, welcome any opportunity to cooperate with industry. Money and banking services are basic necessities in production, the same as men and materials. From their reservoirs of credit, Warren's banks provide financing to build and equip factories, buy materials, meet payrolls, in order to bring the might of production into action! And workers find a friendly welcome in their personal banking affairs! To the management, and to employees,---

Again We Say---Welcome, Sylvania
